SUMMARY.

The King and Queen are touring the Midlands. They have visited Nottingham, Mansfield, and Welbeck Abbey.

The Rest of England beat Douglas's South African team by an innings and 189 runs.

A further attempt is to be made to recover the 800 bodies in the sunken hull of the Empress of Ireland.

The Czar entertained the officers of the visiting British squadron at luncheon at Tsarskoe Selo.

The German Emperor has formally opened the Kiel Canal.

The visiting British fleet saluted the Emperor as the Imperial yacht emerged from the canal.

The nine victims of the recent dirigible-aeroplane collision at Vienna have been buried in a common grave.

As the coffins were lowered, 20 aeroplanes, draped in black, circled above the grave.

The president of the National Aerial League states that the trial of the new automatically stable hydroplane was a success.

Herr Basser made a continuous flight with an aeroplane, lasting 18 hours, at Johannisthal, which is the record.

Canadian immigration officials declare that every possible effort will be made to prevent the Hindus from landing.

Herr Schiemann, in the "Kreuzzeitung," declares that the policy of M. Poincare must sooner or later lead Europe into war.

The strike of postal employees in Paris for improved working conditions has ended.

It is stated that many parts of South Africa are likely to become useless through the soil drying up.

Many titled ladies assisted in the celebration of Alexandra Day in London.

Twenty thousand people sold roses in the streets in the cause of charity.

The P. and O. stockholders have approved of the scheme for amalgamation with the British India Steam Navigation Company.

The Home Rule Amending Bill restricts an elector to the exercise of one vote.

Nationalists in London are organising a committee to assist in equipping Irish volunteers.

Terms composing all international differences between the United States and Mexico have been finally arranged.

Zacatecas, an important city in Central Mexico, has fallen into the hands of the Constitutionalists.

It is stated that General Huerta is trying to provoke a fight with the Americans, in order to force intervention.

The leaders of a revolutionary plot to assassinate the President of Ecuador have been arrested.

The Premier stated yesterday that there would be a full inquiry into the circumstances of the Boorabil purchase.

Mr. Wade reiterated his contention that in the circumstances a Royal Commission was imperative.

The State Parliament was yesterday definitely called together by proclamation for Tuesday, July 7.

The feature of the Premier's pre-sessional speech at Cootamundra will be a statement upon the public works policy.

A train from Oatley, on arriving at the Central Station yesterday morning, crashed into the buffer stops.

The bump threw a number of passengers about the carriages, but no one was seriously injured.

The final session of the Parliament of Victoria was opened yesterday by the Governor. The session will be a short one.

The concession to be given to builders' labourers in Victoria will increase the cost of railway works by £10,000.

The boy, under 5 years of age, who was lost, in the bush in the Tweed Heads district, has been found.

He showed remarkable endurance, having been out for nine days and nights without food.

At the inquiry into the waterside fire the evidence showed that the origin of the outbreak was a mystery.

When the flames first appeared they were, it was stated, of a distinct bluish colour.

It is to be part of the policy of the Government to make the tourist resorts more accessible to people of small means.

A campers' reserve is to be provided within three-quarters of a mile of Jenolan Caves.

A reduction of duty on linseed oil was opposed before the Interstate Commission.

Some startling evidence was given regarding the danger besetting workmen using whirlend.

At a meeting of the Victorian Ministerial party, Sir A. Peacock was given a cordial reception as Mr. Watt's successor.

Mr Watt will probably resign his seat next week.

It is stated in Labour circles that enrolment cards are being applied for in vain at many suburban post-offices.

Vessels which have been waiting for coal at Newcastle have had to leave without cargoes.

The delay in loading is occasioned by the coal strike. The interstate trade has suffered considerably.

In the House of Representatives the Supply Bill for three months, totalling £2,060,026, was passed.

Another Supply Bill covering £754,939, for new works and additions, was also passed.

The expenditure included an item of £75,000 for the Federal Capital.

A bill to enable the Government to continue the iron and steel bounty to the extent of £10,000 was passed.

It is anticipated that the Federal Parliament will rise this week.

Two packets of gelignite were discovered on the tram rails in Neutral Bay.

The police have gleaned practically no information as to how the explosives got on the line.

A deputation from Waverley, Manly, and other councils waited on the Lord Mayor to protest against the towing of garbage to sea.

The Lord Mayor said the garbage problem was one for which they had yet to find a satisfactory solution.

The New Zealand Parliament was opened yesterday.

The Governor's Speech was colourless, though it indicated signs of expansion in trade.

A bill is to be introduced to promote the iron and steel industry.

Four policemen carrying Gladstone bags are endeavouring to serve the 700 summonses on the northern miners who struck work.

They say that there is no possibility of finding even half the men in time to give seven days' notice.

THE FOUR ISLANDS
Which form the EMPIRE OF JAPAN proper. Walter Dening, the well-known author, scholar, and traveller, says:—
"Hokkaido (Yeso), the most northerly, may well be left to the sportsman and ethnologists. Hondo, the Main Island, contains most of the 'lions,' but all who desire to see something of Old Japan should devote some time to the two southernmost islands of Shikoku, and, above all, Kyushu."
Those who wish to see Japan during the world-famous "Season," should secure berths without delay.
If going to JAPAN, go by the "N.Y.K." ROUTE.

GOOD STYLE AND SERVICE

IN READY-TO-WEAR SUITS.

Men who do not wish to go to the expense of special tailoring for the short winter season have an excellent alternative in the Peapes' Ready-to-Wear Suits.

These smartly-cut suits are fashioned to closely represent made-to-order garments.

It is this high standard of workmanship which has made the House of Peapes notable throughout Australia for ready-to-wear productions.

The materials used in these suits represent choice selections from new importations of winter woollens.

We quote three suits from many:—

D.B. SAC SUIT,
In PLAIN BROWN DIAGONAL TWEED, 2-Button Coat, Seam and Vent back, Permanent cuff bottoms to trousers .. 52/6
Also in DARK GREY SCOTCH TWEED, with Pencil Stripe .. 52/6
IN BLUE VICUNA of fast indigo dye .. 63/

We commend these suits for winter wear, not alone on account of their warmth, but also because the dark shades of the materials are appropriate for this season.
Please state chest, waist, and inside leg measurement when writing.
Patterns and Men's wear catalogue on request.

BUSINESS ANNOUNCEMENTS.

COMMONWEALTH PATENT, No. 10,151, and dated the 4th day of November, 1907, for an invention entitled "A Process for Rendering the Whole of the Nutriment Constituents of Grain, Pulse, and the like Accessible to Digestion." The Public of the Commonwealth of Australia is hereby notified that all reasonable requirements in regard to permission, upon royalty, for Manufacturers to employ the said process in Australia, in accordance with the above Patent, will be satisfied by the undersigned (at reasonable cost) on application being made to him. The invention is of great importance and technical value, inasmuch as it makes the nutriments contained in the abovementioned foods accessible to digestion. Under former treatment of grains and pulses, the essential properties in such foods, being enclosed in insoluble cell-walls, were unaffected by the digestive fluids, and, therefore, a minimum only of nourishment was obtained by the consumer.

THE PREVALENCE OF WHOOPING COUGH.

Whooping Cough is one of the commonest diseases of children, and, as every mother knows, is attended with much danger to the little ones. Unfortunately the malady is very troublesome and tedious, and may be attended with chest and other complications. It usually attacks children under the age of seven years. In the case of very young infants the malady is most serious, and often fatal. In all large cities whooping cough is more or less prevalent in a scattered form, and is readily communicated from one child to another. At intervals of a year or two an epidemic of the trouble is likely to occur. Whooping Cough commences with an ordinary feverish cold, a dry tickling cough being usually present, and which is particularly troublesome at night, sometimes keeping the little patient awake for hours at a time. After about a week the second stage of Whooping Coughs begins. Violent and prolonged fits of coughing occur, and the familiar "whoop" is also heard. It is most distressing to hear the little one cough, cough, cough, until the face becomes purple and the eyeballs protrude from the head. It is not easy to detect Whooping Cough in the first stages of the disease. Sometimes a pink and swollen condition of the eyelids may be taken as a forerunner; once the well-known "Whoop" is heard the nature of the ailment is of course at once apparent.

HOW TO CURE WHOOPING COUGH.

You want the best mixture that can be procured. Do not waste valuable time in experimenting. Remember that every hour is precious, and delay may result in one or more of the troublesome complications which so often attend this ailment.

BONNINGTON'S IRISH MOSS

has proved for half a century the most valuable medicine for the treatment of Whooping Cough in Children. Mothers know from experience that a dose of "Bonnington's Irish Moss" administered to a coughing child will subdue the most violent spell. A moderate use of the preparation is all that is required to effect a complete recovery, but of course in case of the attack being severe, longer perseverance in the use of the medicine will be necessary.

THE CHILDREN LIKE IT.

The difficulty with a great many Whooping Cough mixtures is that they are not made palatable, and trouble is experienced in getting children to take them. "Bonnington's Irish Moss" stands alone in this respect, and is so delicately flavored as to be readily acceptable by the most fastidious child.

CAUTION!

Beware of Imitators!

BONNINGTON'S IS THE ONLY GENUINE IRISH MOSS, and the only one capable of performing all that is claimed for it. Don't be induced to try something "JUST AS GOOD"—Get BONNINGTON'S.

If the name is right the cure is assured.

WATERSIDE FIRE.

INQUIRY OPENED.

MYSTERIOUS OUTBREAK.

An inquest was held yesterday before the Acting City Coroner, Mr. Fincham, into the circumstances relating to the fire which occurred at the North German Lloyd's wharf at Miller's Point on Saturday night, June 13.

Mr. J. M. Rooke appeared on behalf of the various insurance companies interested; Mr. Christie on behalf of the Harbour Trust; and Senior Sergeant Carson for the police.

Walter Frederick Smith, day watchman employed by the North German Lloyd Shipping Company, said that when he went off duty at 6 p.m. the wharf was locked up after having been swept up by some labourers. The electric light was switched on by witness at 5.25. He had a full view of the interior of the shed. There was a stack of copra packed in bags about a third of the way down the shed. There was no other inflammable material on the wharf as far as he new, the bulk of the other cargo lying round being marble and cement. Electric wires ran through the shed from end to end, and as far as he knew they were unenclosed in piping. His company enforced the "no smoking" rule on the wharf strictly.

John Murphy, night watchman employed by the North German Lloyd Company, said that he took up his duties on June 13 at a few minutes before 6. At no time during the night did he enter the shed, but remained outside all the time. No one else entered the shed at any time while he was there. From half-past 8 to the time of the fire he paraded the north side of the wharf. At 10 minutes to 9 he was at the shore end of the wharf, and glancing down along the shed he saw flames shooting up towards the roof of the shed a little more than half-way down the length of the wharf. The blaze did not appear to come from the floor. The flames had a distinct light blue streak running through them. The fire was about two feet below one of the cross beams, which he could see distinctly, and was apparently in the centre of the shed. He immediately went to the telephone and rang up the fire brigade. He also rang up the manager of the company and the wharfinger, and when he came out the first fire engine had arrived. He opened the gate, and showed the firemen where the water plugs were, and then went outside, and saw that the flames were spreading very rapidly. Though he passed the spot where he first saw the fire a few seconds before he saw no indication of a blaze.

The Acting Coroner: Were you strictly sober on the night of the fire?—I am a teetotaller.

Patrick Quinn, nightwatchman at Dalgety's Wharf, said the first he saw of the fire was a burst of flame through the apex of the roof of the shed, about midway down its length. The whole roof, from east to west, practically broke into flame at once, and it spread with great rapidity. The flames were bluish coloured.

Charles Brown, nightwatchman employed at M'Ilwraith's Wharf, said he considered that the flames first burst through the roof about 300ft from the east end of the main shed. After the fire he was shown the place where copra was stacked, and thought that was where the fire originated.

Joseph Creeke, officer in charge of the Gorge-street North Fire Station, said that the alarm was received at the station at about 8.55. When he arrived at the wharf the shed was ablaze from end to end. It was mere guesswork to offer any explanation as to the origin of the fire.

Mr. Rooke: What was the water pressure like that night?—Very poor.

What was the salvage corps doing that night? Look at all that tobacco that was burned. Surely they could have saved some of that?—The salvage corps was there, but they could do nothing. The tobacco was stored in the shore end of the wharf, and when we arrived there the flames were rushing through the front doors, and the heat was terrific.

Mr. Christie: I was there at ten minutes past 9, and it was impossible to get near the wharf.

The inquiry was adjourned until 2 o'clock on Tuesday.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

LAUNDRY CARTERS.

Having heard the evidence of employees, Mr. N. Seale, chairman of the Transport Group of Wages Board, has adjourned the further hearing of the laundry carters' claims for a fortnight. In the interval, a conference will take place between the parties in the hope of shortening the proceedings. If an agreement can be arrived at, it will be submitted to the board, to be made an award.

SURVEYORS' LABOURERS.

The Minister for Lands has, at the request of Mr. J. Devine, secretary of the Surveyors Labourers' Union, issued instructions to heads of departments to adhere to the terms of the union's award, and employ only union labour.

FERRY STEAMERS.

Following a complaint made at a recent meeting of the Mosman branch of the P.L.L., a letter was written to the Navigation Department, complaining of the impossibility of opening advertising windows on the ferry steamers because of brackets. The letter, in reply, states that the innovation is contrary to the Navigation Act, and will have to be removed.

CONTRACTOR SUES ORGANISER.

INTERESTING LEGAL POINT.

WENTWORTH, Thursday.

A very interesting legal point cropped up during the hearing of an industrial case at Cal Lal, near Lake Victoria, yesterday.

William Hooper, who is the A.W.U. representative on Lake Victoria station, was proceeded against by Jas. W. Duncan, contractor, under section 12, subsection B, Masters and Servants Act, 59, of 1902, for that he did, by words, attempt to violate an agreement which one George Rogers had entered into to serve with Jas. Duncan in the capacity of a labourer.

Mr. W. R. Cater appeared for the informant.

The police magistrate for the district (Mr. W. A. Flynn) pointed out that the information as drawn disclosed no offence, and he laid it aside. Mr. Cater asked the police magistrate to exercise his right to charge defendant in person under the clause referred to, and accordingly Hooper was charged that on or about March 22, at Cal Lal, he did, by words, induce one George Robert Rogers, a servant, to attempt to violate an agreement which he had entered into with his master, James Williamson Duncan.

The section of the Act reads: "Causes, induces, or persuades any servant by words or by other means whatever, to violate or attempt to violate any agreement whether in writing or not which he has entered into to serve with any master."

The evidence went to show that Rogers went to Duncan and asked for work on the Nulla woolshed, for which Duncan had the contract. In his application he included two others, Palmer and Johnson. Duncan agreed to take them all on as labourers at 35s a week and keep them. All decided to work in accordance with this agreement. Subsequently defendant Hooper spoke to Rogers at the station, and attempted to dissuade him from taking the work. He said it was a scabby job, and that he would report Rogers to Mr. Lundy, secretary of the A.W.U. in Adelaide, if he accepted. He called Duncan a "rotter," and said that he was losing on the job and sweating the men accordingly. Notwithstanding this they all went to work. Hooper said "If you go out you are a scab."

Leslie Johnson said he was one of the men whom defendant tried to keep away from the work. Two other men were actually kept away by what Hooper said to them. He himself was getting £2 5s per week and keep.

The police magistrate held that there was no evidence to show that Rogers had attempted to violate his agreement and, therefore, that the information must be dismissed.

NIGHT BAKING.

HOBART, Thursday

The wages board is to take evidence on the question of abolishing night baking in Hobart and Launceston.

MINING EMPLOYEES.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Application was made to the Registrar of the Commonwealth Arbitration Court for the re-registration of the Federated Mining Employees' Association of Australia. The applicants were James M'Donald, of Main-street, Zeehan (Tas.), president, and John Richard Little, of Farrell-street, Seddon (Vic.), secretary. Objections to the registration must be lodged with the Industrial Registrar within 30 days.

CONSTABLE CHARGED.

ALLEGED ASSAULT.

REMARKABLE STATEMENTS.

In the summons division of the Central Police Court yesterday, George Edward Louis, 23, a police constable attached to No. 2 Station, was proceeded against at the instance of John Peck on a charge of having assaulted Peck at Wattle-street, Ultimo, on the 13th inst.

Mr. Robison, of the Crown Law Office, appeared for the complainant; and Mr. E. Maddocks Cohen, for Mr. J. W. Abigail, for the defendant.

Mr. Cohen asked for a postponement of the case till Monday next, as Louis had been arrested only on Tuesday last, and he could not get bail till the following day. There were also several witnesses whom he had not been able to obtain.

Mr. Barnett, S.M., said that the case would proceed.

Inspector Kelly said that as far as he knew the defendant had no occasion to go officially to Peck's house in Wattle-street on the 13th inst.

John Peck said that he was awakened at about 4.30 a.m. by someone knocking at his door, and he called out, "Who is there?" and a voice said, "The police." "I opened the door by the safety chain, and saw the defendant," continued the witness; "and said, 'What do you want?' Louis said, 'We're inspecting all the houses here; we just passed your neighbour's house, and we want to inspect yours.' I said, 'What for?' and he replied, 'There are so many people leaving around those places; the law does not allow too many people in a house. That's why we inspect the houses to make move more than are allowed.' I said, 'You come in the daytime.' He said, 'If you don't let me in we will break the door,' and at the same time he pushed the door. I saw only the defendant at that time. I opened the door, and the defendant and another man went inside. Both were dressed as policemen, with police caps. They both were overcoats, and had electric torches. Louis stayed by me and put his hands on me, while the other man went into my room. Louis said, 'Where have you got your jewellery?' and I then cried out 'Burglars.' A woman in the house then went into the street and blew a whistle. Louis let me go, and I also went into the street, followed by Louis. I held him by the arms, and told him not to go away, but he struck me on the eye, and I fell down. The black eye I now have is the result of the blow. I did not know Louis."

In answer to Mr. Cohen, Peck said that when the men went to his place they did not say that it had been reported that his house was a bad house. He saw the number on the coat of the bigger man. It was not a fact that Louis knocked witness's face with his elbow when he turned round quickly to get away. It was with iron that he (witness) was struck, and two of his teeth were broken.

To the Bench, witness said that the men were not drunk; they could not have been; they were too strong. Louis's number was 293.

Frederick Harris, a cabdriver, said that the defendant engaged him to drive to No. 2 station to take a patient to the Reception-house, and after going there the defendant and another constable got in the cab, and, after driving about for some time, he was told to take them to Wattle-street. On arriving there both of the men got out and walked along the street some distance, and then went into a house. Witness heard a disturbance, and then the constables went back to the cab. Witness had seen Louis before, and he recognised the other man at the Redfern Police Court on Tuesday.

Frances Devine and Leonie Rauner also gave evidence on behalf of the complainant.

Louis, in his defence, said that he had reason to believe that the house occupied by Peck was not respectably kept, and he went there to obtain information for the benefit of the department. He had been there on three previous occasions. The number on his uniform coat was 396, and it had never been altered. He denied that he struck Peck with his hands. He had been 11 years in the service. He did not at any time ask Peck for jewellery or money.

To Mr. Robison, witness said that the information as to Peck's house was given to him by a night-watchman, whom he knew as Fred. The written statement that he had made for Superintendent Mitchell was incorrect, and he lied so as to avoid trouble. He and Constable Yealland (the other constable) went to a house in Woolloomooloo, where they had some drink, but he was not drunk. They also called on some Chinamen at Waterloo.

At the conclusion of Louis's evidence, Mr. Cohen again asked that the case be postponed, but it was opposed by Mr. Robison.

His Worship said that he could not understand why Constable Yealland, who would be a most important witness for the defence, had not been called.

Mr. Cohen said that as Louis was released from gaol after obtaining bail only on Wednesday, time did not permit of Yealland being subpœnaed.

The hearing of the case was postponed till Wednesday next.

MOTOR CAR FATALITY.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

An inquest was held at the City Coroner's Court yesterday before the Acting City Coroner, Mr. Fincham, concerning the death of William Cole Ringrose Fury, who died as the result of a motor car accident in College-street, near St. Mary's Cathedral, on June 12.

Sub-Inspector Branston watched the case on behalf of the police; Mr. P. Sullivan, of Messrs. Sullivan Bros., appeared for the relatives of the deceased; and Dr. Sheldon, owner and driver of the motor car concerned in the accident, appeared in person.

The evidence of those who saw the accident was to the effect that the car was travelling at about 6.15 p.m. in the direction of Boomerang-street, at a moderate pace. The driver sounded his horn, and as he approached the deceased, he called out loudly to him, and also swerved the car to avoid striking him. The rear mudguard of the car nearest the deceased struck him, and he fell heavily on to the roadway. Dr. Palmer, who examined Fury, after he was admitted to Sydney Hospital, said that death was due to a fracture of the base of the skull. The car was on its proper side of the road, and when the deceased was struck it had been slowed down to four miles an hour.

A verdict of accidental death was returned.

THE SCHOOLS.

CURRICULUM CRITICISED.

At the annual prize distribution at Ascham College, Darling Point, the principal, Mr. H. J. Carter, strongly criticised the State schools' curriculum. "Ascham," said Mr. Carter, "is not so far registered under the new curriculum. I have waited to see how this overloaded scheme would work, and after hearing the unanimous chorus of criticism, I now congratulate myself on not having committed the school to this burden." Miss Bollin, continued Mr. Carter, had courageously thrown down the gauntlet, and at the last meeting of the Secondary Teachers' Guild, there was a unanimous opinion as to certain phases of the State curriculum. It was agreed, he said, that the compulsory intermediate examination as a stage to the bursary was a mistake; that the intermediate examination was too severe; and that there had been undue haste and little judgment in the formulation and proportion of value given to the various subjects in the curriculum, especially in the case of girls' schools. They had been promised less examination, and less cram, but they were getting far more, as proved by the figures, which showed the intermediate examination to be more difficult than the junior public examination. In 1912, 41 per cent. of the candidates passed the intermediate examination, as against 78 per cent. who passed the junior. In 1913, the figures were 58 per cent. and 72 per cent. respectively. Mr. Carter suggested that a better plan would be to abolish the intermediate examination altogether, and substitute compulsory inspection, to report on buildings, classrooms, hygiene, efficiency, staff, and methods of teaching. This should be combined with the compulsory examination of the whole school by outside examiners, who should be approved by the University, or a council, and paid for by the school.

Rev. C. J. Prescott said he could support many of the ideas put forward. He agreed with a late Governor (Lord Chelmsford), who had thought it well for some schools to retain their individuality, and to continue outside a uniform system.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE IS "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

THEY LOVE TO TAKE IT, AND IT DOESN'T HARM THE TENDER LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, AND BOWELS.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign that the stomach, liver, and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, or doesn't sleep, eat, or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach out of order, system "fluffy" with a cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up constipated waste matter, sour bile, and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a healthy, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know that its action on the stomach, liver, and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know that a little given to-day saves the child a day of illness to-morrow.

Ask your chemist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages, and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company," and sold by all leading chemists, 1/1½ and 1/9. Refuse substitutes.—Advt.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.—Continued.

All the servants had gone to bed; this was upon Clive's instructions, because he was not certain whether he would return at all. But that did not matter since he had his own key, and the doctor would be content with a shake-down anywhere.

They went into the dining-room, and here they were glad of some whisky and water and biscuits which had been left out in readiness for their arrival.

It was 1 o'clock, but Clive did not feel tired, and was quite sure that if he went to bed he should not sleep. He could not get Nalada's disfigured face out of his mind—Nalada, whose beauty had gone for ever. How she would suffer, poor child, if she lived to know it—surely it was better that she should never know. And yet she was so young; and he—how intensely he had loved and desired her once. A lump came into his throat, and his eyes were moist. It was for him—for him—that she had sacrificed her beauty, perhaps her life.

The doctor, however, seemed worn out, and sleep was obviously necessary for him, so after a while, Clive took him to a bedroom adjoining his own, and then went to fetch him a few necessaries that he would require for the night.

As he opened the door of his own room, which was in darkness, his ears were greeted by a curious sound which he was unable to account for.

He stood with his hand upon the switch of the electric light, trying to analyse it. It was a hissing sound. What did it remind him of? It resembled nothing so much—the thought flashed into Clive's brain—as the hissing of a snake. And yet for a moment he did not turn on the light. He was strangely fascinated. His eyes were getting accustomed to the darkness, and looking now towards the bed it seemed to him that he could distinguish upon it the dark outline of a form, and suddenly there appeared two small luminous patches—like eyes, green, cruel, vindictive.

The next moment Clive switched on the light.

And then he uttered a cry, a sharp cry that brought the doctor rushing out of his room. Lying upon the bed crossways was the figure of a man, and curled up beside it, uttering its low, ominous hiss, was a hideous snake, its eyes gleaming fiercely, its fangs protruding—ready to strike.

Clive did not hesitate. He seized the poker from the grate and attacked the reptile, being careful to avoid too close an approach. One swinging blow, and its back was broken. It lay immobile, dead.

And the man upon the bed was dead, too—he had succumbed to a bite from the reptile that he had brought to Clive's room with fell intent. He lay stretched out, face upwards, a face that was horribly contorted, but which Clive recognised at once from the bushy arching eyebrows and the large hooked nose. The Lurking Shadow—the mysterious subtle assassin, he was brought to book at last—he had fallen into a trap of his own setting.

They stood, Clive and the doctor, gazing down at the face of the dead man. The doctor had already felt the heart and assured himself of death. In touching the body for this purpose his sleeve had brushed the face, bringing about a revelation, a change, so extraordinary, so appalling, that the doctor gripped Clive by the arm and muttered under his breath: "My God, who is he?"

For the face was the face of a man disguised. The bushy eyebrows were not genuine, one of them had already slipped out of place. The nose had been carefully moulded to the shape it bore by the assistance of theatrical make-up. Cosmetics had been used for the cheeks and lips, and the hands had been made to appear hairy on the back, when by nature they were smooth and white. The dark wig had fallen a little way, disclosing the fair hair beneath.

"My God," repeated the doctor, his grip tightening upon Clive's arm. "Can I be dreaming? It seems impossible, incomprehensible, a nightmare——"

And Clive thought he was dreaming, too, for, despite the make-up, he could recognise the face of the dead man. It was that of his uncle—the supposed cripple—the face of Richard Hartridge.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

Never, perhaps, in criminal records has a more terrible document ever been produced than the journal of Richard Hartridge, which was found after his death, and made public when, as was inevitable, the Mystery of Deanmere—as it came to be known—was thoroughly sifted.

The journal dated back over twenty-five years, and had been carefully kept. It afforded ample evidence of a perverted mind, combined with a cunning and ferocity difficult to credit. Its basis was undying hate of the Darrell family. It was Arthur Darrell—father of the present owner of the estate—who had robbed him of his fiancee, Laura Bligh. According to the diary, it was no accident that had nearly cost him his life twenty-five years ago, but a deliberate plot in order that Laura might be freed from a lover of whom she had tired.

Hartridge vowed vengeance, not openly as Fenwick Bligh had done, but in secret, and the rest of his life was devoted to the carrying out of that revenge. Fenwick Bligh, at heart a coward, had had no part whatever in the subsequent tragedies. One after the other, successes and failures, they were callously admitted in the terrible journal.

To ensure that no suspicion should rest upon him, he had voluntarily adopted the role of a cripple. He had been severely injured, but had recovered shortly after the death of the doctor who had attended him—and he had never called in another, allowing it to be understood that he was crippled for life. This had suited his mood—his misanthropy—his desire for solitude. Only his old servant, Graddige, was in the secret.

And thus he had been able, whenever he wished, to adopt a disguise—he had once been a clever amateur actor—and pretending to shut himself up in his own rooms, sometimes for days together, to wander freely about the country. Curiously enough, he had always made use of the same disguise—it had become almost a second individuality to him.

His hand had slain the husband of his false love—in such a way that poachers had been held to blame. His overmastering desire was, whenever possible, that the evil he sought to bring about might be attributable to accident—just as it had been in his own case.

His rival dead, he had aimed to destroy wife and child. The diary told how he was eventually successful with the former, and how the latter was carried out of peril and concealed, so that all his efforts to find him were unavailing. But Richard Hartridge knew that one day Arthur Darrell must return to claim his own, and he was content to wait.

And at last that day came—as he imagined. All unknowingly he turned his evil energies against his own nephew, Clive. The journal set forth how the bomb episode had failed, and how he himself had returned, late the same night, for the illumination of the Court—barely arriving in time, in a car which he had ordered to meet him near Sandmere station.

Each succeeding attempt upon the life of Arthur Darrell was recorded in its place. Being in no hurry, the murderer had taken a fiendish pleasure in devising the most subtle plots. He had obtained secret access to the Castle by way of the turret-chamber, which had enabled him to carry out several of his designs, such as the introduction of the second spider—he was responsible for the first as well—the setting fire to the curtains, and the poisoned needle in the chair which had caused the death of Mr. Taylor.

"It is a fine idea," so he had written of the latter dastardly attempt, "for if they should find the needle they will attribute it to an overlooked murderous trick on the part of the Black Darrell or someone else of the good old poisoning days. It will be an 'accident.'"

Mr. Hartridge did not appear to concern himself if others fell victims to his hideous plots. He seemed to have regarded the whole thing as a sport—his one interest in life.

"He shall die on the anniversary of his father's death," he had written, after recording a series of failures. "Let us wait till then. And after him one more—and then my task is done."

It was chance that brought about the Scawdon Pike expedition on that day, but the murderer availed himself of the opportunity. Having failed here, too, as far as his set purpose was concerned, he had hurried back, and had even found time to add a few words to his diary.

"That fool Goddard—he brought it on himself. But I have vowed it will be to-night, and to-night it shall be."

That was all. The puff-adder had palpably been brought into requisition—with fatal results to the plotter.

This was the terrible mystery revealed to the world that palpitated with excitement over so remarkable a case. Mr. Lindley's conduct in inducing Clive to submit himself to so great a risk was, in some quarters, severely criticised, but Clive stood manfully by his employer, while Arthur Darrell—the real Arthur Darrell—was not in the least disposed to make trouble. He had become engaged to a charging English girl, whom he had met at Trouville, and he proposed after his marriage to settle with her at the Castle. He and Clive had struck up a friendship which was of good omen for the future, since they would be neighbours; Clive was inheriting Swaneham Court.

And Nalada—Nalada might perhaps have recovered had she wished to. But life—the idea of life—was abhorrent to her, permanently disfigured as she was. She lay in a darkened room, so that no one, except the nurse who ministered to her, could see her face.

But she was not unhappy, nor did she fear death. She had a fixed idea that her "sisters," the Naiads of the Lake, were calling to her—that she had no right to the human body she bore.

"I was never meant to have a soul," she said once to Clive, who was constantly with her in these days—sitting by her side in the dark room, never seeing her face—"and I am sure that my instinct was correct, and that marriage would have been fatal for me and for the man I married. So it is all for the best, Clive dear, and there is nothing to weep about, nothing at all."

"Only get well, Undine," he beseeched her hoarsely, "and let me prove my love and gratitude. Do you think I care that you are disfigured? I will devote my life to you."

She seemed to be thinking. "Would it make you happy, Clive," she murmured, "to marry me? Would it set your mind at rest?"

She knew how he suffered in the knowledge that it was for him she had sacrificed herself.

"Yes, Nalada," he muttered—and he meant what he said, for the sense of duty just then overbore with him all other emotions. "Get well, dearest—"

"Clive," she interrupted, "we will be married—not when I get well, but at once. If I should recover so much the better, if I die I shall have had the happiness of being, in name, your wife. Do you agree?"

Whimsical to the end, Nalada made this proposition in all seriousness. That very morning she heard the doctor tell her father—who had arrived and was staying at the Pike House—that she had but a few days more to live.

"Only you must promise me," she murmured, "that, if I die, you won't hesitate—" she pressed his hand tightly—"you know what I mean, Clive—Eva—"

She would not release his hand until he had given her the promise she exacted. And when he had gone she spoke to Eva too—Eva who knew all the circumstances, and who had already shed many a tear by Nalada's bedside over the cruelty and perversity of fate.

"You will wait, Eva? It won't be for long. O, my dear, I shouldn't do what I am doing if I didn't know—if I didn't know."

And so, three days later, Clive and Nalada were married—married in the darkened room so that the bridegroom could not even look upon the face of the bride.

And when it was over Clive stooped and kissed the girl's cold brow.

"You are content—my husband?" she murmured.

He breathed a deep sigh "Content—if you you live, Undine," was his reply.

She laughed to herself a little when he had gone. For Nalada had become very wise. "His conscience will never reproach him now," she whispered to herself.

And after that she just let herself go. The Naiads were calling her. And one day, quite soon, she answered their call.

THE END.

OUR NEW TALE.

"THE PLACE OF DRAGONS."

To-morrow the publication will begin in the "Herald" of a new tale—"The Place of Dragons"—by William Le Queux. The story is described as "a mystery," and Mr. Le Queux is a master of the mysterious. One plunges at once into mystery, and from the first words "Curious affair, isn't it?" to the end the story is full of interest. By his descriptive writing and his strong power of characterisation Mr. Le Queux has won for himself a high place among present-day novelists, and in this his latest story he enhances his reputation. There is not a dull moment in it. One passes from mystery to mystery more inexplicable, and in the unravelling of the enigma we have the master-hand at work. A story full of romance, a startling story in some respects, "The Place of Dragons" will be read with unflagging interest by our readers.

PIMPLES ON FACE, AND BLACKHEADS.

186 William-street, Darlinghurst, N.S.W.—"I have been troubled with pimples and blackheads of a hard and sore nature for three years, on the face and neck and body. They were sore as well as disfiguring. I tried many medicines for the removal of the trouble, but with no result until I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment, the result being successful. I used the Cuticura Ointment on retiring at night, after washing with hot water and Cuticura Soap, by applying it freely to the affected part with the tip of the finger. Kept it on all night, and washed it in the morning with hot water and Cuticura Soap.

"The cure took about two months. I think Cuticura Ointment is the finest skin healer there is on the market." (Signed) W. H. Lennon, November, 1912.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to A. Towns and Co., Dept. T., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

THE LANDS INQUIRY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your leading article in to-day's issue will assuredly appeal to all right-thinking men. As one who has had considerable dealings with the Department of Lands, let me again, through your courtesy, enter an earnest protest against the proclamation issued by the Minister prohibiting interviews with either him or his officers, and compelling agents to state all their business by means of correspondence. I do not object to writing letters, but when that can be obviated by personal representations, and time of all parties conserved, it is surely not too much to expect or ask that the department should aid rather than obstruct.

Apart from this view, the banning of reputable agents from interviews is practically playing into the hands of the member of Parliament who, in addition to his ordinary roundsecript occupation, adds that of land agent, and so maintains that element of suspicion which has for so long attached itself to those, especially members of Parliament, who continue to conduct land business with the Government. Personally, throughout my business, I have not found it necessary to seek the aid of members, and if I had certainly I would not have thought it either necessary or desirable to fee them.

June 25. I am, etc., LAND AGENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The disclosures in connection with the Boorabil estate purchase reopen the whole question of the administration of the Lands Department of New South Wales. If a Royal Commission is appointed to inquire into the Boorabil purchase it should be clothed with powers extensive enough to inquire into the administration of the department generally. To those who have dealings with the department there is a feeling that all is not well. Members of Parliament appear to exercise too great an influence in matters of detail. Large areas of improvement lease lands, which have reverted to the Crown, and are known to be eminently suitable for closer settlement, are for some inscrutable reason withheld from the hundreds of capable young men seeking land in our agricultural districts. Another matter that requires looking into is the extraordinary circumstances surrounding the granting of special leases. Thousands of acres have been granted by the present Minister under this tenure, in many cases against the advice of the local land boards. The Minister has altogether too much power in this respect. The Lands Act provides extensive precautions for the proper safeguarding of the public interests, but after going through the farce of inquiry and even of appeals to the Land Appeal Court, and the Supreme Court, the Minister can override them all, and instances have occurred where the present Minister has done so. When it is remembered that there is no limit to the number of special leases of 320 acres each one person can hold, and that with the consent of the Minister special leases can be converted into freehold, the whole matter assumes great importance. Apparently the only remedy that will ensure a satisfactory administration of the valuable Crown lands of New South Wales is the remedy so often promised, viz., the appointment of a board of commissioners independent of individual politicians, and responsible only to Parliament as a whole.

I am, etc.,

June 25. ELECTOR.

HOW BENGER'S FOOD IS SELF-DIGESTIVE

Here is Benger's Food in the process of predigestion. Benger's Food is the only Food which scientifically combines the two all-important principles of digestion in a dormant state.

When you commence to prepare the Food by adding hot milk these become active. One modifies the other, making it as light as any cake, and while you wait, the two combine in forming a most delicious food-cream with a delicate biscuit flavour.

You control the extent of digestion. You can arrest it to any stage in which it passes into the condition with little human aid, or, according to the condition of your patient, give the human digestion most or all to do.

The prepared Benger's Food is so soothing as to allay internal irritation, and you can be sure that the nourishment that food can give.

There is a world of difference between Benger's Food and pre-digested foods. You must go from pre-digested foods to light ordinary food at a bound, but with Benger's you can gradually increase the work of the stomach as it recovers its normal healthy activity.

All chemists, etc., sell Benger's Food.—Advt.

Trust me, all these endearing young charms
Our fade right away with illhealth,
And cheeks that are rosy and eyes that are bright
Are dearer to you than to wealth.
So if you are gloomy or dull, take a tip,
'Tis simple good health to ensure;
Purchase a bottle, and take a good sip

LAW REPORT.

BANCO COURT.

(Before the Chief Justice and a jury of four.)

A SEAMAN'S CLAIM.

Nilsson v Bleakley and another.

Mr. Hammond and Mr. Davidson, instructed by Messrs. Russell and Russell, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Boyce, instructed by Messrs. J. R. Baxter Bruce and Ebsworth, for the defendants. This was an action brought by Halvor Nilsson against Harold Bleakley and Milton Eyles, trading as H. Bleakley and Co., to recover compensation for injuries sustained by plaintiff on November 20 last. The case for plaintiff, who claimed £330 damages, has already appeared. Defendants denied negligence either at common law or under the Employers' Liability Act.

Plaintiff's case having concluded, evidence was called on behalf of the defendants, and Eric G. B. Olsen, who was second mate of the Thora at the time of the accident, said that when they arrived at port slings were made of new Manilla rope, which was better for raising soft timber than chains or wire-rope, because it was more easily worked than the latter, and because chains or wire-rope cut the timber. On the day of the accident plaintiff was working in the main hatch, and a sling of timber being ready, witness gave the signal to haul up. The timber was half way up the hatch when it fouled the stay and became completely jammed underneath. He immediately signalled to the winchman above to stop, but it was too late, and the strain on the rope being too much it broke, and a piece of the timber struck plaintiff. The rope, produced in Court, was not the rope used on the occasion. New rope was used, and was quite strong enough for the purpose.

The case stands part heard.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson.)

FEDERAL LAND TAX APPEAL.

McDonald v Deputy Federal Land Tax Commissioner.

The appeal is still part heard.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and a jury of four.)

A TRESPASS ACTION.

Hargraves v Stevenson.

Dr. Brissenden and Mr. Harry Stephen, instructed by Mr. L. F. Dixon, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Watt and Mr. Mack, instructed by Mr. George Bourne, for the defendant. This was an action brought by Elizabeth Hargraves, of Norwaville, Tuggerah Lakes, against Richard Stevenson, to recover compensation for alleged trespass upon her land known as Berkley, and cutting timber and fencing thereon. She also sued for the seizure and conversion of the timber, and asked for an injunction to restrain defendant from a continuance of the acts complained of.

Defendant denied that he trespassed upon the land and cut and removed the timber, and he also pleaded that the land was not the property of the plaintiff.

The evidence and addresses of counsel having concluded,

His Honor summed up, and said that plaintiff charged defendant with trespassing upon her land and cutting down timber. For the purpose of proving trespass, it was not necessary for plaintiff to show that she had an absolute documentary title. It was sufficient for her to show that the land was in her exclusive possession at the time of the alleged trespass. They had evidence that at one time a caretaker of the land was appointed by plaintiff, and he was authorised in writing to collect royalties from persons who obtained permission to cut timber on the land, and to protect her interests generally. Subsequently the defendant went upon the land and cut timber without the consent of the plaintiff or her agent. He set up a title to the land, and it was for the jury to say whether he had made out his case. His Honor said, however, that he did not suppose the jury would have very much difficulty in coming to the conclusion that plaintiff was possessed of this property at the time of the trespass. Then came the more difficult question of the cutting down of the fence; but if they thought the fence was on plaintiff's land, and not on a public road, defendant had no right to cut it down. It had been argued by counsel for the plaintiff that defendant had carried on the trespass in a high-handed way, and if they thought that was so the jury would be entitled to give the plaintiff substantial damages.

The jury, after a short deliberation, returned a verdict for the plaintiff, with damages £250.

Mr. Mack asked for a stay of proceedings until next term, on the ground of rejection of certain evidence, and the application was granted on condition that defendant gave security for the sum of £350 to cover verdict and costs.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

SHIRLEY v GEORGE WILLOUGHBY.

ACTOR AWARDED £500.

The case was concluded in which Arthur Shirley, actor, sued George Willoughby, theatrical manager for £1000 damages, on the ground that the defendant had wrongfully induced the firm of J. C. Williamson, Ltd., to cancel an engagement of the plaintiff with the Julius Knight Company. The defence was a denial that the plaintiff was actually engaged by J. C. Williamson, Ltd., and it was alleged that he was under contract to the defendant at the time he agreed to act for Williamson's.

Mr. Mack, instructed by Mr. W. M. Daley, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Shand, K.C. and Mr. Wyndham Davies, instructed by Mr. A. B. Davies, for the defendant.

The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff with £500 damages. A stay of proceedings was granted.

DUNCAN v MELL.

James Duncan, grazier, of Barraba, sued Charles Frederick Mell, for the return of £100 paid to the defendant's agent as a deposit on a land transaction, which had not been completed. The defendant denied indebtedness.

Mr. Walker, and Mr. Rogers, instructed by Mr. R. J. O'Halloran, of Tamworth, by his agent, Mr. R. H. Levien, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Loxton, K.C., Mr. H. G. Edwards, and Mr. F. S. Boyce, instructed by Mr. E. W. Warren, for the defendant.

The plaintiff's case was that the defendant was the owner of a settlement lease near Barraba, known as Sodova, which the plaintiff agreed to purchase, paying a deposit of £100 on the transaction. The Minister of Lands, however, refused his consent to the transfer of the lease, and the deal fell through. When the plaintiff applied for his deposit back, the defendant told him to apply to the agents to whom the money had been actually paid, stating that the agent had taken over £88 as commission, and the defendant only held the balance.

Mr. Loxton said the plaintiff had disabled himself from completing the contract, by acquiring a conditional purchase lease, on account of which he could not take the settlement lease.

Mr. Walker contended that the conditional purchase would not prevent the plaintiff taking the settlement lease, though the fact of his contracting for the purchase of the latter might have disqualified him from completing the conditional purchase.

After hearing evidence, the jury was dispensed with, and by consent of the parties his Honor, with the object of permitting the point raised to be decided by the Full Court, entered a verdict for the plaintiff, the defendant being given leave to apply to the Full Court for a non-suit or for a verdict in his favour.

IN CHAMBERS.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

APPEAL AGAINST CONVICTION.

Re H. G. Pritchard (A. O. Butler and another, respondents.)

Mr. Parker, instructed by Mr. N. C. Rowling, of Gunnedah (by his agents, Messrs. Turner, Teece, and Co.), appeared for Henry Gordon Pritchard, of Gunnedah, omnibus driver, and moved to make absolute an order nisi, by which A. O. Butler, of Gunnedah, P.M., and Police Senior-sergeant Edmund Reid had been called upon to show cause why a writ of prohibition should not be issued to restrain respondents from further proceeding upon a conviction or order made on May 21 last in a matter in which Reid was informant and Pritchard defendant. Mr. Windeyer, instructed by the Crown Solicitor (Mr. J. V. Tillett) appeared for respondent Reid to oppose the motion. It appeared from the affidavits that Pritchard was charged with having in his possession, on April 26 last, part of the skin of a bullock, reasonably suspected to have been stolen, there being reasonable cause to believe that he came by the same dishonestly. At the close of the case for the prosecution defendant's solicitor took the objection that there was no evidence to support the information, inasmuch as section 539 of the Crimes Act, 1900, only related to a person in whose possession a skin had been found, and that the skin in question was not found in the possession of defendant. The police magistrate, however, overruled the objection, and after hearing further evidence convicted defendant, and ordered him to pay £25 and £4 19s costs, in default of payment six months' imprisonment. The fine and costs were paid, and Pritchard now appealed against the conviction on the grounds (1) that the charge did not disclose any offence, inasmuch as it did not set out that the skin therein referred to had been found in the possession of Pritchard; (2) that the evidence did not warrant a conviction upon the charge.

Mr. Parker said that the owner of the bullock saw it in his paddock some time in April, and missed it two or three days afterwards. He mentioned the matter to the police, who made an investigation, and found the skin of the bullock, or portion of it, in the shop of a dealer at Gunnedah. Defendant might have been charged with selling the skin, but he was not guilty of the charge laid against him, as he was not the person in whose possession the skin was found within the meaning of the section. He cited authorities on the point.

The case stands part heard.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

SUIT FOR A DECLARATION.

Eggleton v Turner.

Judgment was delivered in the suit, in which Frederick Anthony Eggleton asked for a declaration to the effect that he was entitled to a share in the proceeds of certain land sales held by or on behalf of plaintiff and defendant, Charles James Turner, between July, 1909, and July 7, 1913.

Mr. Knox, K.C., and Mr. Davidson, instructed by Mr. F. C. Petrie, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. Parker, instructed by Messrs. Turner, Teece, and Co., for defendant.

The defendant alleged that the plaintiff was never a partner of his, but always an employee.

His Honor said there was little if any dispute about the main facts of the case. There were two issues between the parties, viz., (1) did the letter of November 2, 1906, verbally accepted, constitute a partnership between plaintiff and defendant, or was the plaintiff only an employee of defendant? (2) Was the plaintiff entitled to a percentage on the profits of land in the business, purchased before, but sold after July 7, 1913? The answer to the first question depended on the true meaning and effect of the letter set out in the statement of claim, taken in connection with the circumstances at the time, and the conduct of the parties afterwards. Considering the contract and the circumstances at the time, and the subsequent conduct of the parties, his Honor thought there was no intention on either side that plaintiff and defendant should become partners; on the contrary, the intention was plainly expressed that plaintiff should be an employee. With regard to the second question, his Honor said he thought the contract gave to plaintiff the right to receive his percentage of profits on all properties purchased for the business before July 7, 1913. The probabilities seemed to him entirely in favour of that view. Plaintiff was brought into the business as an expert who was particularly skilled in forming an opinion as to whether a piece of land was worth buying at the price named, with a view to a subsequent subdivision sale; and it appeared that his opinion was a shrewd and valuable one, for land purchased on his advice was afterwards sold, in nearly every case, his Honor thought, at a large profit.

In conclusion, his Honor said he thought that a certain paragraph of the letter showed that the event of the plaintiff leaving the business or being dismissed by the defendant was clearly present to the minds of both parties, and that it was provided that in that case plaintiff was to have his share of the profits, as they came in. Of course, all expenses in realising the land after the plaintiff left would be deducted from the proceeds of the sale. As defendant had failed, he must pay the costs of the suit. His Honor decreed that no partnership existed, and that accounts be taken of the transactions between July, 1909, and July, 1913.

REDEMPTION OF MORTGAGE.

Perpetual Trustee Company v Gregg and another.

This was an originating summons instituted by the Perpetual Trustee Company, Ltd., with regard to certain memoranda of mortgage, dated August 18, 1904, and November 3, 1904, the defendants being James Gregg and William Smith Deane.

Mr. Langer Owen, K.C., and Mr. C. E. Manning, instructed by Messrs. Makinson, Plunkett, and D'Apice, appeared for the plaintiff company; and Mr. Sheppard, instructed by Messrs. Deane and Deane, for defendants.

The plaintiff company, which carried on business at Spring-street, Sydney, and claimed to be the mortgagor under the provisions of certain memoranda of mortgage, asked for the determination of the following questions and for the following declarations and orders, viz.:—(1) Whether the plaintiff company was entitled to redeem the memoranda of mortgage upon payment of £600 for principal, the sum of £42 12s 10d for interest, and the costs of discharge of the memoranda of mortgage; (b) whether plaintiff company was entitled to redeem upon payment of the £6000, interest, and costs of discharge; (c) upon payment of what sum was the plaintiff company entitled to redeem. (2) That if necessary an account be taken of what was due to defendants for principal, interest etc., in respect of the mortgage. (3) That upon payment by the plaintiff company to the defendants of such sum as might be declared by the Court to be due in respect of the mortgage, defendants be ordered to execute all necessary discharges and to deliver up all deeds, documents, etc., in their power relating to the said lands.

His Honor reserved his decision.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

BULLETIN NEWSPAPER COMPANY, LTD.

Archibald v Macleod and others.

The hearing was concluded of the interlocutory application on behalf of Jules Francois Archibald in the suit of Archibald versus Macleod and others, for an injunction to restrain the defendants, William Macleod, James Edmond Samuel Henry Prior, William Norman Macleod, Livingstone Hopkins, May Macleod, H. Kenneth Prior, and Ada Jones, from affixing, procuring, or authorising any person or persons to affix the common seal of the New Bulletin Newspaper Company, Ltd., if and when incorporated, to certain agreements mentioned in plaintiff's statement of claim, and from procuring, or authorising the making of certain agreements by the new company with the old Bulletin Newspaper Company, Ltd.

Mr. Knox, K.C., and Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Messrs. Macnamara and Smith, appeared for plaintiff; and Mr. Langer Owen, K.C., Mr. Rolin, K.C., and Mr. Sheridan, instructed by Messrs. Laurence and Laurence, for the defendants.

The parties, by their counsel, undertaking not to deal with their shares in the old or new company, except with the leave of the Court; and not to issue any shares in the new company until a proper contract had been filed with the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, to protect the issue of fully-paid up shares, and to take all proper and necessary steps to alter the articles in such a manner as the Court might, at the hearing of the suit, direct; to enter into such agreements relating to the shares as the Court might direct; and on defendants' undertaking that, in the event of their, or any of the, failing to carry out the undertakings in any respect, they would purchase from plaintiff his shares in the new company at their face value; and on plaintiff's undertaking not to do anything to prevent the alterations of any of the articles as directed by the Court; his Honor said he would make no order on the present application, except that, with the consent of the defendants, they were ordered before completing the registration of the proposed new company to take the proper steps to alter the memorandum of association of the proposed new company, as lodged with the Registrar, and to make certain alterations in the said memorandum.

DIVORCE COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

SALISBURY v SALISBURY.

The hearing was concluded of the case in which Arthur Ernest Salisbury petitioned for divorce from Minnie Evelyn Salisbury, on the ground of misconduct with Thomas Davis, who was joined as co-respondent. The allegations of misconduct were denied by respondent and co-respondent.

His Honor reserved judgment.

COOK v COOK.

The case was concluded in which Ernest Cook, commercial traveller, sued for divorce from Violet Evelyn Cook (formerly Nicholls), on the ground of misconduct with Rowley McNeil, who was cited as co-respondent. The parties were married at Waterloo in April, 1907, according to the rites of the Congregational Church.

Mr. Ralston, K.C., and Mr. Jaques (instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell) appeared for the petitioner, and the suit was not defended.

His Honor granted a decree nisi, with costs against the co-respondent.

WALKER v WALKER.

Bonnie Annie Mary Walker (formerly Vincent) sought divorce from Alexander Ralph Walker, on the ground of repeated assaults and cruelty. The parties were married in April, 1908, at Petersham, according to the rites of the Methodist Church. Mr. Addison (instructed by Mr. W. H. Atkinson) appeared for the petitioner.

His Honor ordered the case to stand over till the next sittings for further evidence as to domicile.

BURNS v BURNS.

Joseph Burns sued for divorce from Mary Madeline Agnes Pauline Burns (formerly Kilby), on the ground of misconduct with David Alexander, who was joined as co-respondent. Mr. R. W. Fraser appeared for the petitioner, who stated that the marriage took place at St. Paul's Church, Redfern, in November, 1902.

A decree nisi was granted, with costs against the co-respondent.

MAY v MAY.

May Jane May (formerly Duffy) petitioned for the dissolution of her marriage with William May (also known as Everett Purtle), on the ground of desertion. The marriage took place in Sydney in October, 1908, according to the rites of the Congregational Church. Mr. R. W. Fraser appeared for the petitioner.

A decree nisi was granted.

PORTER v PORTER.

Laura Mary Porter (formerly Syms) sought divorce from Douglas Graham Porter, on the ground of desertion and habitual drunkenness and neglect. The parties were married in June, 1906, according to the rites of the New Unitarian Church. Mr. R. W. Fraser appeared for the petitioner.

The case was adjourned for further evidence.

BANKRUPTCY COURT.

(Before the Registrar, Mr. F. H. Salusbury.)

CERTIFICATE APPLICATION.

Re Joseph Smith. Mr. Arthur Deery appeared for the applicant. Adjourned to July 3.

CREDITORS' PETITIONS.

Henry Charles Boland, of Victoria-street, Gladesville, foreman blacksmith, versus Herbert Ernest Dakin, architect, formerly of Coulter-street, Gladesville. Petition to be heard on July 6.

Taxi-cabs, Ltd. (in liquidation), versus Ernest Samuel Turner, of Hay-street, Sydney, lately carrying on business at Oxford and Hay streets, Sydney, as manager for Turner Brothers, or otherwise. Petition to be heard on July 6.

VOLUNTARY SEQUESTRATIONS.

Wilson Forbes, of 62 Pitt-street, Redfern, actor. Mr. W. H. Palmer, official assignee.

Frederick Sydney Billyard, of Shaftesbury road, Burwood, contractor. Mr. W. H. Palmer, official assignee.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Deputy Justice Scholes.)

BOARD MEMBERS.

In connection with the nominations of employers' representatives to the Labourers' Group, Nos. 1 and 5 Boards, Mr. Phelps Richards appeared for the Public Works Contractors' Association; Mr. Forrest, from the Crown Law Office, for the Minister for Public Works; and Mr. Stuart-Robertson for the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Association.

Mr. Phelps Richards nominated Mr. Richard Gendle, Nutleigh, Windsor-road, Petersham, to the vacancy on the first board, vice Mr. C. M'Clure, resigned. Mr. Forrest nominated to the second board Mr. William James Milliner, president of the Metropolitan Board of Water Supply and Sewerage, vice Mr. William Gilliver, resigned.

Mr. Stuart-Robertson pointed out to the Court that the boards had never sat.

Mr. Richards said that there was an application to the Court for the amalgamation of the two boards. In view of that he asked that the matter stand over.

It was decided to list the matter again on the 30th inst.

APPLICATION FOR VARIATION.

The Railway Workers and General Labourers' Association applied for a variation or amendment of the award of the Iron and Shipbuilding Trades Group, No. 23 Board (Messrs. Hoskins Bros.' quarries).

Mr. R. J. Stuart Robertson appeared for the applicants; and Mr. Windeyer (Messrs. Dawson, Waldron, and Glover) for Messrs. Hoskins Bros.

The secretary of the applicant association set out that the grounds for the application were:—(1) That the rates of pay awarded in clause 5 of the award were too low; (2) that those rates were lower than the rates prescribed for similar work and under the same conditions by the award of the Railway and Tramway Construction, Road, and Water Conservation Board; (3) that the rates of pay prescribed in the clause awarding differential rates for each quarry were inconsistent with the evidence called before the board. One uniform rate of pay, similar to the award of the Railway and Tramway, Construction, Road, and Water Conservation Board, should have been awarded.

The matter stands part heard.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Murray and a jury.)

KNOCKED DOWN BY A MOTOR CAR.

Farrelly v Lansdale.

This was a case in which Austin Farrelly, of 31 Belmore-street, Sydney claimed £400 compensation from William Rowland, Lansdale, of Northumberland-avenue, Stanmore, for injuries occasioned to plaintiff through being knocked down by a motor car, which, it was alleged, belonged to defendant.

Mr. Monahan, instructed by Messrs. H. T. Morgan and Morgan, appeared for plaintiff; and Mr. Arthur Deery for defendant.

The case for plaintiff was that on the evening of February 21 last, he attempted to board a tram at the stopping place at the corner of Parramatta-road and Church-street, Camperdown. The tram moved off before he reached it, and as he was returning to the footpath to wait for another tram he was knocked down by a motor car, which was being driven by defendant's servant, and severely injured. He was taken to Prince Alfred Hospital, where it was discovered that some of the bones in his right shoulder were badly fractured. He remained in the hospital till March 13, and as the bones had not truly knitted, it was suggested that he should have the arm broken again and reset which he refused to agree to. He underwent massage treatment, until the 4th inst., and up to the present time he had not regained the free use of the arm, in which there was a certain deformity. Plaintiff alleged that the mishap was caused through the negligence of defendant's servant, in the control and management of the motor car.

The defendant denied the alleged negligence, and pleaded contributory negligence on plaintiff's part.

The case stands part heard.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

FOUR YEARS' HARD LABOUR.

George Wilson, 24, and George James, 21, who had been convicted on a charge of stealing a purse containing £1 14s from the person of Michael Callaghan, at Sydney, on May 1, were each sentenced to be imprisoned, with hard labour, for four years in Bathurst Gaol.

His Honor said that for men of their years the prisoners had very bad records, and if they did not mend their ways they would soon be treated as habitual criminals.

SENTENCED FOR UTTERING.

Wallace Colin Ewing was sentenced to two years' hard labour in Bathurst Gaol, he having been convicted of stealing two cheques for the payment of £10 and £5 respectively, the property of Thomas Dorrington, at Paddington, on March 18.

Ermond William Lewis Ward, who was convicted on a charge of uttering an order for the payment of £3 0s 6d, at Balmain, on March 10, was sentenced to nine months' hard labour in Bathurst Gaol.

POSTPONED.

The hearing of the charge of bigamy preferred against William Charles Dane was postponed to allow of the attendance of material witnesses for the defence.

Leonard Baxter pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing £145, the property of Leonard Thomas Peacock, at Liverpool, on April 25, and the hearing was postponed, he accused being bound over to appear for trial when called upon.

SENTENCE DEFERRED.

Bertie Perkins, who had been convicted on three charges of embezzling the sums of 5s 4d, 1s 4d, and 10s, the property of William Farrell and others, by whom he was employed, was bound over to come up for sentence when called upon.

His Honor said that he took that course on account of the circumstances which led up to the trouble.

FORGING AND UTTERING.

William John Lever pleaded guilty to two charges of forging and uttering invoices for the purchase of goods, was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour in Goulburn Gaol.

HEARING OF APPEALS.

Mr. J. R. Browning appeared for the Crown.

TAXI-DRIVER'S CONVICTION SUSTAINED.

The appeal of Thomas Munro Broadley, a taxi-driver, against his conviction by Mr. Barnett, S.M., at the Central Police Court, on April 2, when his license was suspended for six months, and he was fined £12, with 17s costs, for negligently driving a motor car in George-street, city, on March 13, was dismissed, and the conviction sustained; but the suspension of the license was varied from six months to three months from April 2. The appellant was ordered to pay £2 2s costs.

Mr. Blacket, K.C., with Mr. C. G. Addison, instructed by Mr. Leslie Gannon, appeared in support of the appeal.

His Honor said that there were 12 previous convictions for breaches of the traffic regulations recorded against Broadley, and he doubted if the magistrate had the list before him when he tried the case. It disclosed no serious offence.

Mr. Blacket asked that Broadley be allowed to drive his car home, but his Honor said that he had not the power to give the permission. He said that it was a matter for the police, and on no objection being raised by them, he was given the permission.

LICENSING COURT MATTER.

Sydney Broomfield, the proprietor of a wine shop in Hunter-street, appealed against an order of the Metropolitan Licensing Court (Messrs. Parten and Barnett) made on April 16, refusing his application for a renewal of his colonial wine license. The appellant contended that the order was bad and contrary to law; that the refusal was against evidence and the weight of evidence; and that further evidence could be called.

After the additional evidence had been given, his Honor dismissed the appeal, and confirmed the refusal, the appellant to pay £2 2s costs.

Mr. J. C. Gannon, K.C., with Mr. E. V. Hodgson, instructed by Mr. H. M. McIntosh, appeared for the appellant; and Mr. Mason for the Crown.

POLICE COURTS.

PERSONATED A DETECTIVE.

Henry Brooks, a young man, was in the bar of a city hotel on Wednesday last, when a man approached him, and said: "I am Detective Roche, how much money have you got? I am going to have it; or I will arrest you." Brooks asked him for his authority, and the man again said that he was Detective Roche. Brooks said, "We will soon see about that; I will get a policeman, and he will tell you whether you are or not." Brooks left him, but when he returned with a constable the man had gone away in a cab. He was subsequently arrested.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, John Seymour, a cook, the man who spoke to Brooks, pleaded guilty to a charge of having assumed the designation of a member of the police force, and was fined £3 by Mr. Macfarlane, C.S.M.

LICENSING COURT.

At Thursday's sitting of the Metropolitan Licensing Court the following transfers of publicans' licenses were granted:King's Hotel, Pitt-street, Sydney, from Edward Cole to William Freebairn; British Empire Hotel, George-street, city, from Alice Kaiser (executrix of the estate of the late John Kaiser), to herself.

TRAMWAYS CASE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The appeal to the High Court against Mr. Justice Higgins's awards in the tramway cases was further argued yesterday by Mr. Arthur, who appeared for the Tramway Employees' Association.

The Chief Justice, at the rising of the Court, asked if anything could be done by sitting later to finish the argument before vacation on Saturday next.

Mr. Arthur said that he had a number of matters yet to deal with. Counsel for appellants had argued for three weeks, while, so far, he had only been three days.

The Chief Justice remarked that he did not think any other appeal court would spend a month over a case of the kind. The only thing he supposed would be to continue the hearing in Sydney.

Further argument will be heard to-day.

COST PER BED.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—On Monday last a statement appeared in the press on the question of hospital administration, wherein the Minister for Public Health viewed with alarm the increasing cost of the maintenance of beds at the various metropolitan hospitals. Mention was made of the fact that each bed at the Women's Hospital (Sydney) cost £111 per annum, which is above the average cost per bed of any other hospital in the State.

The statement has caused considerable apprehension amongst subscribers and friends of this institution. Even at the present moment many wealthy citizens throughout the State are being approached on behalf of the hospital for financial assistance, and the unfortunate association of the name of the Women's Hospital (Sydney), with an extraordinarily high cost of management, is not calculated to impress prospective subscribers in a favourable manner. I now ask that prominence be given in your columns to the effect that the figures do not in any way relate to the Women's Hospital (Crown-street), Sydney. The cost per bed at this institution is just over £70 per annum, including the upkeep of one infant's cot to each bed in our maternity wards, the cost of each cot being no inconsiderable item.

I am, etc., D. MEADOWCROFT,
Secretary to the Women's Hospital (Crown-street), Sydney.

MRS. BUTLER'S EVIDENCE.

"I was recommended by a friend to make our own cough mixture by using Hean's Essence, and was delighted at the result. I found it easy to prepare, pleasant to take, and most effective for coughs and colds. Its goodness and wonderful cheapness should recommend it to every household. Please post another bottle."—Mrs. E. C. Butler, Christchurch.

Mrs. Butler is the mother of several bonny children. Cough mixture bought in the usual ready-to-take style had cost her a lot of money.

A friend recommended her to make her own remedy by using Hean's Essence.

She did so, and her experience is related above.

Hean's Essence is a new and original idea for supplying coughing folks with a good remedy at least possible cost. It is prepared by a fully-qualified chemist, who tells you on the label how much water and sweetening to add. You save 10s on a pint.

Already thousands of mothers are using Hean's Essence, and are delighted with the result. A guarantee of full satisfaction, or your money promptly refunded, goes with every bottle of Hean's Essence, so be sure you get Hean's. Sold by chemists, Anthony Hordern and Sons, Ltd., Pattinson and Co., Ltd., Lassetters, McIlrath's, Ltd., W. H. Soul and Co., or post free on receipt of price, 2s, from G. W. Hean, Chemist, 178 Castlereagh-street, Sydney. Wherever you buy be sure you get Hean's Essence, as no other will do. Look for my signature, G. W. Hean, on every packet.—22.—Advt.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

THE CATTLE TICK.

The dairy farmers' conference, which will be held next week, will be well advised in supporting the resolutions set down for discussion in regard to the cattle tick pest. We doubt if there is any matter which requires closer attention on the part of the owners of dairy cattle, particularly in the coastal districts. As matters continue, they ever stand in danger of suffering enormous loss from the devastation of the tick, and consequent enforcement of necessarily drastic regulations, should it once get out of control. It is owing only to the effective administration by the Stock Department in the past that control has been maintained. And it is well to remember that there has been bitter opposition, constant criticism, and often stupid impediment on the part of a section of stockowners in the quarantined district. At the present time there appears to be renewed activity in the same quarter, designed more in local interests than in the interests of stockowners generally throughout the State. As we have already pointed out, the present extension of the area affected by the tick requires that the Minister for Agriculture should investigate this matter very closely, and ascertain if it has any relation to the last relaxation of the quarantine regulations. Whether Mr. Ashford has done so we do not know, but it can be depended upon that he will meet plenty of pressure in the interests of the stockowners within the areas, and it is necessary that he should have the soundest and most thorough grip of the situation. Above all, the Minister should carefully consider the interests of stockowners outside the present quarantine areas and the frightful loss that would attend any widespread prevalence of the cattle tick pest.

The motion before next week's conference urges the Government to give effect to the recommendations of the Tick Commission by the erection of more dips to deal with the pest effectively, and urges the Commonwealth Government to arrange with the Queensland Government to clean a 25 miles buffer area on the borders of New South Wales. Both are excellent recommendations, both aim at the only solution of this trouble —the eradication of the cattle tick. The Government has delayed far too long in carrying out the advice of the Tick Commission, and in beginning the work of eradication. In that work more dips conveniently situated are a necessity, and they should be provided. As a result of the investigations of the Commission in America, the plans of a cheap and effective dip are available, and there is no necessity for the expensive erections of the past. It is unfair to stockowners that they should be compelled to travel their stock unduly long distances when they require to be dipped, while, dipping being the main essential in fighting the tick, it is obvious that facilities for dipping should be ample. In regard to the proposal that steps should be taken to clean up a buffer area on the Queensland border, this is a natural corollary to the provision of more dips on this side. Such provision is intended as a means of cleaning up the infested country in this State, and while that is necessary it would be work largely nullified while the country over the border remained badly infested. There would always be the danger of reinfestation, just as we live in constant dread at the present time of importing tick fever from Queensland. That of course would practically decimate our dairy herds in the coastal regions, and they will never be secure until the country north of the quarantine areas is cleaned up. The Government pathologist in Queensland has advocated the same thing as the beginning of a fight to totally eradicate the pest.

It would be well if the dairy farmers went further and asked the Federal Government to take over this matter of cattle tick infestation. As we have always pointed out, it is essentially a Federal matter. It not only affects two States and also the Northern Territory, but at the present time New South Wales is expending a large sum of money every year, and has done so for many years, in what largely amounts to the protecting of the dairy herds of Victoria and South Australia. Once the cattle tick got beyond control it would speedily work round the coast of Australia without respect to State boundaries. The Federal Government should take over the administration of the cattle tick trouble and actively work to eradicate it, beginning in New South Wales and working northward. The experience of America shows this can be done, and in many ways the advantages are obvious of Federal administration, ensuring a harmony of policy throughout. The fact that the best authorities in both New South Wales and Queensland now advocate attempting the work of eradication simplifies the position considerably. The two States are more in sympathetic touch than was the case in the past, and there should not be any antagonism to the Federal Government taking over the work of dealing with the cattle tick. While inoculation was deemed sufficient in the northern State, and there was any likelihood of the Federal authorities accepting such an expedient as sufficient, there was grave objection to Federal control in the interests of this State. We have successfully barred redwater and tick fever, and done without inoculation, with all its attendant losses, for nearly twenty years, and the introduction of this system is unthinkable. Now, however, while the fullest benefit of the inoculation system has been reached in Queensland, at dear cost, in that State it is recognised that the present position should not continue, and eradication should be attempted. Here this State can heartily co-operate, or rather can welcome Federal administration with that aim in view, but it should be provided that inoculation will never be permitted in this State.

ARGENTINA NEWS.

INCREASE OF SHIPPING.

THE WHEAT CROP.

SLUMP IN LAND VALUES.

BUENOS AYRES, April 28.

The British, German, and Italian steamship companies are steadily bringing into service on the River Plate route an increased number of passenger liners, all with greater capacity and speed. The Hamburg-Amerika Company intends to put three more vessels into the service at an early date. They will be of 25,000 tons burden. The largest vessels out here belong to this company, and they make the passage in three days less than do those of the British companies, who complain that the Argentine Republic does not grant them any subsidy for mail service, for which reason they do not feel inclined to cut out any of their ports of call or to use the tremendously increased amount of coal which increased speed would necessitate.

The second official estimate of the present harvest yield has just been published, and shows considerable modifications as compared with the previous one of last December. The present estimates are:—Wheat, 3,100,000 tons; linseed, 995,000 tons; and oats, 740,000 tons. Climatic conditions have caused a shrinkage of half a million tons of wheat, and a quarter of a million tons of oats. The available export surpluses may be taken as a million and a half tons of wheat and flour, 900,000 tons of linseed, and 400,000 tons of oats. The estimated maize yield is 5,300,000 tons, which is equivalent in value to 5,000,000 tons of wheat, more than counter-balancing the decline in wheat as far as value is concerned. Nevertheless, there will be a decline on the gross of the four principal export crops, both as regards tonnage and value—a deficiency of 1,295,000 tons of wheat, 119,000 tons of linseed, and 461,000 tons of oats, with an increase of 1,682,000 tons of maize as a set-off—a decrease of total value of some £6,000,000 sterling.

It is stated that the Republic of Chili will take 80,000 tons of wheat from Australia this year.

Railway receipts are considerably down, say, 10 per cent. Construction is practically suspended, but it is rumoured that one of the four leading companies will recommence construction work at mid-summer.

Killings of cattle for jerked or otherwise preserved beef shows the enormous deficit of 43 per cent., as compared with the previous year. For the first quarter of this year only 435,000 animals have been killed. The deficit is 35 per cent. on animals applied for extract, and 55 per cent. on those for jerking.

In land values the stagnation is so great that even the best properties at a forced sale do not fetch more than half the value of a year ago, and there are no sales except compulsory ones, either in town or country.

The City of Buenos Ayres Year Book has just reached the public. The population was ascertained as 1,428,000. The birth rate was 34.12 per thousand; death rate, 16.09; and marriage rate, 9.84; both birth and death rates comparing very favourably with those of other principal cities of the world. Illegitimate births were 14.4 of the total births. There were 1201 deaths from infectious diseases, more than half being from typhoid fever. A strict enforcement of vaccination laws has apparently all but banished smallpox, although in 1910 543 deaths occurred from that disease, which 30 years ago took off 2000 persons annually. The proportion of deaths of children of less than one year old was only 16 per cent. The meat consumption was 300,000 tons, equivalent to about 13½oz per inhabitant per day. The daily consumption of milk was 100,000 gallons. Real estate transactions amounted to £30,000,000, and mortgages £20,000,000. The exports exceeded imports by more than £19,000,000. Four hundred and twenty miles of tramways were in operation in the city, all overhead electric.

There were 111 race meetings, with 891 events, and 7894 runners. The prize-money was £4,000, and bets were made on the pari mutuel system, amounting to £10,000,000 sterling.

State lotteries were one vent for the gambling propensities of the citizens, who speculated three and a half million pounds, of which they had returned to them two-thirds of the amount as prizes.

Prices of foodstuffs are high. A sale on a western camp this week is reported, 1850 one-year to 18 months steers at £2 10s per head. In the local meat markets over £16 12s per head has been paid for steers on almost every market day, while £19 5s has been realised. The record for the month is £19 per head for 90 steers. For vealers £6 per head is paid daily for animals that were obtained for £3 17s two years ago. Cows have risen remarkably in value in the same period, realising up to £15 5s per head. In sheep the freezing companies are dealing on much easier terms than at this time last year. In 1913 as much as 31s 6d was paid for wethers, while the top price this year is 27s.

The first mob of native cattle crossed with zebu has arrived from Paraguay. They were 22 days coming down to Buenos Ayres, and owing to their having been disembarked at a certain township had to be dipped against tick no fewer than five times. Wiser the second time, the cattlemen and the combined railway management will get later mobs through in much shorter time, with no dipping en route. As may not unreasonably be expected, a heavy loss was made on the initial consignment. The beasts arrived in bad condition, and several were killed in so long a transit; the meat is lean and coarse, just right for sale in working class districts, where tender or fat meat entirely lacks appreciation; and the large head, huge horns, and heavy bone together left a very small saleable net weight. The test consignment is really the second mob, some 1500 instead of 500 head. The first lot were not worth handling, so far as the meat company was concerned, even though the pecuniary loss was not theirs.

Exportation of animals and animal products during the first three months of this year shows an increase in value of more than 9 per cent. as compared with the corresponding period of last year. Actual values, roughly expressed, are live animals £250,000, meat value £10,400,000, prepared meats, tallow, etc., £350,000, residues £16,000. Exportation of agricultural products shows a decreased value of 36 per cent, the only increases being products of the chase (feathers and skins) and of fishing. Twenty-four thousand odd cattle were exported alive, and 2,400 horses (diminutions of 62 and 33 per cent. respectively). Frozen meat ascended to nearly 90,000 tons, and chilled to 17,000 tons, increases of 9 per cent. and nearly 200 per cent. respectively. Wool showed an increase of 8,500 tons, the figure being close on 68,000 tons. The decline in grain exports was 60 per cent. oats, 45 per cent. barley, 31 per cent. maize, and 64 per cent. wheat, the total value of agricultural exports being £12,000,000. Forest products value half a million, and mineral products £6500 were shipped.

Pure-bred breeding stock, cattle, sheep, pigs, and horses, imported during 1913 amounted to only £366,000 in value, some £170,000 less than the previous year. The local press find consolation in this decrease, maintaining that the country is beginning to satisfy its own necessities for the refinement of the herds and flocks.

BEE CULTURE.

(BY E. E. ABRAM.)

Of all branches of the agricultural industry there is none so fascinating and interesting as bee culture; of all the insects of the world none equals the busy little bee in its energy; none so profitable and beneficial. The little bee not only provides for its own home requirements, it also stores a large quantity of the most delicious product for the gain of the systematic beekeeper. It is the main factor in the fertilising power of flowers and blossoms. These factors make bees the most useful and deserving objects to mankind. But, apart from that, the observation and study of their homes is not less interesting. Here we find a mystery hidden which even a life-long study is unable to fathom in its entirety. There is a mother, usually termed the queen, who lays all the eggs for the large number of bees, and some drones, perhaps 2000 per day, in the height of the breeding season, and her life is about three years. The worker bee's life is about two months in the summer, but longer in the winter, and the drones are tolerated in summer only when there is abundance of food and when their need is required. There may be from 10,000 to, perhaps, 60,000 bees in a hive, according to the time of the year.

The past season has been a very poor one as regards bee food, and it is not improbable that some stocks are running short of stores during the winter season before fresh stores can be gathered in spring. It is, therefore, advisable that all should at once see that a sufficient is stored till spring. Honey should be fed, as it is proved that it is most beneficial, as it is the natural food of the bee. It is advisable to feed pure honey, as honey and water fed at this time of the year would prove harmful to the bees; also, the honey should be slightly warm, as the results will be better thereby, by encouraging the bees to renewed energy. It should be fed late in the evening, and care should be taken that none is spilt about, as that may cause robbing, which would prove fatal during this time of the year. The best means of feeding depends a lot on the circumstances of the colony. If they are very weak it would be useless giving them three or four pounds at one time, as it must be remembered that the nights are very cold. Therefore the bees would not be able to consume it for some considerable time, and thus, in all probability, it would start robbing. A safer plan would be at first to pour, say, about half a pound of luke-warm honey over the combs, letting it gently fill the empty cells, repeating the quantity for at least two or three evenings. They then could be fed with two or three pounds of honey in an open vessel or a patent feeder, until sufficient honey is stored to last till spring. In cases where the hive is rather strong, then a limited supply of four or five pounds could be fed at the one time, repeating same till sufficient is stored. It is not deemed advisable to interfere with bees at this time of the year except under the above circumstances, as it is then necessary for the welfare of the colony.

The general cleaning of an apiary should now be done, such as rendering down old combs and cleaning out all empty hives and appliances ready for the coming season. If the hives require painting now is the time, as the bees do not come outdoors much. Combs that are required to be kept for future use should be stored in empty hives, with a space of at least three inches between each comb, to prevent the wax moth from germinating. It is also advisable to examine these combs now and again, and thus be on the safe side.

PRICKLY PEAR LANDS.

A NEW LEASE.

The Minister for Lands has recently had under consideration the question of the best means of coping with the problem of the eradication of prickly pear on Crown lands in a manner that will be effective and lasting.

It is well known that this pest takes possession, as a rule, of country of high quality, and spreads rapidly; and it is thought there should be no difficulty in getting the right class of settler to lease these lands, and, by his own labour, or by expenditure of his own capital, to clear them of the pest, if sufficiently good inducement be offered.

The practice hitherto obtaining of offering leases of prickly pear infested lands at nominal rentals, subject to conditions for clearing the pest, has, speaking generally, failed in its object. Speculators and others have, in many cases, taken up the land, reaped the benefit of the nominal rent, and then abandoned the lease when pressed to carry out the obligations.

To foil this abuse Mr. Trefle has now adopted a line of policy which offers special inducements to bonafide persons taking up these lands, by offering them under long leases practically rent free. The upset rental at which the land is offered is based on its grazing capacity; but a rebate in full of that amount will, year by year, be made upon faithful observance of the conditions of the lease which, inter alia, stipulate that the pear shall be satisfactorily cleared within a specified period. The object aimed at is thus achieved without unduly straining the resources of the fund for destruction of the pest; and the department is, at the same time, assured of a fair rental if the requirements are not met, while on the other hand the settler, if he does meet these requirements, is assured of the best terms the department can offer.

A case in point is that of the one-time Scone Temporary Common, about 1400 acres of which have been divided into six blocks, and tenders invited for special leases for grazing for the maximum period of 28 years, at the upset rental of 2s per acre per annum, subject to conditions set out fully in the "Government Gazette" of June 24, 1914. These provide that the lessee shall receive, if the pear-clearing and other requirements be fulfilled, a rebate of that rent year by year throughout the whole term of the lease, or until the whole outlay for the pear-clearing, if sooner covered by such rebate, is recouped.

Further, if the power to withdraw areas from the leases (restricted solely to requirements for mining or public purposes) should arise—which is unlikely—it is further provided that the lessee shall receive compensation for any unrecouped outlay by him in pear-clearing on the part or parts so withdrawn.

ROTHAMSTED SOIL EXPERIMENTS.

A STATE GRANT.

The Premier has decided to grant £50 to the Lawes Agricultural Trust towards the cost of establishing a new laboratory at Rothamsted, Hertfordshire, England, to celebrate the centenary of the late Sir John Lawes.

Sir John Lawes founded the Rothamsted experimental station, and was one of the pioneers of modern scientific agriculture in association with Sir Henry Gilbert. Mr. Holman states that the Federal Government of Canada has contributed £1000, and that the private subscriptions from agriculturists in the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, India, United States, France, Belgium, Holland, Spain, and Germany amount to over £5000. The Imperial Government has given a grant of £6000.

In addition to the ordinary work of investigation in soil fertility, which is always going on at the Rothamsted station, arrangements are made whereby investigators from universities overseas and staff members of agricultural departments can work in the laboratories when on holiday or special leave.

The principal of the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, reporting to the Premier upon the subject, says: "The benefits arising from the unique and valuable investigations conducted at this famous institution by Lawes and Gilbert to men on the land are inestimable, and especially to those settled in the overseas Dominions of Great Britain."

HAWKESBURY COLLEGE STUDENTS.

Reference has recently been made in the press to the number of students from the Hawkesbury Agricultural College who are occupying positions in the New Zealand service, and some criticism has been passed upon the Department of Agriculture because suitable positions have not been found for them in this State.

The Minister for Agriculture said yesterday that he does not consider this criticism justified; as a matter of fact, his department is at the present time employing a far greater number of ex-students of the college than it has done for many years past. In addition to those who are already employed in the department, Mr. Ashford has, during his short term of office, already approved of quite a number of extra inspectors and other instructional officers being appointed to the department, and the young men from the Hawkesbury Agricultural College will receive consideration for these positions.

Of course, with a large institution like the college, it is impossible for the department to absorb all the young men who distinguish themselves there, and, in fact, such a course would be undesirable. It is only to be expected from time to time tempting offers from other States and colonies will be received and be accepted by the well-trained young men from the college. So far as the New South Wales Department is concerned, the natural expansion of the staff is being provided for, and, as has already been stated, it is much better off for educational officers than it was a short time ago, and at the same time the officers are much better paid than they were previously.

CO-OPERATION.

Mr. R. Peacocke, Inverell, advocating co-operation amongst farmers, writes:—"The South Australian Farmers' Union 25 years ago could not get a bank to take up their account, which consisted of an overdraft of £150 which had been called up. At last the Bank of Adelaide took it, and it has been a very profitable account. To show the enormous strides this 'S.A. Farmers' Union' has taken in a few years, they have paid the S.A. railways for carriage on goods and produce in one year £38,000, and last year they paid 7 per cent. to their shareholders. If co-operation has done so much good for every place where it has been tried, why should it not succeed in New South Wales? The S.A. Co-operative Farmers' Union's share list now numbers 6000 members, but for some years the conservative man on the land shied at his best friend and would not be introduced to the co-operative movement. A few weeks ago one of their officers in a fortnight's canvass brought back one thousand new shareholders. Canvassing should not be required, every man on the land should come of his own free will and become a member. The union started in Jamestown 25 years ago, its head office is now in Adelaide, and it is the largest co-operation amongst producers in Australia to-day."

CANECUTTERS' DEMAND.

CONFERENCE ARRANGED.

ULMARRA.—A conference has been arranged to take place on Saturday between the canegrowers and cutters, when the demands of the latter for increased rates will be dealt with.

EXPERIMENT PLOTS.

MAIZE AT TENTERFIELD.

Farmers' experiment maize plots at Tenterfield were harvested on June 1, and resulted in the following yields per acre:—Golden Beauty, with 1cwt of M.I. manure per acre, 18 bushels 46lb; Early Leaming, with 1cwt of M.I. manure per acre, 22 bushels 5lb; Early Yellow Dent, with 1cwt of M.I. manure per acre, 19 bushels 45lb; Reid's Yellow Dent, with 1cwt of M.I. manure per acre, 15 bushels 51b; Funk's Yellow Dent, unmanured, 19 bushels 29lb. The above yields are of good saleable maize only, all mouldy grain, which amounted to 50lb per acre in some of the plots, being rejected. The mouldy grain referred to is a result of the dry rot fungus (Diplodea zeae), which forms beneath the husk, and may affect either a few grains or the whole of the cob. The mouldy grain is not marketable, and is claimed to be poisonous to stock, and when prevalent it therefore renders the use of the husker and sheller unsuitable, as the cobs really require to be husked by hand, so that the mouldy cobs may be kept separate from the sound ones. This disease seems to be much the same in all varieties of maize, and on all conditions of the ground.

Germination was good in all varieties except Reid's Yellow Dent, where weevily seed resulted in a thin stand, and this is the reason why this variety returned the lowest yield. The season was not a very suitable one for maize, and many plants in all the plots commenced to tassel about Christmas time, when only about 30in high. The Early Yellow Dent suffered more from the dry weather after Christmas than did the other varieties, all of which, being later in maturing, benefited more from the rains received in February and March. Considering the season experienced, the yields from all varieties are satisfactory, which is attributed to good cultivation methods and to manuring. With Funk's Yellow Dent the application of 1cwt of M.I. manure per acre at a cost of 7s 6d resulted in an increased yield of 3 bushels 45lb per acre, which is a payable increase. On the lighter and older soils of the Tenterfield district the application of from ½ to 1 cwt per acre of a suitable manure can be recommended, but it is doubtful whether the application of much heavier quantities would be payable. M.I. consists of four parts of super., one of sulphate of potash, three of dried blood, and two of bonedust. Early Yellow Dent is a quick-maturing variety of proved value for this district. The cobs are cylindrical and well packed with shallow grain. Funk's Yellow Dent and Reid's Yellow Dent are similar mid-season varieties, both suitable for the Tenterfield district. The grain is wedge-shaped, fairly deep, and well packed on cylindrical cobs. Early Leaming is a big-growing and heavy-yielding variety, with fairly deep, wedge-shaped grain, well packed on the rather small, tapering cobs. The grain has a tinge of red. It is a little later in maturing than the Yellow Dents.

PLOTS AT URALLA.

The Government maize plots on Mr. L. M. Rixon's farm at Green Hill, Uralla, were harvested on June 17, when the following returns per acre were obtained:—

Funk's Yellow Dent, unmanured	19 bus. 46lb.
Funk's Yellow Dent, with 1lcwt. MI manure per acre	25 bus. 40lb.
Reid's Yellow Dent, with 1lcwt. MI manure per acre	22 bus. 32lb.
Early Yellow Dent, with 1lcwt. MI manure per acre	21 bus. 54lb.
Early Leaming, with 1lcwt. MI manure per acre	25 bus. 20lb.
Hickory King, with 1lcwt. MI manure per acre	22 bus. 25lb.

The sample of Early Yellow Dent was the only one really hard and dry, although the samples of Funk's Yellow Dent, manured and unmanured, and Reid's Yellow Dent, were sufficiently hard to be marketable. Hickory King was fairly soft and damp, while Early Leaming was quite soft and damp. Early Leaming does not mature quickly enough for an average season in this district, and, therefore, cannot be recommended, although it is a heavy yielder when it gets a chance to ripen. If planted early, Hickory King will generally ripen. Funk's Yellow Dent and Reid's Yellow Dent, if planted early, will ripen and, therefore, can be recommended for early planting. Early Yellow Dent is really the purest of the lot, and, although it may not be the heaviest yielder, it is a quick maturer, and is therefore sure to ripen if planted seasonably.

Applying 1lcwt of M1 manure per acre at a cost of 15/ increased the yield about six bushels per acre, which is just a payable increase. This manure is composed of four parts of super, one of sulphate of potash, three of dried blood, and two of bonedust. Reid's Yellow Dent and Hickory King did not germinate well as a result of inferior seed being sown, while the remaining varieties germinated satisfactorily. The manured plot took the lead over the unmanured plot from the very start, and maintained it to the end. The season was a favourable one for maize, and the yields were very satisfactory when it is considered that these plots were sown on old, worked-out ground.

BATHURST EXPERIMENT FARMS.

BATHURST.—The conditions throughout the district are reflected in the good prospects at the experiment farm. Here the crops are looking well, and the fodder crops sown for cattle and sheep are giving good returns. Stock generally is in the best of condition. Pruning is in full swing in the farm orchard, the ploughing having been completed. The crusade against the insect pests is taking the form of spraying with oil, while the lime and sulphur spray will be used just before the bursting of the buds. The manager, Mr. R. W. Pescock, has deemed it advisable not to plant a green manurial crop this season, the limited rainfall during the past two years having made the conservation of moisture essential. The returns from the orchard are considered satisfactory, considering the ravages by the thrips during the blossoming season of last year. The prices realised have been among the highest. The orchard is to be extended by the planting of a number of young trees. Taken generally, the present season is regarded as having been favourable so far. The ploughing and sowing time could not have been accompanied by better conditions.

TOBACCO INDUSTRY.

TAMWORTH.—Mr. P. P. Abbott, M.P., has received a letter from Mr. Groom (Minister for Customs) with reference to the petition presented from 33 other tobacco-growers in Tamworth district, relative to the excise duty on tobacco, and referred by him to the Interstate Commission. The letter states that he has received advice from the Chief Commissioner that the requests will be dealt with by the commission in the course of the present tariff investigation, and that thepetitioners will be notified later as to the date and place of hearing. The tobacco crop in Tamworth district has all been harvested, and is in the sheds. The crop is generally good, heavy, and possessing good colour. The crop in Manilla district is reported to be exceptionally good, especially that cultivated by the Chinese. It is estimated that there will be about 130 to 150 tons of leaf in Manilla district alone, which is valued at between 6½ and 6¾d per lb. The estimate of the extent of the harvest may be not yet known, but it will be no large as previous crops.

NARROMINE APPLES.

Some particularly fine specimens of apples of the Granny Smith variety were received yesterday by the Department of Agriculture from Narromine, having been grown in Mr. Shelock's Canowie orchard.

TIMBER MERCHANTS.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

Speaking at the annual reunion of the Timber Merchants' Association, the chairman (Mr. J. Gore) urged it was evident that the industry had played a most important part in the community. The timber merchants seemed to be engaged in a continual fight. Even the Government to which the association gave its ardent support did not seem to be too kindly disposed towards them. He frequently dealt with timber merchants as if they were marauders. The association was not a combine.

Mr. C. W. Campbell said the association was only a small section of the timber industry. In Southern Queensland there were between 200 and 300 timber mills, employing thousands of hands. He hoped soon the association would be able to make a stir in the direction of afforestation.

PASTURES BOARDS.

BOMBALA.—At the monthly meeting of the Bombala Pastures Protection Board, Mr. W. Baker was appointed chairman for the ensuing 12 months. The secretary read a financial statement showing a credit balance of £175 17s 4d.

DAIRYING.

MILTON.—The report and balance-sheet of the Ulladulla Refrigerating Butter Company for the half-year ended April 30 last show an output of 117¼ tons for the period, the average prices realised being as follow: 124.34th first grade butter, 11.13d per lb; 823th second grade butter, 10.59d per lb. The total output is a shortage of 23 tons as compared with the corresponding period of last year. During the season the Central Farmers' Co-operative Society, Ltd., exported 1063 boxes of butter on the company's account, 790 of which were shipped to London, 219 to San Francisco, and 65 to Vancouver. As the final results for the season are not yet available, the expenses incurred have been placed to the expense account.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BOMBALA.—During the last eight or ten weeks, rabbits have been gradually decreasing throughout the district. Although many have been destroyed through poisoning, trapping, etc., it does not account for the very large reduction, and many people are of the opinion that the rabbits have migrated. The local stock inspector reports that in the majority of the holdings inspected good work in the shape of general destruction has been done. Prospects so far for the next lambing are exceptionally good. Although there were less sows in the district at the end of 1912, the lambing for the spring of 1913 exceeded the lambing of the previous spring by about 20,000 lambs. At the end of 1912 the total number of lambs returned for the district, was 95,000.

HARDEN.— Very severe frosts continue, and the ground is very hard. The growth of grass is practically at a standstill. The late rains, although only a quarter of an inch, have brought on the crops above ground wonderfully. The land is too hard to plough for a late crop or for fallow. There is an active inquiry for land for sheep-feeding, but it is difficult to get. Graziers have been stocking up with cattle, prices of sheep being so high.

SINGLETON.—Despite the fact that many conditions can now be said to have set in, the prospects for the cold months are remarkably encouraging. Grass and water are plentiful on all holdings, and few winters have been ushered in under more favourable circumstances for stockowners generally. The dairying industry is prosperous, while the stock markets are generally good. There is a keen demand for fat and store cattle.

Château Tanunda ★★★ Brandy

Since '89 From Pure Grape Wine

A Leading Wine and Spirit Merchant said:

"There's very little old Brandy in Australia, except Chateau Tanunda; owing to the shortage of stocks.

And it is quite true.

In the famous and romantic Chateau at Tanunda, South Australia, we have hundreds of thousands of gallons of OLD BRANDY IN BOND, and every pint of it is zealously guarded by the Excise Officers of the Commonwealth Government, who guarantee its purity and maturity. And age means value.

Want of age in brandy makes a decidedly harmful beverage. Its physiological action is the exact reverse of beneficial.

Moreover, you pay less for Chateau Tanunda Brandy, because it has 13/ PER DOZEN BOTTLES LESS DUTY TO PAY THAN IMPORTED BRANDY.

It is distilled from fresh grapes only—not dried fruit.

Sold by all Hotels and Stores throughout Australia.

Before you go to bed to-night—

if you are not feeling just "up to the mark"—if you feel depressed and generally "out-of-sorts"—if you feel muddled, "liverish"—have headache, yellowish tinge about the eyes and sallow complexion—the best thing for you to do is to take a couple of Cockle's Antibilious Pills. In the morning you will feel perfectly well. There will be no need to see a Doctor.

COCKLE'S ANTIBILIOUS PILLS

A REPUTATION OF OVER 100 YEARS

Originated by a fully qualified medical man, the formula of Cockle's Pills is unquestionably the most successful that has ever been devised for the relief of those slight indispositions to which everyone is subject at some time or other. They act as a tonic to the whole system and leave no ill-effects.

When Nelson fought at Trafalgar

there was a well-known surgeon living in Great Ormond Street, London, who in the course of his highly successful practice compounded a corrective of the system for the use of his patients. The medicine was so good that before long no less than seven Dukes, six Marquises, eighteen Earls and many others of the Nobility honoured the Doctor with their patronage. That Doctor was Dr. Cockle and the medicine Cockle's Pills—the same as are made to-day!

TARIFF INQUIRY.

LINSEED OIL.

MANUFACTURE IN AUSTRALIA

Mr. Harold Meggitt, managing director of Meggitt, Ltd., linseed oil manufacturers and boilers, in opposing a reduction of duty on linseed oil before the Interstate Commission yesterday, said his firm was the only one manufacturing the commodity in Australia. Although the business had been in existence for five years, and no less than £30,000 had been invested, it had not yet returned a profit. But they were now satisfied that under the existing duty they could carry on at a profit. This would be impossible if the duty were reduced.

It is an industry that should be of immense benefit to Australia, witness continued, and probably would be the means of inducing farmers to grow linseed. We are now forced to go abroad for our linseed. Nearly the whole of our supply comes from India, and some from New Zealand. The Argentine Republic and Canada are growing great quantities of linseed. He had seen it grown in Riverina to perfection, and was of opinion that once we got over the initial difficulties, and farmers were given an inducement to grow it, they would be given an outlet for a crop which they had never had before. There is no reason at all why Australia, according to the experience of other countries, should not grow its own linseed.

Mr. Swinburne: But you would be the farmers' only customer, and would it pay the farmer to grow linseed for your use? Would you be willing to enter into a five years' contract with the farmer at a given world's market price?

Witness: Yes, and we would be prepared to take all the seed he could grow. I have had negotiations with a prospective grower at Narrandera. He has promised to plant 100 acres.

The Chief Commissioner: That is not much in the way of starting an industry.

Witness: Two acres give a ton of linseed in the Argentine. Machinery suitable for wheat growing can be used for linseed because the cultivation is practically identical. Under the present duty witness was sending linseed oil to the other States.

Mr. Swinbourne said the commission had heard no concrete evidence as to the prospect of growing linseed oil in Australia on a commercial basis, and it had to be remembered that the present duty of 6d a gallon on the oil imported was a great burden on the paint industry.

The Chief Commissioner: £36,000 was paid in duty in 1913. Your output was about a third of the amount imported. Assuming that your output is sold here with the assistance of the tariff at about the same price as the imported article, that would be another £12,000, which is represented by the locally enhanced price as the result of the duty. Forty-eight thousand pounds is the cost to the country of the linseed oil industry. Your wages sheet is £4200 for the year, and £48,000 is the burden placed on the paint industry in the way of duty.

Mr. Piddington asked witness to procure expert evidence regarding the prospect of linseed growing in Australia on a large scale.

Mr. George J. Banks, of Banks Bros., agents, opposed an increase of duty on anti-fouling compositions for ships' bottoms.

Witness said that if an increase of duty were made it would not benefit local manufacturers, but be a burden on the steamship owners. He could not explain the process of manufacture; it was secret, and the best chemists in the world were now trying to perfect the compositions in use.

Mr. Swinburne: Yours is not perfect?

Witness: Oh, no.

The Chief Commissioner: It is quite refreshing to find somebody whose product is not perfect. (Laughter.)

Supporting the application, Captain Guest, shipbroker and agent, of Bridge-street, said the local composition was not as good as that imported. If anybody in Australia could find a product superior to that now imported he would make a fortune. At present the navy, he understood, was paying £200 a ton for Moravian paint for anti-fouling purposes.

Mr. Matthew H. Lauchlan, chairman of the association of British representatives in the oil and colour trade, applying for British preference, said a great deal of nonsense had been given in the way of evidence to the commission regarding the oil and colour trade. He would like to have the chance of criticising the evidence.

The Chief Commissioner: Our necessary practice is to take evidence from both sides, and then weigh it ourselves.

Witness: Yourselves?

The Chief Commissioner: Yes. (Laughter.)

Witness denied that the combination of English and German manufacturers of white lead had caused the price of white lead to rise to its present high price.

Mr. Walter Cox, manufacturer's agent, favoured zinc oxide paint being placed on the free list, and the importation of white lead being prohibited, because it was poisonous.

The commission adjourned the sittings until Tuesday next, when further evidence will be given regarding duties on paints. Evidence will also be taken regarding miners' picks, dressings for leather, kromoline, rabbit poisoning tablets, guillotine knives, wire nails, and barbed wire.

WEATHER UNSETTLED.

RAIN IN NORTHERN DISTRICTS.

Owing to the monsoonal activity in evidence on Wednesday over Queensland, the rain area extended from that State to the northern districts of New South Wales, and fairly general light to moderate amounts were recorded in the north-eastern divisions and along the northern border as far west as Hungerford. A heavy fall or two also occurred on the North Coast. Seal Rocks had 203 points, Clarence Heads 120, Byron Bay 102, Woolgoolga 55, Nambucca 53, Bellinger Heads 50, Barringun 47, Casino 43, Murwillumbah 40, Tweed Heads 39, Grafton 38, Mullumbimby 35, Eungonia 31, and Angledool and Port Macquarie each 30; the remainder being all less than the last mentioned quantity. One point of rain was registered in Sydney to 9 p.m. yesterday.

At 9 a.m. yesterday it was fine and clear at a few scattered places in the southern districts, chiefly near the border; otherwise cloudy to overcast, and in parts threatening, with showers or steady rain at many places in the north-east and along central northern border districts. A few fogs and frosts were also experienced, chiefly in the south-eastern districts.

The lowest temperatures reported yesterday were:—Kiandra 18 deg., Kosciusko 19, Bombala and Adelong each 23, Nimitybelle 25 deg., Cooma and Bega 26, and Rockley 27. Mount Kosciusko advised the lake frozen three inches. Excepting in isolated cases the temperature has again risen fairly generally over the State; the chief increases being 12 deg. at Kiandra, and 11 deg. at Hay.

Owing to an expansion of the high pressure over south-eastern Australia, many fogs formed over Victoria and Tasmania.

The intensified conditions on the Queensland coast have eased off, but in that State there is still evidence of monsoonal activity, as manifested in the easterly winds over southern parts, and also over New South Wales. Thargomindah reported a strong easterly wind yesterday morning. It was still unsettled over the greater part of Queensland, with rain, and since 9 a.m. Wednesday light to heavy amounts have been recorded generally south of a line joining Cairns and Urandangie. The chief falls reported were:—Bloomsbury 380 points, Mackay 364, Bowen 329, and Emerald 307.

EMPLOYERS' FEDERATION.

WORN SILVER COINS.

A meeting of the council of the Employers' Federation of New South Wales was held yesterday afternoon, Mr. R. H. Buchanan, the president, being in the chair. Correspondence received from the Employers' Industrial Labour Office showed continued support from employers, but pointed out that there was still a large number of employers who appeared to be unaware of the existence of this free office as a channel through which employers and employees might meet with advantage to both.

A request was received that the federation should, with other representative institutions, ask the Government to deal with the constant complaint that was being made about the rejection of worn silver coins by calling in all such coins, and allowing full face value for same.

ISLAND TOUR.

PROF. MACMILLAN BROWN.

"BOSS OF THE PACIFIC."

Professor MacMillan Brown, of Christchurch, called by some Professor of the Pacific, called by himself, in his own pleasant style, "Boss" of the Pacific—is about to make another island trip, this time to the New Hebrides.

What Professor MacMillan Brown doesn't know about our islands and their people is hardly worth knowing. Primarily engaged in an elaborate scientific study, he has written books about his travels and his work which have a wide popular vogue, because of the manner of man he is, and a style of writing as popular as himself. His latest book, "The Dutch East," dealing with his travels in the Malay Archipelago and Dutch New Guinea, and many of the chapters of which were originally published in this paper, has just been published in England.

The Professor has been through all the Malay Archipelago and along the coast of New Guinea, British, German, and Dutch, through all the Melanesian Islands—the Mariannes, the Carolines, the Marshalls, and the Gilbert and Ellice groups—and through China, Japan, Korea, Mexico, and Peru, and many more lands. The Gilbert and Ellice islands he has not "done" thoroughly, and hopes later to revisit them.

WORLD-WIDE INTEREST.

Last year he wrote an article—one of a number—on the ruins in Ponape. "That article," he said to a "Herald" reporter last night, "appears to have gone all round the world. An 'Evening Post' of New York was sent to me containing it, and various journals wrote to me, asking if I would write them articles on the subject. Then the 'Frankfurter Zeitung,' of Germany, cabled out to a German gentleman in Christchurch, asking him to interview me on my Pacific Ocean investigations. Professor Marett, who followed Sir E. B. Tyler in the chair of Anthropology in Oxford, and is coming out for the British Association meetings, wrote to me saying he had promised to deliver two or three public lectures in Australasia, and had chosen as his subject Dolmens—that is the megalithic monuments—and he looked to me for all knowledge of this subject in the Pacific Ocean.

"As to the New Hebrides, where I am now going, there is no megalithic monument there—no trace of it. But that lies out of my beat, so to speak. What I am going there for is to see how far the mixture I have observed in the Solomon Islands and all along the coast of New Guinea, and, to some extent, in Micronesia, holds in the New Hebrides—the cross between the tall European-like Polynesian and the small negrito. That is the cross I have found out all about, and I want to see if it exists in the New Hebrides."

ORIGINAL MIGRATION.

It is the original migration in the Pacific that chiefly interests Professor MacMillan Brown, who spends his holidays in going to all these out-of-the-way places.

"For the last five years," he said, "I have been studying comparatively the languages of the Pacific Ocean, and will be at it perhaps for another five years. I am dealing with some three or four hundred languages. Oh, it is an immense job. And I have clear indications that absolutely contradict popular and scientific belief as to the peopling of the Pacific Ocean. These indications will have to be thoroughly proved before I go to my audience. I find that where there are common words right through Easter Island to Madagascar—that is, two-thirds round the world—the derivation is to be found in Polynesian, not in any others. And another thing I have found is that that derivation is in at least 50 per cent. of the case identical with roots, forms, words in the Européan section of the Indo-European languages.

"Let me give you an instance. There is a word in the Malay Archipelago for the sago tree—'bia.' I find it along the coast of New Guinea, Dutch and German and even British New Guinea—I find it in Melanesia. In Melanesia it also means the sap of the tree and exudation from the tree. The derivation lies in Polynesia. In the Polynesian dialects the word is 'pia,' which means, in Maori, exudation from a tree—anything that exudes from a tree. But in Tahiti and one or two other groups it also means the arrowroot—that is to say, the white pith of the root of the 'tacca pinna tiflda.' In European languages—not in Sanscrit, or in the Asiatic languages—there is a word, 'pi,' to exude, which is the root of the word 'pine'; and from that comes our word 'pitch.'

THE CORAL PROBLEM.

"The only group I have not been to," the Professor went on, "is New Caledonia, and I hope to 'do' that some other winter. When I go to a group of islands I go to see whether my 'indications' are confirmed by the appearance of the people—their hair, their head-form, their stature.

"But the New Hebrides group is also interesting for the reason that there has been a recent volcanic outbreak. I want to see where the great subsidences occurred, as well as the volcano. As you know, there are two theories of the origin of the reefs. There is Darwin's theory, and there is Murray's. Darwin's theory is that a reef is always a mark of land having gone down, for the reason that the reef-building insect cannot work under 68 degrees of temperature, and when you go below 120 to 150 feet in the tropics you get below that temperature. So that this reef-building insect must work within 120 feet of the surface. Now, some of these reefs reach from 10,000 feet up to the surface, and this shows that Darwin's theory is true of many. Murray's theory is that the bottom of the ocean has, to use a metaphor, pimpled up into the sphere, or zone, in which the reef-building insect can work—that is up to within 120 feet of the surface. The Funafuti boring, conducted by Professor David, went down, I think, to about 1200ft, and there was nothing found but the product of the reef-building coral insect. No volcanic rock, or anything else, was encountered—nothing but coral limestone.

"Now, wherever there is a subsidence, there must, of course, be a compensating elevation. I hold that in the Pacific Ocean there are many evidences of elevation, but that elevation always means that there has been subsidence to correspond. I want to see in Ambrym the subsidence of the volcano, which is the mark of elevation.

THE CONDOMINIUM.

"Then there is a third interesting point which I want to investigate, and that is the actual state of affairs with regard to managing the natives, and with regard to the Condominium. I intend to keep my mind quite open, and will approach the matter without any bias, with a view to determining which of the various statements is the true one. I propose to listen to all types of men on this question, and then form my judgment."

Professor MacMillan Brown sails by the steamer Marsina on Wednesday next.

THEOSOPHICAL LECTURES.

Mr. C. W. Leadbeater last evening lectured before a crowded and appreciative audience at the Protestant Hall. As a lecturer he is the fortunate possessor of an imposing presence and splendid enunciation. That is one reason why he was followed with rapt attention. The true explanation, Mr. Leadbeater says, is that at death man is not suddenly transported beyond the stars. He remains exactly the same man as before, with the same intellectual powers, the same likes and dislikes. But his astral body has cast off the physical body, and so is no longer perceptible to our physical eyes. Again, the lecturer contends that there is no reward for virtue and punishment for evil after death. What happens to man after death is nothing but the natural result of his actions during life. There are cases of great suffering after death; but they are in no sense punishments. Take the drunkard. He is exactly the same, minus his physical body. He is full of a burning desire for drink, but has lost the physical body through which alone that desire can be gratified. So for him there is the real hell in the burning of an unsatisfied desire. But he made his "hell" himself.

ROYAL HUMANE SOCIETY.

THE RECENT WRECKS.

At the monthly meeting of the committee of the Royal Shipwreck Relief and Humane Society of New South Wales, held in the Royal Exchange yesterday afternoon, a letter was read from his Excellency the Governor stating that he would be pleased to preside at the 37th annual meeting, to be held in the Town Hall on Monday, August 3.

Relief was granted to the widow of one of the crew lost in the schooner Aleda, the only case which has so far come under the society's notice in regard to this disaster. The accounts for clothing, etc., supplied to the crew of the steamer Novelty, which was wrecked at Lake Macquarie entrance, were approved.

For bravery in saving life, the following awards were passed:—Bronze medals and certificates of merit to Mr. James Glew, for his bravery in swimming out, fully dressed, and without a line, from Little Coogee Beach, on March 6 last, and saving the life of a young woman who had been carried out to sea by the strong current then running; to Messrs. Denis Boland and Charles Newman for their prompt action and courage in rescuing a boy named M'Barron, aged 12, who had fallen from the ferry punt crossing the Bellinger River, at Raleigh, on January 29. In connection with this case, Mr. Dowie was awarded the certificate of merit for the valuable assistance he rendered in the rescue. A bar medal, already held from this society by Mr. Stanley Neath, and a certificate of merit were granted for saving the life of Miss Fox at Brunswick Heads, on April 13.

Certificates of merit were awarded to Messrs. J. J. K. Taylor and Harold L. Duckworth for going out in a frail boat through heavy breakers from Dee Why Beach, on February 22, and rescuing two boys, named Overton and Starkey, who had been carried out while bathing; to Leslie Childs (aged 13) for his plucky action while fully clothed in saving the life of a little boy, named Olive, aged 9, who had fallen from the wharf at Sans Souci while fishing, on April 12; to Mr. P. Mayes for swimming out with the lifeline and rescuing Miss Joseph, who was drowning, at Tuggerah Lakes entrance, on Boxing Day last; to Mr. Frank Ellersen for jumping from the ferry steamer King Edward, fully clothed, and saving the life of a little boy named Braddock, who had fallen into the harbour from Parsley Bay Wharf, on August 23; and to Mr. George Smith, who, without divesting himself of his clothing, dived from the punt at Central Wharf, on the 13th inst., and rescued a man named Deighton, who had fallen from the punt into the harbour while in a fit.

SIR WILLIAM LYNE.

A LABOUR TRIBUTE.

The political life of the late Sir William Lyne was debated at last night's meeting of the Labour Council of New South Wales, on the motion of Mr. W. Cahill (Operative Bricklayers), who moved that a portrait of the deceased should be hung in the council chamber alongside the portrait in oils of the late Mr. E. W. O'Sullivan. It was explained that the introduction of the law of arbitration and early closing was due to Sir William Lyne, and mention was made of his democratic principles, and his adherence to them at all costs. The motion was seconded by Mr. F. Glynn (Hospital and Asylum Employees' Union).

Mr. H. Connell (Moulders) asked if the council was to provide the photo., or if it would be presented.

Mr. Cahill said the photo. should be provided by the Trades Hall Association.

Mr. Connell thereupon opposed the motion. To ask the unions to subscribe to such a proposal would, he said, bring only humiliation.

The motion was carried by 47 votes to 25.

JEWISH GIRLS' GUILD.

Mr. John J. Cohen presided at the annual meeting of the Jewish Girls' Guild in the vestry of the Grand Synagogue yesterday afternoon. Miss Rosa Ahronson, the hon. secretary, presented the 20th annual report, which showed that the amount available for disbursement among the charities within the guild's sphere was £247 19s 6d, 50 persons had been relieved, and visits made to different hospitals. The United Charities' Fund gave £15 17s 6d, and £35 had been allotted under the late Mr. W. Hall's will, while £50 had been received from the trustees of the late Mr. Louis Phillips's estate. Mr. E. S. Marks, hon. auditor, complimented the guild officials on their excellent bookkeeping. Rev. Francis Cohen made a short speech of congratulation on the good work achieved by the Girls' Guild. Votes of thanks were accorded Mr. John J. Cohen for presiding, and to Mrs. B. F. Marks for her kindly interest as president. The vice-presidents are Mrs. L. M. Phillips and Miss Coronel; hon. treasurer, Miss Jenny Lawrence; and hon. secretary, Miss Rose Ahronson. The committee are:—Misses Celia Benjamin, Muriel Benjamin, Topsy Cohen, Edith Cohen, Marion Dare, R. Green, Gladys N. Loewenthal, Olga N. Loewenthal, Minnie Himmelhoch, Muriel Lion, Belle Marks, Zillah Mendlesohn, Tamar Nettheim, Rae Solomon, Essie Solomon, Leah Solomon, G. Nettheim. Extra sewing members, Miss Hilda Marks, Miss Bowman, Miss Ray Cohen, Miss Sadie Joseph.

THE ARMY.

TRAINING THE RECRUITS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In framing instructions for the training of the Australian army during the financial year which commences next month the military authorities have apparently kept in view the recommendations of General Sir Ian Hamilton, particularly with regard to its progressiveness, and the necessity for increased attention to the training of recruits.

It is laid down that the training of citizen soldiers is to be confined to what is essential for war preparation. In following out the directions the officers are to devote particular attention to the organisation of systematic methods of training so as to ensure: (a) That subjects taught are suited to the rank and knowledge of those under instruction; (b) that subordinate leaders know what to teach, and the best methods of imparting instruction; (c) economy of time; (d) economy of public funds, in order that results are commensurate with the expenditure.

MEAT TRADE.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Mr. Justice Street, sitting as a commission appointed to inquire into matters relating to the meat industry, heard further evidence yesterday.

Mr. T. R. Bavin examined witnesses on behalf of the Federal Government.

Harold Leslie Cooper, acting Melbourne manager for A. E. Cooper and A. Simms, trading as Simms, Cooper, and Co., Proprietary Ltd., exporters of frozen meat, gave evidence.

Mr. Bavin: Do you know of any representatives of Swift or Armour or other American firms?—No. A certain London firm has insinuated that we are connected with the beef trust, but they do not say anything of the efforts made to capture our London markets. They are trying to keep us out of the business here. We have been undercut by a firm with an Australian house.

Mr. Bavin: Are you connected with any American firm in any way?—No. We are waiting the opportunity for somebody to come out into the daylight to say that.

VICTORIAN PARLIAMENT.

FINAL SESSION OPENED.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The fourth and final session of the State Parliament was opened yesterday by the State Governor (Sir Arthur Stanley). It was intimated that the following legislative proposals would be introduced by the Government during the session:—Combinations and Monopolies Bill, Railway Lands Acquisition (Abolition of Local Rates) Bill, Re-election of Ministers Bill, Metropolitan Gas Company Bill, Local Government Acts Amending Bill, Country Town Sewering (Facilitating) Bill, Factories and Shops Bill, Charities Bill, Railway Construction Bills, Grading of Cream Bill, Charitable Trusts Bill.

The session will be a short one.

DOMINION POLITICS.

GOVERNOR'S SPEECH.

NON-COMMITTAL AND COLOURLESS.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Thursday.

Parliament was opened by the Governor (Lord Liverpool) to-day.

In the course of his speech, the Governor said the proposals relating to the question of the cost of living would be brought forward. The Legislative Council Election Bill of last session would be again introduced. The commencement of the Act would, however, be postponed until after the session of 1915.

It was intended to submit legislation providing that the area of land attached to workers' homes shall be in the country districts regulated according to the quality of producing capacity, the object being to give as many workers as possible an opportunity of owning their own homes at reasonable prices and on easy terms, with land surrounding each home appropriate to the locality in which it is situated.

Generally speaking, the speech was colourless and non-committal on political matters, the only reference to policy being a suggestion that a bill will be introduced relating to the promotion of the iron and steel industry.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Allen) has given notice of his intention to introduce a Referendum Bill in connection with religious instruction in Public schools, which will bring into the political arena the whole vexed question of Bible reading in schools, on which there is a great division of opinion in the Dominion.

Apart from controversial subjects, the Governor's speech says that the trade, as evidenced by the Customs returns, has been unexampled. The value of exports reached an unprecedented height. The imports represented in moneys worth an amount never before equalled. On every hand there were signs of advancement.

STATE TRAWLERS.

PREMIER RESENTS CRITICISM.

LETTER TO LABOUR COUNCIL.

The Premier in a letter to the Labour Council of New South Wales, which was read at last night's meeting, stated that the three trawlers could not be built here, as the equipment necessary was highly technical, and patterns were required. The cost would be between £8000 and £10,000. Referring to a debate in the council in opposition to sending the work away from the country, Mr. Holman recalled comments made by Mr. A. H. Hampton, secretary of the Boilermakers' Union, who had described the scheme as "absurd" and "ridiculous." "I protest," said Mr. Holman, "against the tendency of some of your delegates to indulge in criticism without sufficient knowledge of the facts of which they speak. It is not the language that should be used by a supporter and colleague in our movement such as I take it Mr. Hampton claims to be."

Mr. Hampton said the council had, now waited 28 days for an interview. If he did not get an opportunity of placing his views before the Premier, he would have something more to say at the council's next meeting.

The discussion on the letter was adjourned.

HOME RULE.

MEETING AT HOBART.

HOBART, Thursday.

At a large and enthusiastic meeting, promoted by the United Irish Leagues, held at the Town Hall last night, a motion by Archbishop Delaney, seconded by the Premier (Mr. J. Earle), was carried, to the effect that the granting of Home Rule would be a settlement of the legitimate demand of the Irish nation, and would result in strengthening the Empire and in giving happiness and prosperity to all classes in Ireland.

The meeting entered a strong protest against any partition of Ireland, and denounced "the treasonable conspiracy openly organised in portions of Ulster to subvert army and resist by armed force the measure of Home Rule repeatedly passed by a majority of duly elected representatives of Great Britain and Ireland."

EDUCATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As a parent I wish to thank Miss Badham for her courage in pointing out that our children are being crammed with a lot of unnecessary lessons, to the detriment of their health. My child is just under 11 years and has this month been examined in the following subjects:—English (2), Latin, French, mathematics (3), geology, botany, modern history, elocution, writing, geography. To these 13 subjects might be added French "conversation," reading and music, which she is also taught. My child attends a "registered" school and they work according to the syllabus.

I am, etc., PARENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In view of the many adverse criticisms which are at present being launched against our system of secondary education, would it not be wise to wait until the four years' course, as prescribed by the Department of Education, had at least had a fair trial?

Every new country comes to a crisis in her history when her education policy must be revised and brought into line with that of older countries. We are in the throes of this change at present. As time goes on, what appear to-day as difficulties will disappear. The "Zeitgeist" moves onwards—opinion, force—nothing can stop it. Our girls must be educated on broad, sound lines. The change that has come over teaching methods during the last ten years is enormous. In the hands of able teachers, every subject can be full of interest and call forth the keenest enthusiasm from pupils.

One could wish that more frequent inspections of registered secondary schools could take place. They are a wonderful stimulus and help to teachers, and an incentive towards thorough work on the part of pupils. If this could be brought about, the bugbear of public examinations might be avoided, which, as far as girls are concerned, is "a consummation devoutly to be wished."

I am, etc., VORWARTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It gave me great pleasure to see in yesterday's paper a report of Miss Badham's remarks on the present system of education in force in the High Schools. I was, however, very surprised to read in Mr. Holman's reply his morning the following words:—"Apparently she doesn't approve of mathematics, except, at all events, in homoeopathic doses." Even while at school I and many of my schoolfellows knew that Miss Badham rated classics above mathematics, yet in the VI. class we had a weekly examination in one branch of mathematics, while in other subjects we only had quarterly examinations. From this it will be seen that Miss Badham required, if her girls took up mathematics, that they should be proficient in them. Mr. Holman is right when he points out that the present High School course is experimental. It is—too experimental.

I am, etc.,
AN OLD GIRL OF THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.
Gosford, June 20.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As I read Miss Badham's fine criticism I certainly understood that she chiefly complained that the "higher" mathematics, viz., the mathematics of the leaving certificate, were necessary for an exhibition under the Bursaries Act. If Professor Carslaw saw that such a complaint was made, his letter, apart from other faults, was disingenuous. The same term seems, unfortunately, but inevitably, to apply to Mr. Holman's words on the subject. Will these "honourable men" answer Miss Badham with that explicitness that her capable and straightforward charge demands?

I am, etc.,
June 20. JOHN F. McMANAMEY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of last Saturday the Professor of Mathematics found fault with Miss Badham for stating that in the intermediate examination eight subjects are to be offered, whereas the Department of Education requires only seven. But, as a matter of fact, the circular from the department stating that seven subjects are to be the minimum for the intermediate reached the heads of the non-State schools on Friday morning—i.e., the day after Miss Badham delivered her speech. Miss Badham, in the light of information received from the department up to the time of her speaking, was quite correct.

Professor Carslaw states also that mathematics are not required by the syllabus for the intermediate. Well, literally speaking, that is correct. But the professor knows perfectly well the sense in which Miss Badham was speaking. In working for the intermediate the requirements of the University are kept in view. Mathematics are, therefore, taken in the intermediate course, and the fact that in that course three mathematical subjects count as two imposes a hardship, especially on many of the girls' schools.

Six years have passed, and none can tell
The loss of our dear mother we loved so well.
Inserted by her loving daughter and sons, Annie, Arthur, and Oliver.

LOVE.—In loving memory of our dearly-loved mother, Alice Maud, who departed this life June 26, 1905.
Nine years have passed, but none can tell
The loss of a mother we love so well.
But while, mother, you lie in peaceful sleep,
Your memory we will always keep.
Inserted by her loving husband and daughter.

LEARMONTH.—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Walter McAdam Learmonth, who departed this life June 24, 1911.
Three years have passed and none can tell
The loss of one we loved so well;
Forget him, no, we never will,
As years roll by we love him still.
Inserted by his loving wife and sons, also daughters-in-law, Martha and Edie.

LIDDELL.—In ever-loving memory of my dear husband, George Liddell, who died June 26, 1904. Inserted by his loving wife, E. Liddell.

MANDER.—In loving memory of our dear father, William Charles Mander, who departed this life on June 25, 1913. Sleeping in peace. Inserted by his loving children, Winnie, Frederick, and Percy.

MARTINDALE.—In sad but loving memory of my dear son, Harold, who departed this life June 26th, 1912. Rest at last. Inserted by his mother.

MINTER.—In loving memory of our dearly-loved mother, Annie Minter, who departed this life on June 26, 1912. In memory dear. Inserted by her loving daughters, Mrs. G. Mumford, Mrs. C. Grassick, and Mrs. A. Frederick.

NEWMAN.—In loving memory of my dear wife, Ellen Newman, who departed this life June 26, 1913.
Your memory is as dear to-day
As in the hour you passed away.
Inserted by her loving husband, William Newman.

NEWMAN.—In fond and loving memory of our dear mother, Ellen Newman, who passed away June 26, 1913.
Mother, dear, when you were here,
We did not know your worth;
But now you've gone we'd give the world
To have you back on earth.
Inserted by her loving daughter and son, Olive and Albert.

NEWMAN.—In fond and loving memory of our dear mother, Ellen Newman, who departed this life on June 26, 1913.
We often sit and think of you,
And think of how you died;
But, oh, 'twas sad to think
We could not say good-bye.
Inserted by her loving daughter and son-in-law, May and Jack Griffin.

NEWMAN.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Ellen Newman, who departed this life June 26, 1913.
One year has passed, and none can tell,
The loss of my mother, I loved so well;
And while mother lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory I shall always keep.
Inserted by her loving son, Frank.

PORTER.—In sad but loving remembrance of our dear mother and grandmother, Mildred Ann Porter, who departed this life June 26, 1911, at Campsie.
In the silent grave o'er yonder
Lies the one we loved so well.
But in heaven we hope to meet her,
There with Jesus Christ to dwell.
Inserted by her loving son and daughter-in-law, Harry and May, and granddaughters, Irene and Sadie.

PORTER.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mildred Ann, who departed this life June 26th, 1911.
Time has passed, still how we miss her,
Words would fail our love to tell;
But in heaven we hope to meet her,
Jesus doeth all things well.
Inserted by her loving children, Mill and Fred.

POWER.—In ever-loving memory of our dearly loved daughter and sister, Doris Irene (Dot), who departed this life June 26, 1913, aged 14 years.
But death cannot sever the bond of our love,
Nor steal the fond hope we shall meet her above.
Inserted by her loving parents, sister, and brother, Mr. and Mrs. W. Power, Rita, and Will.

POWER.—In ever-loving memory of my dear granddaughter, Doris Irene (Dot), who departed this life June 26, 1913. Love's memory never fades. Inserted by her loving grandma, Mrs. E. Wagstaff.

POWER.—In loving memory of my beloved niece, Doris Irene (Dot), who departed this life June 26, 1913, aged 14 years. Leaves may fade, but memory never. Inserted by her loving uncle, Arch. Wagstaff.

POWER.—In loving memory of dear Doris, who departed this life June 26, 1913. Dear to our memory still. Inserted by her loving aunt and uncle, Harriet and Joe Hansby, and uncle, Harry Power.

POWER.—In loving remembrance of Doris Irene (Dot), who departed this life June 26, 1913. Dearly loved, sadly missed. Inserted by her sincere friend, W. M'Leod.

POWER.—In sad but loving memory of our dear little niece, Doris Irene, who departed this life June 26, 1913, aged 14 years and 5 months. Inserted by her loving aunt and uncle, Susie and Bert O'Hara.

ROBINSON.—In loving memory of our dear brother and uncle, Alfred, who departed this life June 26th, 1912. Inserted by his loving brother and sister-in-law, Will and Sarah Robinson, and family.

IN MEMORIAM.

ROBINSON.—A tribute of everlasting love to the memory of my darling husband, Alfred Robinson, who departed this life June 26, 1912.
Our home is always lonely,
My heart is always sad;
I miss my loving husband,
The little ones miss their dad.
For a loving father thou hast been,
A husband true and kind,
A fonder heart could never beat
To those now left behind.
Inserted by his sorrowing wife and children, Alfred, Ruby, Mary, Neta, and baby Willie.

ROBINSON.—In sad but loving memory of my dear father, Alfred Robinson, who departed this life June 26, 1912.
If I could have my dearest wish fulfilled,
And take my choice of all earth's treasure, too,
Or choose from heaven what I would,
I would only ask for you, dear dad.
Inserted by his loving daughter, Ruby, Ernie, and Pearl Mulholland.

ROBINSON.—In loving memory of my dear brother-in-law, Alfred Robinson, who departed this life, June 26, 1912.
We cannot clasp thy hand, dear Alf,
Thy face we cannot see;
But let this little token tell
We still remember thee.
Inserted by his loving brother and sister-in-law, George and Jinnie Alt; also little niece, Aggie.

ROBINSON.—In loving memory of my dear brother-in-law, Alfred Robinson, who departed this life, June 26, 1912.
Two years have passed and none can tell
The loss of one we loved so well;
But while he lies in peaceful sleep,
His memory we shall always keep.
Inserted by his loving brother and sister-in-law, Mossy and Agnes Cowan.

ROGERS.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Ellen Rogers, who departed this life June 25, 1902. Inserted by her loving daughter and son-in-law, Amy and Harry Braithwaite.

RAYMOND.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Eva May Raymond, who departed this life June 26th, 1910.
Mother, dear, when you were here
We did not know your worth;
But now you're gone we would give the world
To have you here on earth.
Inserted by her loving son and daughter, Joseph and Rita, and sincere friend, Mr. King.

RAYMOND.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Eva Raymond, who departed this life June 26, 1910.
Although the world divides us,
And your face I cannot see,
Let this little token tell
I still remember thee.
Inserted by her loving children, George, Joe, Rita, and May, and sincere friend, Mr. King.

SLEATH.—In ever-loving memory of my dear husband, George Sleath, who departed this life, June 25, 1912.
Peace, perfect peace,
With loved ones far away.
Inserted by his loving wife, Mary Sleath.

SMITH.—In sad but loving memory of my dear mother, Maria Smith, who departed this life June 26, 1907, suddenly, at Green-street, Waterloo. Sweet Jesus have mercy on her soul,
We think we see her dear, kind face,
Although seven years have passed,
And in our memory she still lives,
And will until the last.
Inserted by her loving son, Charlie Smith.

SMITH.—In sad but loving memory of our dear mother and grandma, Maria Smith, who departed this life June 26, 1907, suddenly, at Green-street, Waterloo. May her soul rest in peace.
Just seven years to-day, dear mother, since you passed away.
There never was a mother so loving and so kind,
They that have a mother, cherish her with care,
For you will never know her loss till you see her vacant chair.
Inserted by her loving son and daughter-in-law, Will and Pollie, and grandchildren, Willie, Eileen, Millie, Edie, Sidie Smith.

SHEPHERD.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Julia Shepherd, who died June 26, 1911. Inserted by her loving children.

SHEPHERD.—In loving memory of my dear sister and our dear aunt, Julia Shepherd, who died June 26, 1911.
Some day, when shadows deepen,
And the call comes down the line,
Let your face be there to welcome
At the gate, sweet sister, mine.
Inserted by her loving sister, M. Ford.

SHEPHERD.—In loving memory of our dear friend, Mrs. Shepherd, who died June 26, 1911. Inserted by her loving friends, Sadie and Reg Griffin.

STRICKLAND.—In loving memory of our dear brother, Albert George, who passed away June 26, 1911. Inserted by his brothers, Walter and Harry.

SULLIVAN.—In loving memory of my dear husband, Josiah Sullivan, who departed this life June 13th, 1913.
Just twelve months and fourteen days,
My dear from me was called away.
Inserted by his loving wife, Emma.

SMITH.—In loving remembrance of my dear wife and mother, Maria Smith, who departed this life 26th June, 1907, at Green-street, Waterloo. "Lord have mercy on her soul." Inserted by her husband and loving daughter and son, Ethel and Harold.

A COMMISSION OF INQUIRY.

Mr. Holman has announced his inclination to appoint a Commission of Inquiry in connection with the purchase of the Boorabil Estate by the Government. This is qualified by the need, before coming to a final decision on the matter, of obtaining a report from the Attorney-General, and consulting with the Minister for Lands. Finally the Cabinet is to decide. It may be pointed out to the Premier in this connection that the Government is vitally concerned in an inquiry, since it is to all intents and purposes on its trial. We have already disclaimed any intention of assuming that Mr. Trefle has been guilty of a breach of trust or of maladministration of the Department of Lands; and it is only fair that Ministers generally should be held innocent of evil until such can be proved against them. Nevertheless, the terms under which Messrs. Jones and Osborne are now before the public inevitably involve the Government. Because this is so, and also because the Department of Lands must for the moment be considered as again in shadow, there should be the strictest inquiry under conditions which will enable Ministers in future to say that they withheld nothing and had removed every obstacle to searching investigation. Such was precisely the course adopted in the land scandals of nine years ago. A Liberal Government was in power, and at first there was a disinclination to stir the dust of the departmental records and decisions. Ministers were not personally concerned, and it did not immediately appear to them that a Commission of Inquiry could achieve anything worth while. As public opinion, however, grew insistent, and rumour became blatant, Mr. Carruthers (as he was at the time) gave way. But even then it took some weeks to reach the point of making the scope of the Commission wide enough for the occasion. Finally, when the text of the Commission was published, there was nothing to find fault with. The purchase of Myall Creek by the Government was included in the ground to be covered; but the main thing was summarised in the first and last paragraphs. Certain applications for settlement leases were to be scrutinised, and the report otherwise was to deal generally with "the work of land agents in connection with applications for and dealings with Crown lands under the Crown Lands Acts, and into the fees and charges in connection therewith." We know what happened. One case dragged in another, until the whole unsavoury business, involving an ex-Minister of the Crown, was spread before the public. It may be said, however, that to all intents and purposes, the Government stood outside the inquiry. Myall Creek was certainly included, but Ministers were concerned to bring out the facts in cases dealt with under another Administration, and to enable the Judge to report upon them in due course. In the present instance the Government is directly concerned, and should be the more ready and careful to follow the precedent laid down nine years ago. With this in view, not only should a strong Judge be appointed as Commissioner, but some barrister should be instructed to assist him, appearing otherwise for the public. It would be farcical for a Government officer, or for any one under departmental control, to take up such work, since the Government itself is a party to the inquiry, and justice demands that the assistance rendered to the Commissioner shall be as real as it may seem.

Now, with regard to the terms of the Commission, the text of that issued to Mr. Justice Owen might very well be followed. The public wants to know, first, whether the Boorabil bargain was a good one. Then in the second place it is essential that the doings of land agents generally should be brought under review. As regards the purchase of the Boorabil Estate, there is, no doubt, the report of the Advisory Board in favour thereof, but why did the Government ignore the qualification to wait? The Board recommended resumption, but urged that "final action be deferred until such time as the authorised railway is constructed to within 15 miles, until which time the land cannot be profitably cultivated." There was apparently every reason to wait. Time was with the Government and against the lessee. It was seemingly in the interests of settlement that men should not be tempted to purchase land until it could be profitably cultivated; and by waiting the State would be relieved of any necessity to find money for the purpose of acquiring leases almost in hand. This is, of course, where Messrs. Jones and Osborne come in. They appear to have been paid for lobbying, and it is essential that they shall be given an opportunity of showing that they were doing nothing of the sort. In the United States any attempt to enforce payment for attempting to influence, or for succeeding in influencing, the Government to do certain things fails in the courts. Here it looks as if we have a barefaced claim for commission, certainly not earned in the usual way. It was treated as a matter between the parties, and judgment has been given for the members of Parliament who were seemingly able to hurry up the purchase of an estate which on the surface would have been better left till the railway was built. These are the matters which call for a most searching inquiry, especially as the members of Parliament in question could have wrecked the Government at any time by their adverse votes. In this connection may be quoted the third section in the text of the Commission given to Mr. Justice Owen: "To inquire whether on the part of anyone there has been any interference or attempt at interference with the purity of Parliamentary or departmental action." This had reference, of course, to the Sims cases and to the Myall Creek purchase, but its application to the present matter is obvious. The danger is lest the Government should make the proposed Commission futile by hedging it about instead of opening wide the way before it; and on behalf of the public we call for a full, comprehensive, searching, and immediate inquiry.

ASIATIC EXCLUSION.

The situation that has arisen in British Columbia over the exclusion of the cargo of Hindus on the Japanese steamer Komagata Maru is one of wide Australian interest. Though she does not take identical means, Canada, like Australia and the western States of the United States, appears determined not to allow what she regards as an undesirable race admixture. It may be urged that this is mere race prejudice which ought to be fought down, that it is due to economic forces, that it lacks appreciation of Imperial needs and Imperial aspirations. But no matter what is the motive underlying this desire to keep out a race which acknowledges a lower standard of living than white men will tolerate, the fact is that it exists, and that it will have to be fully realised in the councils of Empire. In the later and decadent days of ancient Rome, Roman citizenship went cheap, and hosts of barbarians were allowed to describe themselves as cives Romani. We have not reached the same stage in the development of that greater Empire of which we form part. It is true that everyone born in British territory is a British subject, and is liable to all the duties that that term conveys. But as far as we have developed, a British subject even has no indefeasible right of entry into any part of the Empire, any more than a foreigner has. This may not seem altogether fair, but it is a fact, as the law now stands. The citizens of Vancouver have declared their unalterable opposition to Oriental immigration, and ever since Sir Henry Parkes many years ago introduced Chinese exclusion legislation, Australia has adopted a similar view. As far as foreign aliens are concerned, the High Court of Australia has emphatically pronounced against their right of entry.

The Hindu claim and the Canadian refusal are thus of vital interest to the Empire. The whole system of Imperial unity is at stake. It is part of our Imperial policy that the Imperial authorities shall not interfere with the internal policy of the different sections of the Empire in matters that are not of Imperial import. So far we have been enabled to legislate and exclude aliens of Oriental extraction without interference from the Imperial authorities. The Acts we have in force have the imprimatur of the Royal or vice-regal signature. So, having succeeded in getting legislation on the statute book, it remains for the Courts here, as in British Columbia, to enforce the law. But the subject is one that is almost too important even for the law courts. It goes to the very root of the Imperial existence. It savours rather of politics than of law. So it has been suggested in Canada that the Government should take action in conjunction with the British Government to devise diplomatic means to reach a permanent solution of the whole question of the restriction of Asiatic immigration. The question is certainly one that calls for the most tactful handling. It is a subject that might be carefully considered by the next Imperial conference. At the same time, it is difficult to see how any conclusion can be arrived at which would be equally acceptable to all parts of the Empire most concerned. The more obvious solution is for the Asiatic races so to raise their standards of living as to make them unobjectionable on that score. Whether even were this done they would then be acceptable is a matter of grave doubt, for while economic causes are important, they do not stand alone. Whatever way the present litigation on the subject in British Columbian courts goes, it will be of great interest to all Australians who believe in the policy of White Australia, to which all parties in politics are definitely pledged.

NAVAL POLICY.

Senator Millen's statement made in the Senate yesterday afternoon may be taken as a proof of the sincerity of the Government in its attempt to put one important side of Australian naval development on a satisfactory basis. The revelations that have been made from time to time, both before and after the arrival of Mr. King Salter, caused the gravest doubts of the future of our policy of building warships in Australia. We were told that at the best the Brisbane will have taken more than twice as long to build as a ship of the same class built in England, and that the smaller ships to follow her would probably be out of date before they were launched. Many of his readers agreed with Mr. Cook that a great deal of unproductive expense would have been saved to the Commonwealth and a much better result attained had the first portion of the fleet unit been built altogether in England while Australians were preparing themselves for the most difficult and the most ambitious division of their programme. Senator Millen, by his statement, has shown that for the future Australia will be protected against one of the most fertile sources of disaster, lack of foresight and of the necessary preparation. Under the system now proposed it will be possible to retain in the Government service a staff of men expert in all the many branches of naval construction, and at the same time to provide that continuity of employment for which trades unionists have asked. The necessity of preserving the same spirit and the same discipline in a naval dockyard as on a battleship has been maintained by everyone who has the interests of Australia at heart. But the importance of continuity of employment cannot be over-estimated. Without it we cannot hope to have the necessary army of trained men always at hand, nor can we hope that the men available will have the experience and training necessary for their highly technical work.

There is clearly no great change involved in the adoption of a programme of a certain definite amount of shipbuilding in a definite number of years. Such a programme cannot be rigidly adhered to in the face of constant changes in naval architecture and naval strategy, but it is especially useful in a country in which the building of warships is concentrated in one yard, and from which it is necessary to order large quantities of material in advance. The change to be made in Admiral Henderson's scheme is instance of the flexibility of any programme designed to cover a number of years. It is not necessary to accept all the doctrines of Sir Percy Scott to realise that the submarine in some form or other is to play a very large part in the future navies of the world. The Australian submarines in their long voyage proved to how great an extent these vessels have developed from the earlier type. In the future they are apparently certain to grow in size as well as in independence, until they reach the dimensions of a vessel of considerable size, with the added capacity of proceeding under water. It is highly satisfactory to learn that in the opinion of Admiral Patey these vessels and the two additional cruisers will be more suitable for training than the destroyers they will supersede. They will without doubt place the Australian navy on the lines accepted as the latest results of experience for the navy of Great Britain. It is also satisfactory to learn from Senator Millen that the number of recruits continues to be more than was anticipated. So far there can be no doubt that of the two main branches of the Australian navy, the seagoing branch has been the more successful. It has attained a level of efficiency which will survive everything but exposure to political interference and incessant pleasure trips. But Senator Millen's statement reveals a well-thought-out plan to rescue the shipbuilding department from the disaster which has threatened it. It shows that every effort will be made to build the navy in Australia, and to provide the two essential factors—continuity of employment and a sufficient supply of expert labour. It remains for trades unionists to make the plan successful by giving a full return for the wages offered them.

DIVIDED AUTHORITIES.

During the past few days the details of two schemes have been made public, each of which aims at the relief of the almost chronic congestion of the various approaches to Sydney's waterside. The Railway Commissioners propose to divert the enormous goods traffic from the western, southern, and South Coast lines which at present is all concentrated upon Redfern, and to send it to its destination in Darling Harbour by a new route. This will leave the main lines free for passenger traffic, and will bring Rozelle Bay and Blackwattle Bay into the orbit of effective railway communication, thus ensuring their development as shipping centres. The Harbour Trust has also a plan which provides for undertakings on a very ambitious scale. The Harbour Trust realises that our wharfage arrangements are primitive compared to those of many less busy ports, and proposes to remedy this by resuming great areas of foreshore and building a level roadway at the water's edge from Dawes' Point right round to Balmain. This scheme also provides for railway communication with the water-front. Now it is obvious that both of these proposals are closely connected. The one is the complement of the other. The object of the one is to ensure that produce for export shall be carried more expeditiously to its destination. The object of the other is that ships in Sydney will have better facilities for receiving their cargo—which is the same proposition looked at from another point of view. One might naturally suppose that each scheme was the result of a concerted policy which had been arrived at after consultation and consideration of the various problems to be met. However, extraordinary though it may appear, this is not so. Railway Commissioners and Harbour Trust have each evolved their respective plans without knowing or caring what the other was doing. The result is that the Harbour Trust's scheme is affected to "a very serious extent," and will have to be remodelled. This is the sort of thing which makes a business man writhe at the watertight-compartment system under which his affairs are administered.

Here are two departments whose objects, in this respect, at least, were practically the same. Their schemes were obviously most intimately related, and surely common prudence alone would have suggested that they should learn what the other was doing. But pride or jealousy, or some other inscrutable motive, compelled each to ignore the other's existence, and to plan and contrive as if it were the only authority to be considered. It is reducing official reticence to an absurdity, when one body only learns through the public press of the intentions of another body which is engaged in approaching the same problem from a different end. One might reasonably have supposed that in such circumstances there would have been harmony in design, and that the plan of each body would have been part of a joint and settled policy. But apparently each has hugged its secret to its breast, and has quite disregarded the possibility of any advantage being gained by co-operation. We hope that in the future these departments will recognise that as the activities of each supplement the other, there must be a freer interchange of ideas between the two. Each is looking ahead; the goal of each is to make Sydney capable of handling the export freight which is yearly increasing in bulk. But if each endeavour to work independently of the other they will find that their efforts are continually frustrated and their good intentions are to a great extent stultified.

Saturday's "Herald."—On account of the large amount of advertising matter which has to be dealt with for Saturday's issue of the "Herald," advertisers and agents are requested to send in their advertisements as early as possible to-day in order to facilitate classification.

The Science Congress.—The Premier, in view of the assembling of the Science Congress in Sydney, has made arrangements for the comfort and entertainment of such a distinguished gathering. In addition to tendering a complimentary luncheon in honour of the delegates on August 21, the State Government will provide free railway travelling for all accredited members of the congress during their sojourn in New South Wales. The Government had also decided to provide funds for the printing of a handbook to commemorate the visit, and has authorised a grant of £1500 to meet expenses other than entertaining and cost of the handbook.

Tourist Resorts.—The Premier announced yesterday that it will be part of the policy of the Government to make the tourist resorts of the State more accessible to people of small means. The first step in this direction will be the provision of a camping reserve within three-quarters of a mile of Jenolan Caves. Mr. Holman has made a sum of money available in order that the necessary camping equipment will be ready for the tourist season in September. Preliminary work is to be commenced at once. This will include terracing, road-making, tent standards, fireplaces, fencing, gates, etc. A site was selected for the reserve after very careful inspection. The Assistant Treasurer (Mr. Hoyle) took a personal interest in the matter, and himself visited the spot. The caves are one mile approximately from the reserve by road, and they can be reached by a good footpath already existing by a pleasant walk of three-quarters of a mile. The Premier points out that this Government camp will enable people with limited money at their disposal to make holiday visits to the caves at very small cost.

History and Literature Teaching.—Speaking at the annual prize-giving function at Ascham College, Darling Point, Professor David criticised the State schools' curriculum. He said there were some disadvantages to weigh against the merits of a uniform curriculum and a fixed standard for everybody. Children, he said, should not be treated like briquettes of clay, all bearing the same stamp. Each teacher and each pupil had an individuality, the one of teaching and the other of learning, which deserved consideration. Whilst it was a good feature in the State curriculum to make boys and girls work, there was a danger in laying too much stress on mathematics and science, and in the corresponding less time given to languages, literature, and history, which were the great subjects for elevating the character. There had been a good deal of interest lately, he continued, in tree destruction. But he hoped the great tree of language and literature would not be touched in any way. The professor then compared the curriculum of the German gymnasia with that of the New South Wales department. The former showed 15 per cent. more time allotted to languages than was the case in the State High School curriculum. Yet the Germans were a practical people. Mathematics and science, he concluded, were hard on the girls.

Unstamped Receipts.—That an interim or temporary receipt is liable to pay stamp duty, regardless of whether it is replaced by a duly stamped receipt, was emphasised yesterday at the Paddington Police Court. It was shown that a receipt for £2, marked "copy," had been given early in the morning, when a duty stamp was not available. The defence to the action was that the money paid was merely a deposit on a purchase that was to be completed later in the day. It was not denied that, subsequently, a duly stamped receipt was ready for the purchaser. Mr. J. L. King, S.M., held that the receipt marked "copy," being for £2, was liable to pay stamp duty. He imposed a fine of £2, with 21s costs.

Too Much Information.—Witnesses frequently appear before the Interstate Commissioners unprepared to give evidence and waste the Commissioners' time in presenting their cases. Yesterday the reverse was the case. An elderly witness brought voluminous evidence with him. To the Chief Commissioner, Mr. Piddington, K.C., he handed a substantial looking brown paper parcel, saying, "An abstract, Sir." This caused Mr. Piddington to inquire, "If this is only an abstract, what is the real article like?" When opened, the parcel was found to contain three large blue packages, one for each of the Commissioners, shaped like briefs, and tied round with red tape. "A brief?" inquired Mr. Piddington. "Well, you wanted the information," witness retorted. "Perhaps they will not be more formidable than ordinary briefs." Witness remarked, upon leaving the witness's chair, that he ought to charge the Commission £100 for the information.

Political Systems.—Professor Harrison Moore, of Melbourne, makes interesting remarks on the political systems of Australia in the course of an article he has written specially for the Federal Handbook, issued in connection with the approaching meetings of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Professor Moore observes that the position taken as a whole suggests that the political centre of gravity is moving away from Parliament. "There are, on the one hand," he says, "those whose ideal is that of Cabinet and Parliamentary government, with such freedom of individual action as will maintain the deliberative character of Parliament and the responsibility of the Cabinet to the representatives of the people, subject to the present power of dissolution in the hands of the Government as a means of appeal from the representative to the constituency. From this point of view, pledge caucus and conference, and the precise and intricate features of the organisation are mechanical substitutes for the essential qualities of reason and judgment, and have the grave defect of dissipating responsibility. On the other hand, the election of Ministers in Parliament, fixity of tenure for the life of the Parliament, or until the passing of a direct vote of censure, abandonment of collective responsibility, and the abolition of the prerogative of dissolution, are suggested, and in various combinations find many advocates. Such means, it is urged, will secure at once stability in administration and freedom in Parliamentary action. Australians are now, at any rate, conscious that there is an Imperial problem to be solved, and in their maturer political growth are less disposed than in their youth to a sensitive repugnance to all discussion of the matter as disloyal to the ideal of self-government."

Malden Island.—Malden Island is a little dot on the Pacific, far off the track of the regular steamers. It is almost bare of vegetation, the only product of any commercial value being guano. Mr. J. Rassmussen, who spent several years on the island, and who is on a visit to Sydney, yesterday described Malden as "a flat pancake of an island," and said that life there was merely an existence, and a terribly monotonous existence at that. The rights of working the guano deposits were held by a Melbourne firm, and their employees were the sole inhabitants, their duty being to collect the guano and prepare it for shipment, a sailing vessel calling for cargoes every few months. There were four or five white men and about a hundred natives, who were mostly recruited from the Cook Islands. The inhabitants were well cared for. Everything required for their use had to be imported. The food consisted of tinned meats, vegetables, and fruits, the only change which could be got being fish, of which there were immense quantities in the sea round the island.

Whale Hunting.—With the object of finding new whaling grounds, Captain Carl Andersen, who represents a Norwegian syndicate, proposes making investigations in the neighbourhood of Java, the Celebes, and New Guinea. Captain Andersen, who arrived by the Medina yesterday, said that he was on a voyage of discovery, and it would depend upon his report whether the syndicate would continue its opertaions in these waters, and the grounds to be covered. He did not think Australians would ever bother much about the whaling industry themselves. They would find it rather a disagreeable occupation, and would probably soon come to the conclusion that wool and wheatgrowing were more in their line. The Norwegians were a seagoing race. As for whaling as a State concern, he had not much faith in the possibilities of success. The industry could best be conducted by private enterprise.

Stamp Vending Machines.—The proposal of the postal authorities to instal automatic stamp vending machines for the public convenience in various parts of the city was unceremoniously rejected by the works committee of the City Council. "We don't want them here," exclaimed Alderman English, when a letter explaining that no objection had been made to the machines in Melbourne was read. He added that the Sydney streets were too narrow. The chairman of the committee (Alderman A. M'Elhone) said that the postal authorities might affix these machines to the telephone posts if they liked, but he would strenuously oppose their erection on the footpaths in the busy centres which were already too congested.

Aboriginal Remains.—Mr. Clements, a resident of Little Jibbon, near Cronulla, recently unearthed the skeletons of seven aborigines. Whilst excavating in the vicinity of Pulpit Rock, close to the Government wharf at Bundeena, near National Park, he came upon the aboriginal remains, which were in an excellent state of preservation. This portion of the district was formerly the hunting grounds of the Turrawull tribe of blacks. Rocks in the neighbourhood are marked with crude native drawings of kangaroos, sharks, etc.

Record Cattle Consignment.—Included in the attractive consignments of cattle to the Homebush market yesterday was a draft of 421 head that came from the Lachlan district. The draft comprised bullocks, steers, cows, heifers, vealers, and a few bulls, constituting for the number, quality, variety, and prices realised, a record for the yards. The sale attracted considerable attention, and, although forward in a heavy market, was a most successful one.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Justice Heydon leaves Brisbane to-morrow on a visit to Cairns and the Barron Falls. He expects to resume duties after the vacation in the Industrial Court.

Judge Murray, Administrator of Papua, who is at present in Hobart, will leave Sydney for Port Moresby by the Houtman on July 18.

Dr. J. L. Hill was a passenger by the Moana, which arrived from San Francisco via Wellington yesterday.

Mr. Robert Atkins, registrar of the diocese of Sydney, to-day completes 60 years of service in the Sydney Diocesan Registry. He first entered the Church office on June 26, 1854, and was appointed official secretary to the diocese in 1875. In 1890 the late Archbishop Saumarez Smith appointed him registrar of the diocese.

The Wellington (N.Z.) Harbourmaster and Deputy Harbourmaster, Captains Johnson and Shilling, are both about to retire on superannuation.

The Tasmanian Government has decided to accord the late Chief Justice (Sir John Dodds) a State funeral.

Mr. John Cameron, a well-known Queensland pastoralist, died yesterday morning. He was a member of the Legislative Assembly for several years, until he was compelled to retire through ill-health.

Mr. T. W. Furse, general secretary of the Australasian Meat Industry Employees' Union, who has been recuperating on the mountains for some time, paid a visit to headquarters yesterday, looking much improved in health.

N.D.L. LINE.

A RESTRICTION REMOVED.

MEAT AND CEREALS.

An announcement of great importance to Australian shippers was contained in a cablegram received from Bremen yesterday by Mr. O. Plate, manager of Messrs. Lohmann and Co., general agents for the Norddeutscher-Lloyd. This was to the effect that the mail steamers of this line will in future be permitted to carry meat, cereals, and dairy produce to Belgian and German ports.

Mr. Plate yesterday said this would mean a very big thing for Australia. Under the contract with the German Government in connection with the subsidy, the N.D.L. mail steamers cannot carry cargoes of cereals, frozen meat, or butter to Belgian or German ports. "This condition in the contract," said Mr. Plate, "has now been cancelled by the Government. It was one point which people in Australia have taken exception to as a restriction of the Australian trade. This action of the German Government in doing away with this restriction will be generally appreciated here."

On being asked if the N.D.L. mail steamers would in future participate in the frozen meat trade, Mr. Plate replied that, although some of the big mail steamers had cool chambers, they were not fitted with refrigerator space for the carriage of frozen meat cargoes. "At the present moment," continued Mr. Plate, "we do not know exactly what is going to happen, but no doubt new steamers will eventually be built for the Australian trade, and most likely these new steamers will be fitted with refrigerator chambers. Of course, we have been carrying wheat by our freight steamers to German ports, but we will also be able to accept it for mail steamers now.

"The condition in the contract exempting the carriage of cereals, frozen meat, and wheat was inserted for the satisfaction of the agricultural party in Germany. However, it is very important that the restriction has been lifted."

IMMIGRATION.

MR. HOLMAN AND THE A.W.U.

"BITTER ANTAGONISTS."

The Premier referred yesterday to the further criticism by Mr. Grayndler, general secretary of the A.W.U., upon the immigration policy of the Government.

"This discussion," said Mr. Holman, "is much too wearisome to continue. Mr. Grayndler has been occupied now for the greater part of six weeks in trying to do every piece of mischief he can think of to the reputation and standing of the Labour Government, which he professedly supports. When his first charge is refuted he changes it into a second one. When this is refuted he to-day changes it into a third. The bitterest political antagonist could not pursue a controversy with more malicious obstinacy than this so-called friend and supporter has done.

"If his charges had been true it would have been bad enough for self-styled Labour supporters to have made the public scandal about them that Mr. Grayndler and the other members of the A.W.U. executive did. If the charges were true, it was their duty, as Labour supporters, to make private representations to the Labour Government in order that they might be corrected. When they declare our faults as here the disloyalty is doubly grave, and, when their charges are persisted in with malignant perseverance after repeated explanations and denials, trebly so.

"The real trouble with one or two gentlemen on the A.W.U. executive is that there is no longer a representative of that body in the State Cabinet. While my late colleague, Mr. Donald MacDonell, occupied the chair in which Mr. Grayndler now sits things were better. No doubt there are people who think they are capable of filling Mr. MacDonell's place in both industrial and political spheres. Up to the present they have not succeeded in filling it very adequately even in one."

DEAD-END SMASHED.

BUMP AT THE STATION.

The 7.19 train from Oatley, on arriving at the Central Railway Station at 8.20, crashed into the buffer stops, and threw them out of position about six feet.

The train was proceeding slowly into the station, and most of the passengers were preparing to hurry away. The bump threw them about the carriages in all directions. No one was seriously injured.

PREFERENCE.

IS IT LEGITIMATE?

VIEWS OF EMPLOYERS' FEDERATION.

At a meeting of the council of the Employers' Federation of N.S.W., held yesterday, a pamphlet dealing with the claim for legalised preference to unionists was read and discussed. The question, "Is the claim legitimate?" was answered emphatically in the negative, and as the subject is perhaps the most live question in Australia to-day it was decided to publish the matter and thus put before the public both sides of the question.

The author, in his opening remarks, said: "We must all recognise the great importance of encouraging a high standard of skill in our working people, as it makes for the good of the body politic, and ensures the command of the trade emporium of the world, and artisans have an undoubted right to combine together with a view of securing an adequate monetary return for such work. But this article deals with quite a new phase of unionism, which tends more in the direction of a militant, political, rather than utilitarian, unionism, and to-day is connecting itself with socialistic ideals which cannot be considered beneficial to the nation.

THE RIGHT TO WORK.

"The right to work is an inherent right, and certainly claimed by all free communities. Such being the case, one would ask, on what grounds have the Governments and the unionists of this country based their claim to preference to unionists?

Long before unionism was a factor to be reckoned with in political life, such men as Jeremy Bentham, James and John Stuart Mill, Wilberforce, Bright, Shaftesbury, Fawcett, and many others in Great Britain had fought for and successfully carried bills providing against most of the evils, thereby forcing upon the minds of politicians in the newer lands the necessity for doing likewise.

"To such minds preference to unionists or to any class would have been unthinkable. Those great Liberals looked to the good of the whole, even to the whole race, and not to a small isolated section of the community. There is a further peculiar fact that the country to-day from which so many nations are taking lessons in respect to the improvement of the working class is Germany, in which the power of unionism up to a decade ago as a political factor was non-existent. Yet to Bismarck, the aristocratic Minister, is largely due the great insurance schemes, industrial savings banks, farm for unemployed, technical education, the laws of apprenticeship, etc., all of which have helped to make its people the most successful artisans in the world to-day, and, what is more, the most patriotic and contented.

"The same until lately could be said for Australia. It is due very largely to the Liberals of the past that a large proportion of the benefits accruing to the people is enjoyed to-day, such as land laws, credit foncier, wages boards, old-age pensions, etc.

SHARE OF NON-UNIONISTS.

"It will be well to remind Australian unionists who claim to have done so much good for their fellow man that these Acts were supported by the large majority vote of the non-unionists as well as the large minority vote of the unionists, because it is only in the last few years, since unionism was legalised in New South Wales, Western Australia, and the Commonwealth under their Arbitration Acts, that unionism has become a political factor to be reckoned with in numbers, though still in a considerable minority in comparison with the total workers in this country.

"Can the unions claim to-day that their members are more careful of their employers' interests and reputation, that they have advanced in skill, in workmanship, and improved in both quality and quantity of the product of such workmanship, more than was the case before they obtained the privilege of legalised unionism? Can they further prove that, in education, they surpass their brother workman, the non-unionist? Can they say that, in respect to apprenticeship, they have promoted and supplied funds for technical schools or trade schools?

WHAT HAS UNIONISM DONE?

"One can only say that there is no evidence or proof of such claims. What schools are in existence to-day are paid for either out of the public funds, to which the non-unionist is equally a subscriber with the unionist, or by the generosity of wealthy men of liberal views, in the fullest sense of the word. Have the unions out of their substantial annual funds provided in any special form for industrial education by which the young artisan in their ranks can improve his skill? Is there any special inducement offered by the unions to such men after acquiring such knowledge? Is there any system, adopted by the unions, of grading, by which an employer paying a legalised wage or a wage higher than the legalised wage, can be assured of a competent or more skilful workman, on application to the union? This question was asked by Mr. Justice Powers in connection with the Tanners' Case, lately heard in the Commonwealth Arbitration Court, when he said: 'On the evidence submitted he would like to hear argument as to why there should not be a classification of employees according to skill, and what classification would be fair to employers and employees.'

"Is there any reason to believe that the employer will secure a more honourable, reliable worker, by applying to the union? These are the questions the public have a right to ask before granting preference to any organisation of workers. That some of the best tradesmen are in the unions is true, but most of these are men who belonged to the old trades unionism, whose pride was that they had the pick of the steady-going artisans in the trade. Further, there are a number of other members of the present-day unions who have joined owing to a desire for peaceable surroundings and freedom from molestation. These are the men which new unionism, with its boy members and political rowdies, is so afraid of when requested to take a secret ballot before going out on strike.

IMPOSSIBLE AND UNTHINKABLE.

"Compulsory 'preference to unionists,' legalised or otherwise, is impossible and unthinkable by the free men of the Anglo-Saxon race, and is eventually bound to fail, even supposing the foundations were built on quite superior claims to those advanced to-day. To successfully combat this tyrannical new unionism all that is wanted is a strong public opinion determined to protect all workers in the Commonwealth in their legitimate desire to secure an adequate wage and reasonable hours, but not at the sacrifice of their natural and political freedom."

PARLIAMENTARY FRANKS.

COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The committee appointed by the House of Representatives to inquire into the hiding of the Mace, the theft of the Speaker's copy of "May," and the tampering with the documents of the Chamber during the last stonewall over the abolition of the Preference to Unionists Bill, submitted an interim report to-day. After reviewing the evidence, the report concludes:—"Your committee has endeavoured to obtain evidence in regard to the removal of the Speaker's book and notes, and already has entered upon that portion of the inquiry, but finding that it would not complete the inquiry in the short time before the close of Parliament, tenders this report as an interim one, leaving it to the House of Representatives, if it thinks fit, to take the necessary steps in the next Parliament to appoint a select committee to accomplish the investigations [illegible]"

MEXICO.

VILLA'S SUCCESS.

ZACATECAS CAPTURED.

A BIG CASUALTY LIST.

EL PASO (Texas), June 25.

According to reports from rebel sources, Zacatecas, an important city in Central Mexico, has fallen into the hands of the Constitutionalists.

Two of General Villa's leading officers are reported to have been wounded in the fighting that took place prior to the fall of the town.

The city of Juarez is enthusiastically celebrating the Constitutionalist victory.

ZACATECAS, June 25, 2.40 a.m.

It is officially stated that the Federal troops lost 4000 killed and 2000 wounded during the fighting which ended in the capture of this city.

General Villa states that he has captured 800 prisoners, 12 cannon, two railway car loads of rifle ammunition and shells, and nearly 6000 mauser rifles, together with a large quantity of provisions.

He puts the Constitutionalists' casualties down at 500 dead and 800 wounded.

PROVOKING INTERVENTION.

WASHINGTON, June 24.

There are persistent reports that Mexican Federal troops are sniping at the United States outposts at Vera Cruz.

Rumours that the Constitutionalists have made further advances on Mexico City have stirred interest in the Mexican situation.

The War Department will not make public the reports of General Funston, commanding the United States forces in Vera Cruz, regarding the sniping. It is known here that there has been an investigation. It is inferred by many that General Huerta's troops are attempting to provoke a fight with the United States forces, in order to force intervention.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

NIAGARA FALLS, June 25.

Terms, composing all international differences between the United States and Mexico, have been finally decided upon, and the conditions under which diplomatic relations will be resumed have been embodied in a protocol, and signed by the mediators and the United States and Mexican delegates.

The character of the settlement is not expected to arouse any opposition on the part of the Constitutionalist delegates, who are to take a prominent part in the adjustment of the internal Mexican disputes.

AERONAUTICS.

REMARKABLE STABILITY.

FRENCH TESTS.

PARIS, June 24.

M. Quinton, president of the National Aerial League, states that a trial of the new automatically stable hydro-aeroplane yesterday was a complete success.

The pilot raised his arms above his head, and a passenger walked out on one of the wings while the machine was travelling at the rate of 60 miles an hour.

RECORD CONTINUOUS FLIGHT.

BERLIN, June 24.

Herr Basser made a continuous flight with an aeroplane, lasting 18 hours, at Johannisthal, which is the record.

THE AUSTRIAN DISASTER.

VIENNA, June 25.

The nine victims of the recent dirigible-aeroplane collision were buried in a common grave yesterday. As the coffins were lowered, 20 aeroplanes, draped in black, circled above the grave, and the pilot in the leading machine descended low enough to drop a wreath on the tomb.

ROYAL TOUR OF MIDLANDS.

LONDON, June 24.

The King and Queen are touring the Midlands. They have visited Nottingham, Mansfield, and Welbeck Abbey.

HOME RULE.

THE AMENDING BILL.

GOVERNMENT INTENTIONS.

LONDON, June 25.

The Home Rule Amending Bill restricts an elector to the exercise of one vote.

Under the bill Londonderry and Belfast will be treated as separate counties in the voting for exclusion. Newry will be included in County Down.

The second reading of the Amending Bill has been fixed for July 1.

The Government will defer the second reading of the Home Rule Bill until the Amending Bill has been disposed of.

The Unionist leaders in the House of Lords yesterday conferred with Mr. Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons.

It is expected that the Unionists will indicate during the second reading debate the amendments they propose to introduce in committee.

A section would prefer to reject the Amending Bill altogether.

Messrs. Redmond, Dillon, and O'Connor (Nationalists) had a private interview with the Prime Minister in the House of Commons last night.

NATIONALIST VOLUNTEERS.

Nationalists in London are organising a committee to assist in equipping the Nationalist volunteers.

SHIPPING LEGISLATION.

AUSTRALASIAN POLICY.

MR. NORMAN HILL'S CRITICISM.

LONDON, June 25.

Mr. Norman Hill, chairman of the Board of Trade's Shipping Advisory Committee, and secretary of the Liverpool Steamship Owners Association, in giving evidence before the Dominions Commission, stated that he could not recommend English shipping legislation on the lines of that of Australia and New Zealand, because the Dominions mentioned imposed handicaps which compelled the owners to recoup themselves by charging higher freights and fares than they would otherwise charge.

The effect of restrictive legislation, he said, was to give the regular Australian coastal steamers an absolute monopoly of the coastal trade, because outsiders were practically excluded.

As far as the ocean liners were concerned, they had a virtual monopoly because they could safeguard themselves by insurance against new risks, and by increased charges to cover legislative restrictions; but the tramp steamers, which would otherwise cut in at reduced rates were unable to adapt themselves to the special requirements of Australian legislation.

Witness believed that ships engaged in the transport of Australian and New Zealand products formed a monopoly, a fact that was due to legislation shutting off outside firms who would otherwise become competitors.

MARCONI SHARES.

CASE AGAINST DIRECTORS.

PARTICULARS ASKED FOR.

LONDON, June 25.

In May of last year Mr. Oliver Locker-Lampson, M.P., and Mr. Peter Wright, shareholders in the English Marconi Company, issued a writ against Messrs. Godfrey and Harry Isaacs, Mr. Heybourne, Signor Marconi, and others, directors of the company, to recover the difference between the sale price and par value of 500,000 shares in the American Marconi Company, the action involving about £1,000,000.

Yesterday the defendants applied in the Chancery Division for particulars of plaintiff's statement of claim.

Counsel for plaintiffs said that they had the names of two or three more members of the syndicate which had dealt with shares and created the boom, and they might discover more. Mr. Godfrey Isaacs was purported to have purchased half a million shares in the American company, but they now discovered that 700,000 had been dealt with, of which 248,000 could not, so far, be accounted for. A total of 180,000 had been placed in the names of people in America, and plaintiffs claimed that these people were merely Mr. Godfrey Isaacs' nominees, and the shares were dealt with in London.

Defendants' counsel denied these allegations.

The Judge intimated that as the proceedings were interlocutory, the statements should be regarded as unsubstantiated, and he ordered that the application should be deferred until better affidavits were furnished.

CHINA.

DR. MORRISON'S OPTIMISM.

LONDON, June 25.

Dr. George Morrison, Political Adviser to the President of China, arrived in London yesterday.

He declared in an interview that there was plenty of stability in Chinese public life and finances. It was true that there had been a shortage of money due to the unrest during the revolution causing the banks in the treaty ports to hoard £15,000,000; but this money was now gradually returning into circulation, and the outlook was very good.

Referring to the notorious bandit White Wolf, Dr. Morrison stated that his operations were confined to a small area.

SERVIAN THRONE.

REPORTED ABDICATION.

LONDON, June 24.

Reuter's correspondent at Belgrade states that King Peter of Servia has abdicated in favour of his second son, Prince Alexander, on the ground of continued ill-health.

BELGRADE, June 25.

The report in regard to the abdication of King Peter is denied, but it is explained that he has temporarily delegated his authority to the Crown Prince (Prince Alexander) during his prolonged stay at a health resort.

King Peter has two sons, Prince George and Prince Alexander, aged 27 and 26 years respectively. The former renounced his rights, and prerogatives as hereditary prince at Belgrade, in March, 1909.

REVOLUTIONARY PLOT.

RISING CHECKED IN ECUADOR.

GUAYAQUIL, June 24.

The leaders of a revolutionary plot to assassinate the President of Ecuador, General Plaza, have been arrested.

The conspirators had planned, after the execution of the plot, to proclaim their leader, General Concha, provisional President.

RUSSIAN DEFENCES.

FOURTEEN BILLS ADOPTED.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 24.

The Duma at a secret meeting adopted 14 defence bills, which provide inter alia for the prolongation of military service by three months, the hastening of the strengthening of the Black Sea Fleet, and the construction of strategic roads on the western frontier.

UNWANTED HINDUS.

VANCOUVER CASE.

A LONG LEGAL VISTA.

VANCOUVER, June 24.

The Ottawa correspondent of the "Vancouver World" alleges that as a result of pressure brought to bear on the Government by the Imperial authorities, and the difficulties of otherwise dealing with the Hindu situation in Vancouver, it is understood that the present court proceedings will be allowed to interpret the exclusion regulations.

If the court proceedings give the Hindus the right to temporarily enter Canada, adds the correspondent, the Government will not take steps to prevent them, but will take action, in conjunction with the British Government, to devise diplomatic means to reach a permanent solution of the whole question of the restriction of Asiatic immigration.

The local immigration officials emphatically deny the statement of the "World's" correspondent.

It is alleged here that instead of a writ of mandamus, the Supreme Court will be asked for a writ of habeas corpus, to test the Order-in-Council restricting immigration to those immigrants who do not come from their land of nativity direct.

The issue, which is vital, will be fought to a finish. Counsel have agreed to accept the pro forma dismissal of the present application at the hands of Mr. Justice Murphy, and this will enable the matter to be brought before the Court of Appeals in British Columbia before the end of the month.

Whichever way the Court of Appeals decides, the unsuccessful party is likely to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

In the meantime the Hindus are likely to remain on board the Komagata Maru.

OTTAWA, June 25.

A specific denial is given in Government circles to the story in the Liberal press that Cabinet has decided to allow the Hindus on the Komagata Maru to land owing to pressure from the British authorities. Officials of the Immigration Department are equally emphatic in declaring that every possible effort will be made to prevent the Hindus from landing.

It is pointed out that the Government gave instructions to the immigration inspector at Vancouver to strictly enforce the immigration regulations, and he had endeavoured to carry out those instructions to the letter.

THE NAVY.

PLACING THE NEW ZEALAND.

LONDON PRESS COMMENT.

LONDON, June 24.

"Truth" says that the transfer of the battle cruiser New Zealand as the flagship of Rear-Admiral Moore from the Second Battle Squadron to the Mediterranean will not be viewed with approval in the Dominion, which will consider that the Home Government has not kept faith.

The paper urges that if the Admiralty and the Dominion did not agree to station the vessel in Dominion waters, or if such an agreement has been waived, then an official statement should be made, "for the idea we have got the ship by a trick is not likely to stimulate the enthusiasm of the New Zealand taxpayers."

TRIPLE ENTENTE.

THE FRENCH POLICY.

GERMAN CRITICISM.

BERLIN, June 25.

Professor Theodor Schiemann, in an article in the "Kreuz Zeitung," declares that the policy of M. Poincare, President of France, must, sooner or later, lead Europe into war.

M. Poincare, he declares, feeds French Chauvinism with the Russian hatred of Germany, and devotes his efforts to drawing England into a combination in which no party can be its own master.

He adds that M. Poincare is the instrument of M. Iswolsky, the Russian Ambassador in Paris.

DRYING UP.

ALARMING SOUTH AFRICAN REPORT.

CAPETOWN, June 25.

An alarmist report has been presented to the Senate to the effect that many parts of South Africa are likely to become useless and uninhabitable through the drying up of the soil.

The report states that evidence of desiccation exists, although the rainfall remains unchanged.

THE SUFFRAGISTS.

LONDON, June 25.

During the visit of the King and Queen to Nottingham, a women's suffragist, with highly inflammable material in her possession, was arrested.

On being lodged in gaol she smashed the windows of her cell and declared a hunger and thirst strike.

ESPIONAGE.

ARRESTS IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, June 25.

Sergeant Pohl has been arrested on a charge of having sold plans of the Koenigsberg fortresses to Russia.

Doctor Blumenthal has been arrested at Dresden. It is believed that he is connected with Pohl's case.

A clerk and two workmen employed at the Rheinische Metallwaren Fabrik have been arrested at Dusseldorff on a charge of stealing grenade fuses and selling them to a foreign Power.

PARIS POSTAL STRIKE.

A SUDDEN TRUCE.

PARIS, June 25.

The strike of postal employees, caused through the Senate's rejection of their demands for improved working conditions, has ended, the Postmaster-General having agreed to receive a deputation.

There was much disorder at the Central Post Office until late yesterday afternoon, when a sudden truce was called.

The malcontents, mostly junior postmen, kept the seniors, who were disinclined to strike, locked within the building for seven hours without any food. The seniors lowered cords from the upper windows into the streets for the purpose of hauling up food; but the police cut the cords with the object of stopping the strikers' supplies.

ALBANIAN REVOLT.

FURTHER REBEL SUCCESSES.

DURAZZO, June 24.

The insurgents have captured the Mirdite chief, Prenk Bibdoda, who was marching with a considerable force towards Durazzo.

The troops that were marching from the south under Nurredin Bey have also been beaten back by the rebels.

The town of Berat, 30 miles north-east of Avlona, has fallen into the hands of the insurgents.

The work of strengthening the Durazzo defences is being feverishly pushed on, and it is believed that the town is now well nigh impregnable.

THE NAVY.

CRUISERS DISPLACE DESTROYERS.

CHANGE OF SCHEME.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the course of a speech in the Senate this afternoon the Minister for Defence (Senator Millen) outlined the policy of the Government in regard to the navy. He said there are at present building at Cockatoo Island Dockyard one cruiser and three destroyers. Of these the cruiser and two of the destroyers are now on the slips, and on the launching of one of these vessels the keel of the third destroyer will be laid on the slip then vacant. Much of the work in preparation of the material of this latter vessel has been done, so that its completion will proceed more rapidly than was the case with the first two similar vessels taken in hand. In order to ensure the continuity of work so essential to the retention of a trained staff it is necessary that much preparatory work connected with the succeeding vessel shall be done even before the slip becomes vacant by the launching of the vessel previously occupying it. For these reasons it is evident that a definite and continuous programme must be provided for some considerable time ahead.

MINIMUM PROGRAMME.

"These considerations have induced the Government to approve a minimum ship-building programme covering the next five years. Only by some such way is it possible to carry on at Cockatoo with anything like efficiency and economy and at the same time give effect to the Henderson programme. This, it will be remembered, included the construction of one submarine depot ship by the end of 1914, three submarines by the end of 1916, and three destroyers by the end of 1917, and three other destroyers.

"The board advises in place of the above two light cruisers of the Brisbane class and two improved submarines. In making this recommendation the board is following the lead of the Admiralty. It appears not improbable that the present type of destroyer will disappear altogether, its place being taken by the improved submarine, which is, in fact, a submersible torpedo boat, and partly by a new type of light cruiser, which is in the nature of a destroyer of destroyers. It is also considered by the Naval Board that the cruisers will be of more naval value in the immediate future than the six destroyers originally proposed.

"The proposed modification, I am pleased to say, has the approval of Admiral Sir George Patey. These two cruisers will be built at Cockatoo, but regarding the submarines, it is recommended that, owing to the special and intricate structure and mechanism of these vessels, they should be ordered from British yards. It will be sufficient if the orders for these vessels are placed next year.

THE ESTIMATED COST.

"The total estimated cost of the modified programme will be £1,700,000, a sum slightly less than the estimated cost of the programme for which this has been substituted. This cost will be spread over the next four or five financial years. These proposals, I have stated, the Government has decided to adopt as a minimum programme, leaving it open for any additions to be made should circumstances render such action desirable. It will be seen that the building proposals, covering the next five years, while continuing the steady development of the Australian fleet, will also give effect to the policy of continuous work previously set out as being desirable regarding Cockatoo Island. Steps are now being taken to order the material for the first of the new cruisers, but it will be sufficient if the material for the second one is ordered early next year. It is assumed, if nothing disturbs these proposals, that the keel of the first cruiser will be laid about May of next year, the vessel being ready for commission in 1917, the other vessel following 18 months later.

"Regarding the submarine depot ship, the late Government requested the Admiralty to obtain tenders for the building of this in Great Britain. For some reason of other these tenders were not forthcoming till quite recently. The present Government was, however, extremely anxious that this vessel should be built in Australia, and a communication was forwarded to the Admiralty to ascertain how far it stood committed to the tenderers. The nature of the reply, and the further delay which would take place owing to plans having to be forwarded to Australia, together with the board's strong recommendation that the vessel was urgently needed, has induced the decision that the original proposal should stand, and the Admiralty has been communicated with to that effect. It is anticipated that the vessel will be completed in about 15 months.

OIL SUPPLY SHIP.

The position with regard to the oil supply ship is similar. The previous Government invited the Admiralty to prepare designs and call for tenders. A tender has been received from the Admiralty, with a suggestion as to certain alterations in detail. It is intended to ask the Admiralty to accept the tender, subject to the tenderer meeting Admiralty requirements as to suggested alterations. Four oil storage vessels are in course of construction in private yards in Australia. Two of these, it is anticipated, will be completed in September, the others following later.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

OPENS NEXT MONTH.

THE PRE-SESSIONAL SPEECH.

The State Parliament was yesterday definitely called together by Government proclamation for Tuesday, July 7.

The Premier will deliver his pre-sessional speech on Tuesday next at Cootamundra. Mr. Holman's address will deal fully with the public works intentions of the Government, and he will comprehensively expound the general policy of the Government, not only for the coming session, but for the life of the present Parliament. Numbers of bills that have been before Cabinet and Caucus lately will take time to translate into law. Only a portion of these measures can possibly find a place on the business-paper for the coming session.

The feature of the pre-sessional speech will be a statement regarding the public works policy of the Government, but there will also be an array of other outstanding questions to be dealt with. The members of the Ministerial party intend making the occasion a special one, and a large number will visit Cootamundra to hear the Premier expound the policy of the Government for the first session devoted to general work.

GAS FUMES.

SIX MEN UNCONSCIOUS.

A remarkable accident took place at North Sydney yesterday.

A number of men employed by the North Shore Gas Company, Ltd., were working at the junction of Lane Cove-road and Berry-street, repairing one of the gas mains. Suddenly a leak occurred, and in the space of a few minutes six men who were in the trench were overcome by the escaping gas, and rendered unconscious.

Passers-by rendered assistance, pulling the men out of the trench, and placing them on the roadway, where they soon revived.

The men overcome were:—A. Dwyer, F. Dwyer, R. Hobbs, J. Seymour, T. Tollind, and P. Cashman.

WHITE LEAD.

MENACE TO HUMAN LIFE.

PROHIBITION ASKED.

Somewhat startling evidence was given before the Interstate Commission yesterday regarding the dangers besetting workmen using whitelead.

The Chief Commissioner (Mr. Piddington) said whitelead poisoning could not be entirely avoided by cleanliness, but a good deal could be accomplished by personal cleanliness and by paying particular attention to the fingers and nails and the consumption of milk.

A manufacturer's agent, Mr. Walter A. Cox, favoured its importation being prohibited.

The Chief Commissioner: Could the trade do without it?

Witness: France has done with whitelead for over three years. She gave manufacturers and others notice that they would have to use a substitute, and on January 1 of this year the order came into force. In Germany, Austria, and Belgium its use is subject to strict regulations.

Mr. Swinburne: Why has not England followed?

Witness: She will follow very shortly. Just now a select committee is inquiring into the use of whitelead, and their findings will be before the House of Commons at any time. Their recent political crises have kept the measure back. In England the Master Painters' Association and the workers in the glazing districts of Staffordshire are against using it, and are anxious to see it abolished. A workman needs half an hour in which to cleanse himself after using whitelead. We provide them with respirators, but they won't use them. As soon as the inspector comes in they pick them up from under the benches very often and use them while he is there. By leaving them under the benches they are covered with dust. It's no good telling them to wash their hands, they rush for the tram as soon as it's knocking-off time.

"Then there is the danger which children undergo in the parks," continued Mr. Cox, "while playing or having meals. Whitelead paint that has been on seats and railings for a long time frequently powders, and children are apt to get it on their hands, and then on their food."

Mr. Swinburne: It is a wonder we are alive. (Laughter.)

The Chief Commissioner: Yes. I see it is dangerous to play cricket now, or, at any rate, to be a bowler, on account of the dangers that may follow handling a ball a bowler a week before may have spat upon. (Laughter.)

SUGAR STEALING.

FROM THE RAILWAY.

TWO MEN FIRED ON.

About two o'clock yesterday morning Constable Bryson, of the Pyrmont Police Station, noticed two men acting suspiciously in Harvey-street, Pyrmont. He called upon them to stop, but as they showed no disposition to do so he pursued them hotly, and fired two shots at them. He continued the chase, but finally lost sight of the men in a laneway off Harvey-street. When he first saw them the men were carrying a bag each, and when he challenged them they dropped the bags, and cleared off. Constable Bryson subsequently discovered that the bags which the men were carrying were 70lb bags of sugar. It was discovered that the bags had been stolen from the railway goods yard at Darling Harbour. During the morning a boat, which it was found had been stolen that night from the collier Tuggerah, was discovered at the foot of Harris-street, Pyrmont. It contained a case of apples and a tin trunk. It is thought that the men who fell foul of Constable Bryson intended to use the boat to get away with their booty.

ROSSEL ISLAND.

SAVAGE CUSTOMS SURVIVE.

PAPUANS DYING OUT.

The latest estimate of the population of Papua is 350,000.

Mr. A. M. Campbell, the late Government Secretary of Papua, who is on a visit to Sydney, stated yesterday that the population had previously been estimated at 750,000, those figures being based on the belief that the interior was thickly inhabited.

There were comparatively few people living inland, it had now been found. Judge Murray, on his recent voyage up the Fly River, had gone hundreds of miles without seeing a native. There were still tribes that had not yet come in contact with whites, but not many. In common with the natives in other parts of the Pacific, the Papuans were dying off, though not rapidly, in consequence in most cases of the introduction of European diseases.

One of the least visited parts of Papua was Rossel Island, lying at the extreme south-east of the Louisiade Archipelago. Recently two or three whites had settled there, and established cocoanut plantations, but till two or three years ago it was very rarely visited. The Rossel Islanders were a race distinct from all the other Papuan people, and their mode of speech was extraordinary. They made a crackling sound, something like peas being shaken in a tin. Mr. Campbell said he did not think any European could ever master the language. The Rossel Islanders were lighter in colour than the other Papuans, and had some strange customs. When a chief died a party set out from his house and killed, usually by strangling, the first person they met, man or woman. This was done in order that the dead chief's spirit might have someone to bear it company to the Great Beyond. Corpses were buried under the houses, but the Government was taking steps to have these customs stopped.

LOST IN BUSH.

NINE DAYS WITHOUT FOOD.

CHILD'S EXPERIENCE.

TWEED HEADS, Thursday.

The two children, Nancy Elizabeth Jarvis, (8), and Frank Rose (4 years and 7 months), who strayed from their home at Bonogin Creek, near Tallebudgera, on Tuesday, have been found. The girl was found last Friday morning.

Since then over 200 searchers have been scouring the country, which, being rough, made it difficult to pick up the tracks. The search was kept up without success, the party losing hopes. At 11 o'clock on Wednesday night, the three brothers Healy, from Terrimac Estate, were returning home along the railway line, when Edward Healy stumbled over something on the line. Thinking it alive, he struck a match, and saw the boy, who sat up and looked at him. He was lying between two sleepers, and could not speak. The child was taken to Laver's Hotel, and a doctor communicated with. The boy is still alive, and there are hopes of recovery. He was badly bruised and cut. He showed remarkable endurance, the weather having been wet and cold. He hardly had any clothes on, and had been out for nine days and nights without food, even berries, only water being available. According to the tracks found in different directions he must have walked 40 miles.

COAL STRIKE.

SERVING SUMMONSES.

DIFFICULT TASK.

MEN MAY IGNORE THE COURT.

KURRI KURRI, Thursday.

Four policemen, carrying Gladstone bags, are endeavouring to serve the 700 summonses on the miners. They state that there is no possibility of finding even half the men in time to give the necessary seven days' notice. Scores of men have left the district. Only 150 were served on Wednesday. The men in most cases treat the matter lightly, and dozens assert that they will ignore the summons. The men are remaining at home, and everything is quiet and orderly.

LOSS OF TRADE.

VESSELS LEAVE PORT.

NEWCASTLE, Thursday.

The charterers of the barque Helios have decided to send the vessel across to the West Coast of South America in ballast, as sufficient coal cannot be obtained here. The Helios was able to load 500 tons of coal as stiffening before the strike commenced. Since then she has been unable to obtain any more, and 300 tons of ballast is now being loaded into her.

The steamer Strathendrick left this afternoon for Eureka. She also was unable to take any coal as cargo.

The steamer Strathlorne has been cleared for Valparaiso with bunker coal only.

The steamer Queen Margaret, which has been in port since May 22 last, has now been loaded with 6238 tons coal cargo and 1780 tons bunkers for Valparaiso. This delay is also due to the strike. Steamers trading to New Zealand have been held up in the Dominion, and the interstate trade has also suffered considerably.

THE STRIKE IDEA.

"BRED IN MINERS."

NEWCASTLE, Thursday.

At the Industrial Court this morning, before Judge Edmunds, an action was brought by the Minister for Labour and Industry against nine wheelers for causing a strike at Hetton colliery on May 29 last. The names of the wheelers were A. Smith, W. Smith, G. Thompson, W. Ball, J. Moore, J. Dunn, R. Gottary, Sculthorpe, and Hetherington.

Mr. Broomfield appeared on behalf of the Crown Law Office; and Mr. Reid for defendants.

Mr. Broomfield said that on May 27 last the under-manager of Hetton colliery met four wheelers coming out of the mine. He asked them why they were taking such an action, and they replied that their horses were ill. Two of them were persuaded to return to work, but the other two—MacLean and Lang—asked for their wages, the money being paid to them on the following morning. That was made a pretext for the other wheelers in the mine to strike, and demand a reinstatement of the two wheelers. The manager refused to reinstate them, and the remainder of the wheelers did not turn up for work the next day. They remained out for about a week, and then returned to work. There seemed to be no reason for the strike, and nothing the manager could do would influence them to return to work.

Mr. Reid said his instructions were that some of the horses had sore shoulders, and were not fit to work. Moore and Sculthorpe were asked to do not only their own work, but also the work of two other wheelers. That meant they would have to wheel for eleven pairs of men instead of six. They were quite prepared to work if the horses were in proper condition. There were four horses in a very bad way. The wheelers thought they were unfairly treated, and refused to work. After they had left their work they returned to the manager two or three times to ask that MacLean and Lang be reinstated. That request was refused by the manager, and they said that they would not go back to work before the two wheelers were reinstated.

James Moore, 21, wheeler, said that he saw a horse that either MacLean or Lang had been working. He noticed that the horse's shoulders were very sore. Sometimes the horse had to work with a breast-plate instead of the collar. He had seen the horse fall down on its knees in attempting to pull a load. Witness was asked to wheel for another five pair of men in addition to the six he had previously been working for. He told the deputy that he could not do it, and said he would go home. On the way out of the mine he saw the under-manager, who told him to go back and do his own work. He replied, "I am going home now." After that the other wheelers stopped.

Mr. Broomfield: Why did you not go back to work after the under-manager told you?—I did not feel like turning back. It is unlucky to turn back. (Laughter.)

William Smith, 21, wheeler, gave evidence in regard to the condition of the horses. In reply to Mr. Broomfield, he said he ceased work simply because the others struck.

Mr. Broomfield: Why did you stop work?—Because I felt a little bit tired.

What made you tired at 11 a.m.?—I felt tired of hard work.

Do you tell the Court that you came out because of hard work?—Pretty well that way.

John Welford, under-manager of the colliery, said that he examined the horses, and sent two of them back to the stables. MacLean's horse was in a fair condition, and a breast-plate was used on him. Lang's horse was chafed on the hip. He told them to work the horses with lighter loads.

Judge Edmunds said that he did not propose to be severe in this case. The supply of horses seemed to be somewhat insufficient for the work of the two shifts. The method of redress of any trouble in the district by strike had been interwoven with the ordinary working of mining operations for many years, and was still being continued. It would be impossible to expect that the miners and wheelers would desist from striking by an intimation of what the law actually was. To a large extent it had been bred into the workers in mines. By their training they had no other method by which they could assert a difference with the management. It would be unreasonable to suppose that the practice would come to an end at once because the law changed. But it was to be hoped that the continued application of the law would be a source of education. He did not think that that hope of change was likely to be furthered by the imposition of heavy penalties at the commencement, even in cases where there was less risk of stoppage of work than there had been in this case. In cases of repetition the penalty would be made more severe. He imposed upon each of the wheelers in this case a fine of 10s 6d, and ordered that it be detached from their wages in the usual course. He would make the costs 10s each, and allow them three weeks in which to pay.

VICTORIAN LIBERALS.

THE NEW MINISTRY.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Unanimity characterised the meeting of the Ministerial party at State Parliament House to-day.

The reception given to Sir Alexander Peacock as Mr. Watt's successor was very cordial.

The definite purpose for which the Premier had called the party together was to decide upon a nomination for the position of Chairman of Committees, which has become vacant owing to the death of Mr. Thomas Langdon. Mr. J. F. Duffers was chosen.

Mr. Watt stated that he would probably resign his seat next week. There was a general expression of regret that Mr. Watt was leaving the State Parliament.

THE DOCK.

DEBATE IN PARLIAMENT.

MINISTER'S DEFENCE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

During the Supply debate in the Senate this afternoon the position of affairs at Cockatoo Island was the subject of speeches by the Minister for Defence (Senator Millen) and the ex-Minister (Senator Pearce).

Senator Pearce said that in the "Sydney Morning Herald" of the 5th instant a criticism of the Cockatoo Island dock appeared. In closing the yards down some time ago the Government was seeking political capital so that they could say that the Labour Government was willing to allow men to work with only a sheet of paper between them and eternity. The select committee of the Senate pricked this bladder. Chaos still reigned at Cockatoo Island, although this Government had been in power for over 10 months.

The Minister for Defence said he was glad of the opportunity to reply to the reckless statements made by Senator Pearce, and he did not doubt, from what he knew of Senator Pearce's methods, that he would continue to make. In the "Sydney Morning Herald" it had been said that they must at once introduce piecework, and did members back up Senator Pearce in saying they ought to embark on piecework, without considering where it would lead. As for the delay in the appointment of Mr. King Salter, some weeks had been taken up by the Opposition when they moved a vote of censure. He was not one who was going to take any recommendations of any committee. He thought it advisable to make inquiries as to the tact and judgment of Mr. King Salter before asking him to come and take charge of a dock under entirely new conditions. As the result of those inquiries, which he sent in a cable five months later, not nine months, as stated, he made the appointment with confidence. Coming to the closing down of the dockyard at Cockatoo Island, there was one thing Senator Pearce overlooked. The evidence given before the committee was not available then. The only question was whether, in the light of the information placed before him, he had acted properly. In the document signed by three members of the board, the fourth being absent through ill-health, was an extract from the statement of Mr. Julius, which was as follows:—"The whole of the boilers, of which there are six, are practically worn out. They were all second-hand boilers, and considerable repairs have to be effected at each week-end to carry them over the next." The board's recommendation, signed by the three members, was:—"Having received this report, we can pursue no other course than to recommend that the fires be drawn. This will entail the suspension of a number of men for a week." The Minister went on to say that if they wanted to destroy the initial efforts, as alleged by Senator Pearce, would they have asked Parliament to spend £175,000 to replace the old machinery? The Government was without a programme, said Senator Pearce. So was the gentleman who sent home for two ships, the submarine ship and oil ship.

Senator Pearce: Would you have built them here?

The Minister for Defence: I cabled home at once, and informed the Admiralty that this Government wished to build the vessels here, and asked how far they were committed. In fairness to the Admiralty, they had to go on with the contract. It was time these unfounded aspersions ceased. The proposal of the Government was that the building would be defrayed out of revenue. One of the difficulties at Cockatoo lay in the insufficiency of labour.

GELIGNITE.

FOUND ON THE TRAMLINE.

AT NEUTRAL BAY.

An extraordinary discovery was made by Mr. George Bates and Mr. James Stewart at Neutral Bay early on Wednesday night. They live in the vicinity of the Oaks Hotel, and were crossing the tramline to reach their residences when they noticed a packet lying on one of the rails. Mr. Stewart picked it up, and noticed that it was labelled "gelignite." Both men were greatly startled at the discovery, and they looked round to see if any more of the explosive was lying round. After a search they discovered another packet lying in the groove of the opposite rail.

They immediately apprised the police of their discovery, and Sub-Inspector Fullerton and a squad of police were detailed to make inquiries, but they gleaned practically no information as to how the explosive got on to the line.

The packages were so placed that a passing tram could not have failed to explode them. It is certain that a tram running along the line would have caused an explosion, and considering the quantity of the explosive on the rails the result would probably have been disastrous.

DIRTY BEACHES.

PUNTING GARBAGE.

PROTESTS BY COUNCILS.

A deputation from the Waverley, Randwick, Manly, and Warringah councils waited on the Lord Mayor (Alderman Richards) yesterday to protest against the towing of garbage to sea.

The Mayor of Manly (Alderman A. T. Keirle) appealed to the Lord Mayor to prevent the further pollution of the beaches with carcases of animals and decayed fruit. Not only was the garbage with which their beaches was being strewn very unsightly, but it was a distinct menace to health. The dumping of garbage at sea was too primitive a method for a modern city.

The Mayor of Waverley (Alderman Barraclough) stated that he knew the City Council was not responsible for the nuisance that was being caused, but if they moved in the matter their influence would be more powerful than could be exerted by the local council. The Harbour Trust was, in a great measure, to blame.

The Mayor of Randwick (Alderman Croker) declared that the nuisance could be tolerated no longer. Thousands of pounds had been spent to attract people to the beaches, and when they did come they were asked to bathe amid most disgusting debris.

Alderman Dumbrell (Manly) and Councillor Bourke (president of the Warringah Shire) also spoke, the former remarking that the present system of the disposal of garbage was an uncivilised one, and dwelling on the value of the beaches as playgrounds.

In reply, the Lord Mayor said that the garbage problem was one for which they had yet to find a satisfactory solution. The City Council had destructors at Moore Park and Pyrmont, but they could not deal with all the garbage that accumulated in the city day by day, and he did not think that the council could for the present avoid taking out the gully silt and other sinkable matter, but no garbage likely to wash back and become a nuisance ought to be taken out. As for the dead animals to which reference had been made, they certainly had not gone out in the City Council's punts. The garbage taken out by the council was deposited five miles out at sea, and he did not think very much of it ever got back, and in any case it was not objectionable matter. He promised to make representations to the health committee, which would undoubtedly take steps to alleviate, if it could not altogether remove, the nuisance.

BOORABIL.

ROYAL COMMISSION PROBABLE.

PREMIER'S DECISION.

"A FULL INQUIRY."

Both the Premier and the Attorney-General were busy yesterday giving consideration to the request emanating from the leader of the Opposition that a Royal Commission should be granted to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the law-suit brought by two members of Parliament to recover commission on the sale of the Boorabil property to the Government.

At the close of the day Mr. Holman announced that there is to be a "full inquiry." He did not specify the exact nature of the inquiry, but it is understood that, following on the lines of the investigation that took place after the celebrated case of Sims v Brown was heard in the Supreme Court, it will be a Royal Commission that will conduct the promised inquiry into the facts surrounding the purchase of Boorabil by the Government. That inquiry, which was conducted by the late Sir William Owen, was not confined to the facts of the individual case of Sims v Brown, but was of a roving character. Mr. Justice Owen's commission authorised him "to inquire into and report generally upon the matter of the work of land agents in connection with applications for and dealing with Crown lands, and into the fees and charges in connection therewith."

Similarly, the inquiry that the Premier says he is determined to have held, will probably not be confined to the case which has recently occupied the attention of a judge and jury, but will include in its scope the question of the desirability of members of Parliament acting as paid agents in connection with negotiations for the sale of land to the Government.

POWERS OF COMMISSIONS.

As in the case of the inquiry that followed the case of Sims v Brown, the pending inquiry will probably be conducted by a Supreme Court Judge, the usual course in such an event being the issue of a commission. It was found necessary in the case of the "Lands Scandals" case so called to pass three special Acts of Parliament in order to make the Judge's investigations effective. The first of these Acts gave the Royal Commissioner extended powers beyond those which existed under the Royal Commissions Act, and the second still further extended his powers to demand the production of documents. The third Act gave immunities to witnesses, who might object to give evidence on the ground that they might thereby render themselves liable to a criminal law respecting matters as to which they might be asked to speak. All these Acts were only temporary in character, and vanished from the Statute Book as soon as Mr. Justice Owen's Commission expired.

"PRACTICALLY SUB JUDICE."

"I have had during the day an opinion from Mr. Hall," said the Premier last night, "about the matter, and he suggests a certain course of action to meet the whole case, and, before giving any final decision, I will call the Cabinet together and submit Mr. Hall's legal opinion to them. But there will be a full inquiry made.

"I do not want," added the Premier, "to appear to minimise the importance of the incident in any way from the point of view of the possibility of there being something behind it, or from the point of view of the public suspecting that there is something behind it. From that point of view I am prepared to say at once that there ought to be an inquiry.

"I could say a great deal about the matter," concluded Mr. Holman, "but, as there will be some form of judicial inquiry, I will refrain, as the matter may be practically regarded as sub judice."

COMPENSATION QUESTION.

MR. TREFLE'S STATEMENT.

The Minister for Lands yesterday said he desired to correct what he regarded as misstatements in Mr. Wade's references to the question of compensation for improvements effected on the Boorabil leases.

"Mr. Wade assumes," said Mr. Trefle, "that withdrawal of lands from lessees can be effected under the conditions of the leases without compensation. This is incorrect. The Minister's powers of withdrawal of such land are clearly set out in the Advisory Board's report, which Mr. Wade appears to have had before him in making his statement to the press. The lessees are entitled, in the event of withdrawal of the land, to compensation for their improvements, and they are also entitled, under the conditions of such leases, to tenant right in improvements in certain improvements upon the expiry of the leases. The assumption that leases can be withdrawn or resumed without compensation is incorrect.

"Without going into any particular case, I totally and absolutely disagree with the misleading and erroneous conclusions put forward by Mr Wade, which imply that land must not be settled until a railway is at everybody's door. I hope to be able to gazette in July next a further block of farms further away from the railway than Boorabil. Every practical man knows that new settlers must devote their attention first to providing a water supply, some description of a home for their family, erect fencing, and effect clearing before they can produce wheat or other grain for carriage on the railway. If the Boorabil farmers are prepared to send a decent amount of wheat away by rail as soon as the line is within working distance, they will have done very well. Mr. Pilcher, when speaking on this aspect of the matter in the Upper House, hit the nail on the head when he said he approved of the resumption of Boorabil in advance of the construction of the railway."

With reference to the price charged sellers for the blocks, Mr. Trefle said that the Government did not attempt to make profits out of these resumptions. It merely added a sum which would cover the necessary expenses of administration, including subdivision and so forth. "I am sure," he said, "that the settlers will admit that no cheaper wheat lands have been secured in New South Wales than Boorabil."

MR. WADE'S REJOINDER.

INQUIRY IMPERATIVE.

The leader of the Opposition yesterday afternoon reiterated his contention that under the circumstances a Royal Commission was imperative, and he incidentally replied to the statement of the Minister for Lands, published yesterday.

"I have read Mr. Trefle's explanation," said Mr. Wade, "but that statement makes it still more difficult to understand why Mr. Osborne made this contract with Mr. Wilkinson, and why large sums of money were promised.

"Mr. Trefle's position is that he acted on the opinion of the Advisory Board, and it is known that the board was in favour of the land being taken for settlement purposes. The only difficulty in Mr. Trefle's mind was whether the owner would accept the price recommended by the Advisory Board.

"According to the Parliamentary papers, the owner agreed with the Advisory Board on April 21 to accept £30,210 as the value of his interest in these lands. In a letter dated May 30 he confirmed this agreement as to price, and accepted Government Funded Stock at par, with interest at 4 per cent.

"It would appear from this, therefore, that the course was clear, and no obstacle stood in the way of the Cabinet adopting the recommendation. Yet it is in June that the contract for commission is made with Mr. Osborne, and during the following three or four weeks that the £100—the initial sum—rises to £250. What was this for if the course was clear? Surely Mr. Trefle must have told Mr. Osborne that there was no need for any interference on his part. And why is it that Mr. Wilkinson still proceeds to raise the stakes, on the assumption that a higher figure is needful? Mr. Wilkinson is a land agent of extensive experience. His name is well known in land circles in this State. I say, therefore, while imputing no wrongdoing to Mr. Trefle, that his interview makes the appointment of a Royal Commission imperative."

National Library of Australia http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-page1278120

MISCHA ELMAN.

THE THIRD CONCERT.

From the first fully sensible of the special charm of Mischa Elman's art as a violinist, Sydney music-lovers last night made a unanimous rush to hear him at the Town Hall. The "unreserved" people began to assemble at 6; but at 9 o'clock, at the end of the Tchaikowsky concerto, all distinctions were swept away by a wave of enthusiasm, and quite 3000 listeners became not only unreserved, but outrageously demonstrative!

This Concerto, dedicated to the Russian violinist Auer, the teacher of Elman, enabled the latter to display for the first time in a great work the Slavonic temperament in which a fiery exaltation is based upon a languid melancholy. The result was a "seizing" interpretation from first to last. Moreover, the orchestra, under Mr. Joseph Bradley (leader, M. Henri Staell), played with far more responsive delicacy than on previous occasions; and, in point of fact, gave an excellent rendering. The work is on classical models, presenting a quick movement, a Canzonetta in song-form, and a dashing finale in rondo-sonata form. The entire concerto overflows with melody, and as the first solo-subject is almost at once repeated by the player an octave higher, it was impressed upon the memory, and the more so because Mr. Elman introduced it in the rich, pathetic quality of tone which has made him famous. Terribly difficult as the development of the second theme becomes, the artist played with a verve and energy that put fire into the orchestra; and then there was the unbarred, unaccompanied cadenza, splendidly rendered with many nuances, and with such achievements as the swiftly-ascending chromatic passage in double-stopping, followed by the same effect descending; whilst the artist, just before the "shakes" which brought in the orchestra, accelerated a brilliantly repeated passage with surpassing facility. There was a tempest of applause; and the Canzonetta was then presented with rapturous sweetness of expression; whilst in the Finale there was a fragmentary interchange of the second strain with oboe, clarionet, and flute as one feature of many in the development of a Slavonic theme which resembled some kind of rustic folk-melody. This Concerto showed Mr. Elman at his highest, and it is interesting to know that he has probably done more than any other living player to make this Russian masterpiece popular in Berlin, and other great German centres.

After several enthusiastic recalls, the star responded with his superb rendering of the Schubert-Wilkelmy "Ave Maria," and, after three recalls a sudden burst of ringing cheers brought him back for Mozart's "Pantomime," which overflowed with quaintly playful changes of expression under the masterly hand. The second part of a generous programme opened with the "Rondo Capriccio" of Saint-Saens, so often and so admirably rendered here by Henri Staell. Mr. Elman's added distinction is that thrilling sympathy of tone of which mention has already been made. All through, the violinist was perfectly accompanied by Mr. Percy Kahn, who supported him closely through a swift and exciting prestissimo at the extended, formal termination. One of the finest moments of the evening was the "Thais" meditation (Massenet), a truly beautiful piece of music, rendered with elevation of style. The violinist made a passionately accelerated climax just before resuming the theme which moved the listeners. This meditation was played here last year by Mr. F. Mowat Carter, and also by Mr. Holding at the Nordica concerts. Mr. Elman was wildly applauded, and responded with a second encore the "Liebesfreud" of Kreisler, a fascinating old Viennese waltz. The final group included the "Adumblatt" of Wagner; Paganini's "Voice of the Woods," as arranged by Max Vogrich—the long-ago conductor of the Royal Sydney Liedertafel; Gluck's "Melodie"; and the Wienawski "Polonaise in A," with Gretry's "Dance" as a final encore.

Mlle. Eva Gauthier sang the romantic aria "Depuis le Jour," which should have had an orchestral accompaniment, if only to contrast the glistening gossamer web of its shimmering colours, with the overture which opened the concert. The gap between the boisterous and theatrical surprises of early Wagner in "Rienzi," and the extreme delicacy of Charpentier's "Louise" would have afforded an interesting illustration of the change of musical taste in half a century. Mlle. Gauthier employed her beautiful voice with deep though restrained emotion, and Mr. Kahn accompanied with a corresponding sentiment. The encore was Hue's "J'ai Pleure en Reve." The Franco-Canadian artist sang also with charmful sincerity of expression one of her most winning traits, songs in French by Hahn, Dalcroze, and Saint Saens. The encore, at last in English, was a tenderly attractive setting of "The Sweetest Flower that Blows," by Van der Stueden.

At the final concert to-night Mr. Elman will play the colossal Beethoven Concerto. The concert party will sail for New Zealand to-morrow.

WRECKAGE.

A VESSEL'S FATE IN DOUBT.

According to news received from the pilot who inspected the wreckage near Port Macquarie recently it belongs to two vessels.

The first lot of wreckage, near Crescent Head, undoubtedly belongs to the schooner Aleda. In the opinion of the pilot, another quantity of wreckage, including a mast, is probably from the ketch Alfred Fenning.

This second quantity of wreckage was found some miles away from the Aleda wreckage, and is said to be a distinct lot of debris, in no way connected with the remains of the Aleda.

The Alfred Fenning is a modern ketch, of 74 tons, built in 1882, and owned by Langley Bros., Ltd. She has not been reported off the coast recently, and fears have been entertained regarding her safety.

CLOTHING WASHED UP.

KEMPSEY, Thursday.

In connection with the wrecked schooner Aleda, the police are still searching the beaches. A quantity of men's clothing has been washed up near Crescent Head.

MOTORS COLLIDE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

A serious motor accident occurred last night at the Five-mile Gate, near Balranald.

A car, owned and driven by Dr. R. E. Foster, collided with a car owned by Mr. F. W. Comitti, and driven by Mr. R. M'Leod. One car was travelling at 25 miles an hour and the other at 12. The occupants of both cars, numbering eight, were all thrown out, and had remarkable escapes. A lady passenger in Mr. Comitti's car was rendered unconscious. Both cars were badly damaged.

CHILD'S BODY.

FOUND IN THE HARBOUR.

About 5.30 p.m. yesterday, Roger Shepherd, of 35 Pitt-street, North Sydney, reported to the Water Police that the body of a child was floating in the harbour off Kirribilli Point. Senior-constable Tinsley conveyed the body to the Morgue. It is that of a female child, two months old, with dark brown hair and blue eyes. There is a large scar at the back of the head. The police believe this may have been caused by bumping on the rocks. The body was wrapped in brown and black waterproof paper. Attached to the body was a calico bag, which was weighed down with stones, apparently to keep the body under the water.

STRANDED KAURI.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Thursday.

A cursory examination of the steamer Kauri on Westport beach indicates that the vessel is holed badly amidships in holds Nos. 1 and 2, while the tide ebbs and flows in the engineroom. It is anticipated that the cargo in No. 4 hold will be damaged by water. The vessel is lying in a very protected position. If the steamer can be made tight experts consider there will be little difficulty in refloating her.

PARLIAMENT.

END OF SESSION IN VIEW.

SUPPLY BILLS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

According to all appearances, the session will be brought to a close to-morrow.

Senators and members of the House of Representatives have all booked to leave by the interstate trains in the afternoon.

To-day the two Supply Bills were passed by the House of Representatives, and sent on to the Senate. That chamber received them and made good progress with them, and then adjourned till to-morrow morning.

The House of Representatives at half-past 6 o'clock adjourned till 3 o'clock to-morrow, when it is expected the supply bills will be back from the Senate.

In the House of Representatives to-day Mr. West (N.S.W.) asked the Postmaster-General whether any steps had been taken in regard to the post-office at Oxford-street Sydney.

The Postmaster-General (Mr. Agar Wynne) said he had inspected the post-office on his last visit to Sydney, and he agreed it was not large enough for the business carried on there. He had given instructions to see if a better site could be obtained, and had recently inspected one.

TASMANIAN SHIPPING RATES.

The Postmaster-General stated that he had just received applications from the shipping companies regarding the raising of the freights and fares to Tasmania. In answer to a question from Mr. O'Malley, as to whether he would refuse the request, the Postmaster-General said he had not looked through the papers yet, and it was hardly fair for him to express an opinion.

MEAT TRADE INQUIRY.

Mr. Burchell (W.A.) asked the Minister for Trade and Customs if the questions that were being asked by the Meat Trade Commissioner, and answered in writing, would appear in the printed evidence.

The Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Groom) said he could not say wether they would or not. The conduct of the inquiry was in the hands of the commission. The practice adopted was not an unusual one. Witnesses were often prepared to give evidence of a confidential character. The arbitration law made special provision of a similar kind. The Judge had commission to make the fullest inquiries into the matter, and the conduct of it must be left to him.

Mr. Fisher said that he would like to assure the Government that if there were any further powers in the Constitution that could be granted to the commission, the Opposition would co-operate in granting them.

The Prime Minister said that all the powers that could be given him had been given. A copy of the last bill had been submitted to the Judge before it was presented to the House, and the Commissioner had not asked for any further powers.

LIVERPOOL CAMP ACCIDENT.

In answer to Mr. R. B. Orchard, the Prime Minister said that Mr. Wm. Somerville, a reporter, who was accidentally injured by the letting off of a gun at the Liverpool camp, would receive £150 compensation.

SUPPLY BILL.

The Supply Bill, covering the services of the Commonwealth for three months, totalling £3,060,026, was passed through all stages.

A Supply Bill, covering £754,930, for new works and additions, was introduced.

On the second reading the Treasurer (Sir John Forrest) said that in the bill provision was made with very few exceptions to complete works which had already been authorised by Parliament. The principal large items of expenditure were:—

Federal capital, £75,000. This included provision for water supply (including construction of a fine weir on the Cotter River), road construction and maintenance, erection of power house, brick making, etc.

Quarantine, £14,060, to enable works in connection with the construction of new buildings to be continued.

For naval defence in the various States £20,000. This provided solely for the buildings now in progress at the Naval College, Jervis Bay.

Defence, military, various States, £40,660, for erection of drill halls, mobilisation stores, etc., and at various centres buildings for aviation corps, rifle ranges, completion of woollen mills, etc.

Post-office buildings, £80,050; £4000 of this amount was for wireless telegraph stations. The balance would be expended in the various States in the following proportions:—New South Wales, £30,000; Victoria, £20,950; Queensland, £5000; South Australia, £8500; Western Australia, £12,000; Tasmania, £750; Northern Territory, £3000.

Telegraphs and telephones, £270,000. This included New South Wales telegraph works, repoling, etc., £16,900; telephone works, completion of new exchanges, and to connect new subscribers, etc., £65,987; trunk lines, £5800; switchboards, city extensions, £5470; Globe automatic, £3243; other works and material, £93,287; total, £121,687.

Naval works, £40,000; to meet expenditure in connection with work in progress at Flinders, Cockburn Sound, and Port Stephens naval bases. Construction of fleet, £75,000.

LOAN EXPENDITURE.

Continuing, Sir John Forrest said the estimated expenditure out of loan funds for the current financial year amounted to £5,959,000. The items are, compared with expenditure on the same items last year, as follow:—

	1912-13.	Estimated. 1913-14.
Kalgoorlie railway	£996,985	£1,340,000
Land purchase, Federal capital	169,845	40,000
Offices in London	19,856	55,000
Property in Perth	152,319	—
Redemption of loans raised by South Australia for Port Augusta railway and Northern Territory	240,899	126,000
Railway, Pine Creek to Katherine River	—	4,000
Land purchase for post-offices	—	70,000
Railway, etc., Papua	—	10,000
Conduits for telephones	—	200,000
Totals	£1,189,904	£1,950,000

NAVAL BASES.

"This," the Treasurer went on, "shows an increased expenditure for 1913-14 over the previous year of £760,096 from loan. We estimate to expend on these eight items over £1,000,000 less than was anticipated. It will be noticed that the expenditure on the Trans-Australian Railway was £1,340,000. There is appropriated only £453,000, in addition, to carry on for 1914-15, and a fresh additional appropriation will be necessary on the reassembling of Parliament. The funds to meet the above have been provided by the investment of trust funds in Commonwealth inscribed stock." He believed that the naval bases should be paid for out of loan money.

NEW WORKS AND BUILDINGS.

The expenditure for new works and buildings out of revenue was now estimated at £3,540,000. The expenditure on new works, 1912-13, out of revenue, was £3,536,365; estimated, 1913-14, £3,540,571; out of loan, 1912-13, £1,189,904; estimated, 1913-14, £1,959,000. Totals 1912-13, £4,726,269; estimated, 1913-14, £5,499,571. This showed an increase of £773,302.

Mr. Tudor (Vic.): So you have been more extravagant than us.

Sir John Forrest: No; but we have spent more. The following were comparisons of expenditure on specific works paid for from revenue:—Federal capital, 1912-13 £137,267, estimated, 1913-14 £265,000; quarantine £27,989, £30,000; light-houses, £7461, £24,738; naval colleges, barracks, and schools, £49,880, £90,000; military barracks, quarters, rifle ranges, buildings, stables, gun parks, drill halls, mobilisation stores, woollen mills, etc., £318,539, £316,048; Post Office buildings, £251,313, £199,923; other items under control of Home Affairs, £75,008, £21,663; telegraphs, telephones, lines, instruments, switchboards, etc., £835,302, £1,082,659; Northern Territory and Port Augusta railway, £62,619, £60,500; warlike stores, guns, vehicles, factory equipment, etc., £551,895, £320,500; naval works, machinery and plant, £180,865, £165,721; other defence items, £16,060, £22,090; construction of fleet, £604,397, £802,432; Treasury items, £4076, £3400; purchase of defence land, included in other items, £130, nil; special works, trust account, £413,694, £15,897; totals, £3,536,365, £3,540,571.

Mr. Fisher (Q.) said that his party would insist on money for defence purposes being paid out of the revenue. Sir John Forrest had had a much better time in office than the Fisher Government had, yet he was ending up his year with a deficit of a million. The Labour Government had started with nothing, yet had managed to save £100,000 a year out of the revenue. The Cook Government had spent a quarter of a million more each month than had the previous Administration. Now the Treasurer wanted to enter the loan market to meet the expenditure on defence. He regretted that the experts who had reported on the defence schemes had been so sadly in error regarding their estimate of expense. This expenditure would have to be reduced.

The bill was passed through all stages.

A bill to enable the Government to continue the iron and steel bounty to the extent of £15,000 was passed through all stages.

SPORT OVERSEA.

LAWN TENNIS.

ALL ENGLAND CHAMPIONSHIP.

LONDON, June 24.

The All-England lawn tennis championships were continued to-day on the Wimbledon courts, when the King and Queen were present.

Larsen defeated Harding 6—3, 7—5, 6—3; Brookes defeated Ritchie 6—1, 6—0, 6—1; Parke defeated F. Lowe, 6—1, 6—3, 6—4; Dunlop defeated Heyden, 8—6, 0—6, 7—5, 6—1.

In the mixed doubles Doust and Miss Morton defeated Dunlop and Miss Aitchison, 6—4, 6—3.

In the men's doubles the brothers Yencken defeated Simond and Goldesborough, 6—4, 6—3, 6—3.

COMMENTS ON THE PLAY.

In the Park-Lowe match both players generally favoured the baseline; but Parke made many points by unexpectedly adopting volleying tactics at the net, and with several dazzling cross-volleys on the run.

Despite the score in the game between Brookes and Ritchie, each set was fought out hard; Brookes's never-failing skimming volleys triumphed over Ritchie's driving at the baseline. There were many exciting rallies in the second set, but Brookes showed extraordinary anticipation at the net.

In the Dunlop-Heyden match there was hard tennis throughout. The German smashed his spectacles, and this cost him the first set. Dunlop tired after winning the third set, but finely spurted in the fourth.

The play in the men's doubles, in which the Yencken brothers took part, was uninteresting and inferior, though the younger brother played some sparkling shots.

In the mixed doubles the most exciting tennis of the day was witnessed. Long rally followed long rally, but Doust appeared to be everywhere at once, and scored many aces with his clever playing. Dunlop, fatigued after the exhausting singles he had played, lacked force and direction.

CRICKET IN ENGLAND.

LORD'S CENTENARY.

LONDON, June 24.

The Rest of England beat J. W. H. T. Douglas's South African team by an innings and 189 runs. In the second innings J. W. Hitch, for the Rest of England, took five wickets for 51 runs.

FRANK WOOTTON AS TRAINER.

Frank Wootton, who recently received his trainer's license, opened his career in that branch of the sport by leading in his first winner, Kodak, at Brighton yesterday.

[Kodak, who last season scored three wins, is a five-year-old gelding by Scotch Cross from Snapshot, by Petronel from Likeness, by Esterling from Mirror, by Speculum. He scored his first win last season under the colours of Mr. F. C. Parker, in the County Stand Handicap, at the Stockton Summer meeting, and his next success was in the Selhurst Selling Plate at the Gatwick August meeting, after which he was purchased by R. Wootton (father of Frank) for 450 guineas. Wootton was soon recouped for his outlay, for at the Birmingham meeting the following month, Kodak secured the Birmingham Handicap, for which he started at the remunerative price of 10 to 1.]

ALEXANDRA DAY.

CELEBRATION IN LONDON.

LONDON, June 24.

Alexandra Day was celebrated in London to-day. Twenty thousand people sold roses in the streets in the cause of charity. Many titled ladies assisted.

One hundred New Zealand girls under Lady Islington made Whitehall their base of operations, and 40 Australian girls under the direction of Lady Reid sold roses in the Strand.

During the day Queen Alexandra drove through the chief thoroughfares, and everywhere her Majesty was enthusiastically welcomed.

SHIPPING AMALGAMATION.

P. AND O. AND BRITISH-INDIA.

LONDON, June 24.

The P. and O. stockholders have approved of the scheme for amalgamation with the British-India Steam Navigation Company.

Sir Thomas Sutherland (chairman of the P. and O. Company) stated at the meeting at which the proposal was dealt with that though the P. and O. Company would control the combine, it would not undertake the detailed management of the British-India Company for at least 10 years, during which period the British-India Company would retain its own management.

Sir Thomas added that he hoped Lord Inchcape, chairman of the British-India Company, would become the head of the combine when he himself retired.

NEW ZEALAND MEAT.

SHIPMENTS AT HULL.

LONDON, June 24.

Mr. Thomas Mackenzie (High Commissioner for New Zealand) witnessed the discharging of the meat cargo from the steamer Rakaia at Hull. The meat was in excellent condition.

The dock authorities stated they were willing to meet the requirements of New Zealand in regard to accommodation and handling.

DISASTROUS STORM.

DAMAGE IN UNITED STATES.

ST. PAUL, June 24.

The recent violent wind and rain storm has been responsible for the death of four persons in Minneapolis, as well as several at Watertown, North Dakota.

The damage to property is estimated at more than a million dollars.

There has been almost a complete dislocation of telephone and telegraph communication for a number of hours.

The storm swept over North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. The reports to hand are incomplete, but it is possible that the estimate of the loss of life and damage to property will be largely exceeded.

THE KIEL CANAL REOPENED.

BERLIN, June 25.

The Emperor yesterday formally reopened the Kiel Canal, which has been reconstructed at a cost of £11,000,000, to facilitate the passage of the largest dreadnoughts.

The visiting British fleet saluted the Emperor as the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern emerged from the canal.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

LONDON, June 25.

Mr. Bernard Muscio, M.A., of Sydney University, has been awarded the Burney studentship at Cambridge University.

Lord Forbes, the premier Baron of Scotland, was found in a hotel in Dundee with his throat cut. He was a well-known philanthropist, and a leader of the Scotch Episcopal Church.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 25.

The Czar entertained the officers of the visiting British Squadron, including Captain Lionel Halsey, at luncheon at Tsarskoe Selo yesterday.

PARIS, June 25.

The £32,000,000 loan is to be issued at 91 on July 7.

CAPETOWN, June 24.

The Riotous Assemblies Bill has been read the third time in the House of Assembly.

THE LOST LINER.

COMMISSION OF INQUIRY.

FURTHER EVIDENCE.

QUEBEC, June 25.

Mr. Percy Hillhouse, of the Fairfield Shipbuilding Company, which constructed the Empress of Ireland, stated in his evidence before the commission inquiring into the disaster, that a foot had been added to the rudder of the liner after an accident in 1908, in order to improve her steering qualities. He added that he had heard no complaints from the captains of the vessel in regard to her steering.

Witness gave the first adequate explanation of the actual injuries to the sunken steamer, and stated that the water must have rushed through the hole of 338 square feet at the rate of 260 tons a second. He believed that the twist in the bow of the Storstad was caused by the impact before it had penetrated into the Empress of Ireland.

Captain Kendall, of the Empress of Ireland, recalled, gave the times at which the liner travelled on her two courses after leaving Father Point, just prior to the accident, and his reply to the question as to when he dropped the pilot showed a discrepancy compared with the time at which the captain of the pilot boat declared he had picked up the pilot.

RECOVERY OF THE BODIES.

Divers from H.M.S. Essex have been ordered back to the scene of the wreck, as a result of a conference between Captain Walsh, marine superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Company, and Captain Watson, of the warship, at which it was decided to make a further attempt to recover the 800 bodies in the sunken hull.

HOME RULE.

ADDRESS TO THE KING.

CARRIED IN SENATE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The Senate interrupted the discussion of supply to-day to carry a motion introduced by Senator Henderson and seconded by Senator Barker which assured the British Nation that the Australian Senate was in favour of Home Rule. The motion was as follows:—"That, in view of the opinion expressed by the London 'Times', that nothing just now could exercise a more salutary influence in Great Britain than an authoritative pronouncement by the oversea peoples upon the Irish question, and accepting that journal as interpreting correctly the feelings of an important section of the inhabitants of Great Britain and Ireland, the Senate desires to reaffirm, and does hereby reaffirm, the address to his Majesty the late King, passed on November 23, 1905, as follows:—'That, in accordance with the most treasured traditions of British Governments and British justice, and for the cementing of the Empire into one harmonious whole, this Senate is of opinion that Home Rule should be granted to Ireland.'"

Senator Millen (N.S.W.) spoke strongly against the resolution. Was it expedient, he asked, to interfere with a matter so much outside the business of the Senate? The House was asked apparently to affirm that the measure now before the Imperial Parliament should be pushed through at any cost. (Opposition cheers.) Were this bill passed without modification the Empire would be faced by a situation of great seriousness. Added to this he had an objection to the pernicious practice which was growing up in the Parliaments of the Dominions of interfering in the business of the British Parliament.

Senator McColl (hon. Minister) also spoke against the motion. He said that the people of Australia were divided upon the question of Home Rule.

The motion was agreed to by 25 to 5, Senators Millen, McColl, Oakes, Gould, and Clemons voting against it.

A second motion that this motion be given effect to by a message to his Majesty the King was agreed to.

On the adjournment of the House of Representatives, an effort was made by Mr. Mahon (W.A.) to induce the Prime Minister to allow a similar motion to that passed in the Senate being submitted to the House of Representatives. The Prime Minister declined, and gave as his reasons the same as those expressed in the Senate by Senator Millen.

MOTOR SMASH.

CAPSIZE OF A CAR.

In connection with the N.S.W. United Grand Lodge Masonic Jubilee, about 150 members of the craft, including a large number of interstate visitors, journeyed to the Hawkesbury River yesterday in about 26 motor cars.

All went well until nearing Richmond, when a car belonging to and driven by Mr. Hopley, of Melbourne, turned turtle while rounding a corner. The four occupants were thrown out, and received a severe shaking.

They were Messrs. Richard Doyle, W. Stintson, Aubrey Halloran, and Mr. Hopley. Messrs. Doyle and Stintson are each over 80 years of age. The latter was taken to the Richmond Hospital. All four eventually returned to Sydney.

BROKEN HILL MINES.

EVIDENCE BEFORE THE COMMISSION.

BROKEN HILL, Thursday.

The Royal Commission on Broken Hill mines, presided over by Mr. B. R. Wise, K.C., resumed its sitting at the Town Hall to-day.

Samuel Deed, check inspector for the A.M.A., was in the witness box all day. Deed said he had 27 years' experience in mining, and had worked in Broken Hill, chiefly in the Proprietary mine. He had made 314 visits underground during the past 16 months. If a complaint were made to the A.M.A. office it was entered in the book, and he investigated it. He preferred the square set system to open stopes, and said that 90 per cent. of accidents happened in open stopes. The height of stopes should be limited. He also opposed a continuance of the night shift, believing that night shifts were responsible for a large amount of ill-health. The competition made the men take undue risks.

The commission adjourned until to-morow morning.

SEDAN TRAGEDY.

CAMP MATE'S STORY.

BROKEN HILL, Wednesday.

A possible explanation of the Sedan mystery, which has baffled the South Australian police force, was made to-day in a Broken Hill newspaper office by a man, who said his name was Hans Stadler. The dead man, he said, was Tom Bourke. Three men, including deceased and Stadler, were together at Sedan in January, when they had a deal of drink. There was a disturbance in their camp, and Stadler left. About two months ago he met the third man in Port Pirie, when he said that he and Bourke had had a row in camp, and they fought. Stadler says that the man who is alleged to have killed Bourke carried a revolver. Stadler's story was communicated to the Broken Hill police, who later secured a signed statement from Stadler, which has been sent to the South Australian police.

BRISBANE RIVER.

ROOM FOR WHITE STAR LINER.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

Captain J. Stivey, commander of the White Star liner Ceramic, inspected the river from Bulimba to Borthwicks wharf, and was favourably impressed. Subsequently he said he would report favourably with regard to bringing the Ceramic to Bulimba, where the basin was wide enough to swing the ship.

SMALLPOX.

A case of smallpox in a lodging-house in Sussex-street was reported yesterday by the Board of Health.

ELECTIONS.

MARKING TIME.

CAMPAIGN ARRANGEMENTS.

It is expected in Liberal circles that the Federal Parliament will rise this week, and preparations are being made to commence a vigorous campaign the moment legislators start the exodus from Melbourne.

In the meantime marking time is the rule as far as platform work is concerned. Until the Prime Minister delivers his policy speech there will not be much controversial matter for the candidates to handle.

Labour orators, both within and without the House, are making the condition of the rolls the subject for vigorous criticism. A special indignation meeting is to be held in Sydney during the week by the Labour supporters.

The Prime Minister points out that the officials are administering the Act passed by the Labour Government.

The matter of the rolls has been engaging the attention of both organisations during the week. It has been found that in some of the electorates, particularly Illawarra, numbers of immigrants have had their names placed on the rolls without having lived the prescribed six months in Australia. Cases were found where enrolment had been applied for by persons who had been only a few weeks in the Commonwealth. Action is to be taken to have such names deleted from the roll.

THE LIBERALS.

WORK IN CALARE.

A successful meeting of the Calare Electorate Conference was held at Orange on Wednesday. The attendance included delegates from such distant centres as Condobolin, Parkes, and Cowra.

Mr. Archdale Parkhill, general secretary of the Liberal Association, presided, and Mr. H. R. M. Pigott, M.P., was also present. The following office-bearers were appointed:—President, Alderman E. T. M'Neilly; vice-presidents, representatives nominated by the various divisions into which the electorate was for organising purposes divided; hon. treasurer, Alderman Tillett; hon. secretary, Mr. John Holbrook.

A resolution was unanimously adopted expressing the utmost satisfaction with the representation of the electorate by Mr. Pigott, and assuring him of the loyal and unremitting efforts of the organisation in the campaign. A number of resolutions were adopted by the meeting, the substance of which was the division of the electorate for organising purposes into nine subdivisions, viz., Orange, Canowindra, Cowra, Condobolin, Bogan Gate, Forbes, Molong, Parkes, and Wellington. The organisations represented in these various divisions have accepted the full responsibility of organising the districts apportioned to them. The importance of the roll work was especially emphasised at the meeting, and various delegates present undertook to see that the work which is being done in this regard would be further extended.

Mr. Pigott has already made preliminary arrangements to enter upon his campaign, and has a tentative programme ready to start on Monday next on the understanding that Parliament will rise this week. A Liberal rally took place at Orange on Wednesday night, at which the principal speakers were Mr. Pigott, M.P., Mr. H. E. Pratten, and Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick.

PROBABLE CANDIDATES.

Matters in connection with the selection of additional Liberal candidates have been advanced a further stage, in that South Sydney organisations have recommended the selection of Mr. G. A. Pitt.

The Cook organisation recommended at its meeting on Tuesday night the endorsement of the Rev. S. D. Yarrington, whilst the Darling organisation, both Liberal and F. and S., have approved of Mr. R. S. McGeoch's candidature. The endorsement of Messrs. Pitt, Yarrington, and McGeoch is a formal matter that will be attended to at the next meeting of the executive. The candidates are making detailed arrangements for an immediate campaign.

In the Hunter electorate the local recommendation of a candidate has been deferred until Tuesday, July 7, when a final recommendation will be made.

In the Dalley electorate the local organisations are arranging for a mass meeting of the members of the various Liberal organisations to make a recommendation of a candidate on Thursday, July 2. The candidates are Messrs. J. J. McEachern and V. Stanley.

"NOT STRUCK OFF."

MR. CATTS'S CONSTITUENTS.

In the House of Representatives on Wednesday the member for Cook division, Mr. Catts, complained that 16,000 electors in his electorate had been objected to—about half the total number of electors.

The Federal returning officer for the Cook division, Mr. McNeely, when shown the statement yesterday, said: "Mr Catts must mean that 16,000 names of electors have been reported by the police as having left subdivisions in the division, and not the division itself. Objections will not be made to the names being retained on the roll until a full inquiry is made. The names of those electors still residing in the division will not, of course, be objected to. None of these 16,000 names has as yet been struck off. They have merely been reported as having left the subdivision as stated above."

THE ROLLS.

It is stated in Labour circles that enrolment cards are being applied for in vain at many of the suburban post-offices.

The Labour candidate for Lang, Mr. H. Lamond, a member of the executive of the P.L.L., stated yesterday that he knew of failure to obtain cards at the post-office at Dulwich Hill, and of the absence of envelopes at the post-office at Petersham. At the Marrickville post-office a man, after travelling four miles, had succeeded in obtaining six cards. The same difficulty applied at the General Post Office.

Mr. Lamond says the most serious inroad upon the rights of electors was the decision of the Government that electoral officers were to act upon the ex parte statements of Liberal organisers in purging the rolls. Throughout the State a carefully organised plan to disfranchise Labour electors who might be temporarily absent from their homes in the pursuit of their avocations was being carried out. It was to the supplementary lists that the nefarious designs of the Liberal organisations were now being directed. The scheme was to lodge thousands of objections in the illegal manner approved by the Federal Attorney-General in the sure and certain knowledge that a large percentage of the persons objected to would be so far from home that the notices sent to their home address would not reach them in time to enable them to preserve their electoral rights. The returning officer was prohibited by law from lodging objections unless he was satisfied that the elector was no longer resident in the division for which he was enrolled. If this provision of the law were observed there would be little to complain of. When the Attorney-General directed the electoral officials to recognise objections not made in accordance with the law the officials were placed in a difficult position. If they refused they would incur the displeasure of the Government, and if they acted upon instructions they were liable to certain penalties. Thousands of enrolment cards had been sent in during the past month which would not be included in the rolls. Immediately the rolls were issued and the claimants found their names were omitted a second series of cards would be poured into the electoral department. The Government should have provided against a repetition of what occurred at the last election, when lack of facilities for printing the cards and rolls, had led to the disfranchisement of thousands of electors.

An encouraging feature of the work reported to the Liberal organisation is the vast amount of roll work which is being done by the various branches throughout the city and suburbs. Not only is an endeavour being made to secure the enrolment of all Liberal supporters, but an effective check is being made of enrolments, many irregular instances of which are coming under the notice of the organisation, and a complete investigation is taking place.

THE P.L.L.

CAMPAIGN ARRANGEMENTS.

"From all branches in New South Wales," remarked Mr. J. Grant, the general secretary of the executive of the P.L.L., "most encouraging reports are being received. The most strenuous efforts are being put forward to circumvent the action of the Cook Government in refusing to authorise the police to assist the electors in the filling in of their enrolment claims, as was done under the Labour Government. In this protest it might be necessary to hold meetings following the one fixed for Tuesday next.

"One pleasing feature in connection with this campaign," commented the secretary, "is the decision arrived at by State Ministers and members of the State Labour party, to assist their Federal brethren. Already more than a dozen members of the party have commenced operations by attending to the enrolment of electors, and other detail work. Later on they will address meetings wherever directed by the organising committee.

"Mr. R. D. Meagher, the Speaker, has arranged to carry out a tour on the northern rivers, particularly embracing all the centres from the Tweed Heads to Grafton. Tours are being arranged also for the six Labour candidates for the Senate. Operations will be commenced as soon as the House adjourns. Senators Gardiner, McDougall, and Rae will speak at Albury on Friday and will be supported by Mr. P. Sullivan, selected Labour candidate for the Hume, and Mr. Cusack, State member for the district."

On Wednesday night the North Sydney Federal executive met and fixed on a plan of campaign for Captain R. R. Bradley, the Labour candidate.

LABOUR COUNCIL'S DISCUSSION.

At last night's meeting of the Labour Council, Mr. Brightfield (Trolly, Draymen, and Carters' Union), suggested that copies of the new rolls should be obtained and made available for inspection at the Trades Hall. Mr. Bennett (Cigar-makers) stated that the rolls of 1913 were useless. The names now being sent in would be found only on the supplementary rolls. "My opinion is," he said, "that a point has been worked by keeping New South Wales back. As an indication that last year's rolls are worthless, I noticed my name there, yet I got a notice from the electoral office to say that my name was not on. After the issue of the new rolls sufficient time should be allowed for voters to see that they are enrolled."

Mr. Cahill (Bricklayers) suggested that every delegate should become an organiser. He had personally obtained from Mr. M'Laren 500 cards of enrolment, and had distributed them. Time was so short that nothing should be sent on to the P.L.L. that could be dealt with locally.

The council decided to ask that proper facilities be afforded persons to inspect the rolls.

BOYS' BRIGADE BALL.

The annual ball in aid of the Boys' Brigade was held last night at the new Concordia Hall, Elizabeth-street, Lady Patey, Sir William and Lady Cullen, and the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress being present. On the arrival of the distinguished guests an opening set of lancers was formed, those taking part being Lady Patey and Sir William Cullen, the Lord Mayor (Alderman Richards) and Lady Cullen, Captain Brownlow and the Lady Mayoress, Dr. Fairfax and Mrs. Brownlow, Mr. Leonard Stephen and Miss Fairfax, Mr. Dabbs and Miss Thea Stephen, Mr. Rundle and Miss Dabbs, Mr. Malcolm Stephen and Miss Freida Bennett. The ball committee had for their president the Lady Mayoress, hon. treasurer Mrs. Dabbs, hon. secretary Mrs. Malcolm Stephens. Members wore white and gold badges. The stewards were:—Mr. Leonard Stephen, Mr. W. Lowe, Mr. Malcolm Stephens, Mr. Beasy, Mr. Dabbs, Mr. L. Orange.

There were four debutantes:—Miss Portia Booth, Miss Toohig, Miss Marshall, and Miss Christian.

Lady Patey wore a trained gown of black soleil, with a tunic of black lace, which also formed a corsage, a large peacock-green rose finished the sash in front; in her hair was a circlet of diamonds and a black aigrette. Lady Cullen's white satin was finished with a tunic of black lace, and a rose-pink sash. The Lady Mayoress wore black satin, with an overdress of jetted net, black osprey in her hair. Mrs. Brownlow had a black taffeta gown, with drapings of gold, embroidered black net, bodice finished with black lace and white tulle. Miss Fairfax wore black armure, with a bodice of black shadow lace finished with black tulle and white net. Mrs. Wilfred Fairfax had a gown of Saxe blue, with a short tunic of purple chiffon, white lace vest, and purple sash. Mrs. Dabbs was in black duchesse satin, finished with Chantilly lace. Mrs. Pascoe had mustard-colour ninon over charmeuse, with turquoise ornaments. Miss Dabbs was in white charmeuse, with ninon tunic. Miss Freida Bennet, ciel blue crepe de Chine, finished with white lace. Mrs. Abigail wore emerald soleil, with a waist-rose of bright pink. Miss Mollie Langer Owen, shell-pink chiffon over taffeta, trimmed with little ruchings. Miss Pearl Adrian, pale pink satin broche with pearl trimming; Mrs. Shirlow, tango ninon over white satin; Miss Olga Shirlow, a pretty frock of white satin, finished with a pleated basque of black tulle, Juliet cap of white lace and chainante and white osprey; Mrs. Norman Elliot's white satin was covered with a tunic of Venetian point lace; Mrs. Thompson was in grey crepe de Chine, finished with some fine lace; Miss Hilda Thompson, tango silk with a tunic of silver fish-net; Miss Hill, pearl grey crepe de Chine with tiny silver beads, and finished with lace; Miss F. Hill, pink and blue brocade; Miss Aurousseau, black satin finished with white tulle and a cerise rose; Miss Marshall wore pale blue brocaded crepe de Chine; Miss Florence Brownlow wore a tango ninon tunic edged with bead fringe over a white satin slip; Miss Muriel Brownlow was in black crepe de Chine and tulle; Miss Brendon Shirlow, pink satin with white shadow lace tunic; Mrs. Millen wore white satin with pale blue ninon tunic; Miss Joyce Allen wore black crepe de Chine relieved with white chiffon and black tulle; Miss Eileen Ryan wore black with a white lace tunic; Mrs. Onslow Thompson, golden brown ninon over charmeuse.

Others present were: Mrs. F. Borth, Mr. and Mrs. Daking Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. Curry, Mrs. Alfred Bennett, Miss Baber, Miss Anderson, Miss R. Harrison, Miss Ackman, Miss Toose, Dr. Flecker, Dr. Bestic, Messrs. Marks, Pentreath, Andrew, Paul Callaghan, Oliver, Elliot, Richards, Nelson, Forbes, and Couney.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The high pressure which has been covering Australia for the past few days is gradually diminishing, the centre, which on Wednesday extended from Melbourne to Lord Howe Island, now only covers the extreme SE corner of the continent between Melbourne and Gabo.

The monsoonal depression which has been operating over Queensland for the past few days has receded northwards, and is not so prominent as on Wednesday.

The Antarctic disturbance off the Leeuwin has worked northwards, and shows renewed energy, denoted by strong SW to NW winds.

Ocean Forecast: Squally and rough between the central coast of Queensland and North Coast of New South Wales; rough weather off the Leeuwin, moving eastwards towards the Bight; smooth to moderate seas elsewhere.

FINANCIAL.

VAN DIEMEN'S LAND COMPANY.

The Van Diemen's Land Company is a very important factor in Tasmanian progress, as it is the greatest land owner. At the annual general meeting of the company, held in London, the opposition offered to the general policy of the board by a determined minority failed to defeat the resolution for the adoption of the accounts, for not only was the suggested independent investigation of the general position of the undertaking negatived, but a similar fate befell a proposal that the Tasmanian assets should be realised by an official appointed for that purpose. The board is indebted to the spirited support of Mr. N. B. Snell, who, as the owner of 25 per cent. of the company's capital, was able to speak with considerable authority. Mr. Snell has recently sent his own son to report privately upon the property, and the outcome of that step has been to confirm Mr. Snell in his previous favourable opinion of the general administration of the undertaking. The remaining shareholders will, doubtless, be content to accept his assurance that their interests are being dealt with to the best advantage.

AMORPHOUS WHITE LEAD.

Staka-de-Baryta writes:—

Sir,—With reference to Mr. Ernest Banes's reply to my letter, he remarks that it is captious criticism. Yet he supports my statements in so much that he admits that sublimed lead is not manufactured in England—the country of origin—or even Austria or Germany, the latter the home of science, where carbonate or white lead is solely manufactured, and sublimed lead has been known for 60 years. Staka-de-Baryta would point out that England is still supreme in the manufacture of paints and varnishes of the finest quality, whilst America (where the Joplin process originated), owing to the number of spurious paints placed upon the market, and in order to protect the public, enforced all manufacturers to place the composition of each tin upon the attached label (called the Dakota Law).

Perhaps Mr. Banes would enlighten us in what way his sublimed lead differs in chemical composition; also, in what way (apart from plant and method of manufacture) is it an improvement to that of other manufacturers who have dropped out of the running?

Although favourable towards local industry and enterprise, my points are, nevertheless, true (admitted by Mr. Banes) and require a full explanation by the investing public.

Unless some entirely new aspect on this subject arises, this correspondence must now close.

AMERICA'S GREATEST CITIES.

The Census officers of the United States have completed an estimate of the country's probable population on July 1 of this year. They arrive at a total of 98,781,000 persons, against 91,972,000 four years ago. Of the great towns 60 have populations of 100,000 or over. Three—New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia—have passed the million, and six others the half-million. The populations of the 60 towns are:—

WENTWORTH HOTEL, LIMITED.

"Fairplay" writes:—

Sir,—The letter in your columns this morning from "Shareholder" seems to me to have been written without his having fully ascertained the facts, as I, for one, certainly do not agree with the suggestion of the present board to close the Summer Garden. In the first place, I understand that Mrs. Macluran was not responsible for the management of this part of the hotel until the better part of the summer was over, and had not Mrs. Macluran absolutely demanded that she should take full control of the whole establishment, I venture to say that the balance-sheet to-day would have been much worse reading than it is.

Most of us shareholders invested in the Wentworth Hotel not on account of the board, but on the personality of Mrs. Macluran, in whom we have every confidence, and feel sure that were she not harassed and worried she would certainly make good. As self-respecting men, the whole board should resign, and go to election, as, notwithstanding the "smallpox scare," I note that the gross receipts are thousands in advance of the previous year, and I feel sure the majority of the shareholders do not take the view of the present board of directors, that it is impossible to make the summer garden (not the winter garden) pay.

BRENNAN-FULLER'S.

Mr. Jno. Houlston, secretary, writes:—

In reply to your correspondent, Mr. J. V. Macken, I would point out that as Mr. Macken is not at present a shareholder, no explanation is due to him as to the company's balance-sheet for the last financial year. Shareholders, however, may get the information sought by Mr. Macken on application at the company's office.

In regard to your correspondent's accusation of breaking faith with the shareholders by not issuing an interim balance-sheet, it was expressly stated at the last annual meeting that the articles of the company did not provide for this, but it was agreed that an interim report be issued, which was duly forwarded to all shareholders, including your correspondent, who was then a shareholder, on December 10 last.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Golden Palace, Ltd., has been registered with a capital of £10,000 in £1 shares. Tyerman, and Richard W. Clancy. The registered office is at Coogee.

Supplement No. 21 of the "Customs Tariff Guide" is to hand from the department.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The jute market continued dull and depressed. Holders of branbags again made strenuous efforts to clear, and it was rumoured that in one or two quarters a concession on 5/ could be secured. But there were no buyers. Supplies ex Itonus were offered at 4/9, ship's slings. There was no movement in the near positions in Calcutta, but January to June shipments were weaker at 4/5 c.i.f. This quotation, however, was thought to be more of a sporting offer than a genuine desire to do business. Cornsacks for immediate delivery were quiet at 6/6 net to rails. Season's requirements were available at 6/5½, similar terms. There was a steady distributing demand for woolpacks at 3/2 delivered, less discount. May shipment was worth the same money as spot, but June shipment was to be had at 3/1.

A cablegram was received from Messrs. Bird and Co., of Calcutta, stating that the shipment of jute carried by the Fazilka consisted of 700 bales of woolpacks for Melbourne and 1450 bales for Sydney; branbags, 150 bales for Melbourne, and 125 bales for Sydney, and 350 bales of cornsacks for Sydney.

Half-ton lots of tapioca were sold at the rate of £13 a ton, but distributing lots were firm on a basis of £13/10/. There was no change in rice, which was firmly controlled. Best China commanded £27 per ton of 40 mats, while locally-dressed samples moved out freely at from £19/5/ to £21/5/ a ton. Holders generally were disinclined to give concession on oatmeal, owing to the increasing cost of the raw material. Spices were steady at previous levels.

Private advices from London showed that there was no improvement in the iron and steel trades on the Continent. Manufacturers were fighting keenly over every order on the market. Prices were low, and it was difficult to see how they could decline further, as they were the lowest recorded for the past 40 to 50 years. If something was not done to curtail the make it was likely to prove disastrous to many works, as the loss in producing bars, plates, and sheets was a serious matter to manufacturers. The output of these articles was in excess of the demand. However, it was not anticipated that any further serious reduction in price would take place. In Germany it was thought that the wire rod syndicate would be renewed and would embrace wire and wire nails. This would undoubtedly have the effect of steadying the market. It was likely that prices would be increased 4/ or 5/ per ton immediately the syndicate became operative. Moreover, there was a movement on foot to syndicate bars and plates, and meetings were being held with the Stahlwerks Verband to endeavour to bring this about. It was difficult to foresee any likely agreement at the present, although it was possible that some tentative arrangement might be arrived at amongst the manufacturers to endeavour to put trade on a better footing by decreasing their output. The Belgian manufacturers would, of course, have to be reckoned with, but they would undoubtedly fall into line to a certain extent to study their own interest.

Considerable interest was taken in white-lead, and during the day several parcels of Champions, aggregating 17 tons, changed hands at £42 per ton. The market appeared to be lightly stocked with the leading makes. Turpentine was slightly weaker, and some 300 cases of Pinetree were bought at 3/1 a gallon. Small lots were quoted at 3/3. Pratt's was available in parcels at 3/1½ net, and in smaller quantities at 3/4½. Linseed oil was quiet. Meggitt's reported that they had disposed of 1500 gallons of raw and 500 gallons of boiled oil during the past few days.

The amount of wool manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour yesterday totalled 478 bales.

BREADSTUFFS.

PROMPT WHEAT IN DEMAND.

The position of the local wheat market was interesting. Some time back heavy speculation took place in June delivery, and many thousands of bushels changed hands. The question now disturbing operators is whether some of the sellers will be able to make delivery. It is confidently expected that at least one or two will have to cancel, but it is pointed out that shippers who have space to fill are more in need of grain than damages. Holders of supplies available for immediate delivery were therefore firm. In fact, prices were nominal at from 3/10½ to 3/11 a bushel. There was no interest taken in wheat for future delivery. Cables from London were not of an encouraging character, and showed that the market was overshadowed by the prospects of a large crop in America.

There was no movement in flour, which sold well at £9 a ton. Bran and pollard were unchanged at £5/5/.

LOADINGS AND STACKINGS.

During the week ended June 20 the quantity of wheat despatched from the country stations was 179,450 bags, compared with 189,241 bags for the previous week, and 139,490 bags for the same period of last year.

From December 1 to June 20 there were despatched from country stations 7,179,537 bags, compared with 5,760,030 bags for the same period of 1912-13, and 5,370,511 bags in the same period of 1911-12.

The stacks at country stations and at Darling Island on June 20 were 1,648,074 bags, compared with 1,823,629 on the previous Saturday, and 2,299,317 bags on June 14, 1913.

The number of bags despatched from the railway districts during the week ended June 20 and the stacks in railway districts on June 20 were:—

THE INDIAN CROP.

The final official report on the Indian wheat crop for the 1913-14 season showed that the seasonal conditions were favourable in the Punjab, which contained over a third of the total wheat area of India, but the crop suffered much through drought in some of the important districts of the United Provinces, the Central Provinces, and the Bombay Presidency, as also in most of the Rajputana and Central India States. Elsewhere conditions were, on the whole, fair. The total area sown was 27,699,000 acres, or 6.2 per cent. short of last year's area, but 1.3 per cent. in excess of the average of the preceding five years. The total yield was estimated at 8,385,000 tons, against 9,715,000 tons last year, the decrease being 1,330,000 tons, or nearly 14 per cent.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 3112 tons of wheat and 244 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

SILVER.

LONDON, June 24.

Bar silver was quoted to-day at 25 7-8d per ounce standard (1-16d lower).

LINSEED OIL.

Linseed oil spot pipes are offered at £25/10/ per ton, and 2/9 9-16d per gallon, a fall of 2/6 per ton, and 1-8d per gallon.

TURPENTINE.

Turpentine is 1½d per cwt cheaper at 33/7½ per cwt.

WHEAT.

THE MARKET WEAKER.

LONDON, June 25, 4.20 a.m.

The wheat market is weak, and prices are from /3 to /6 lower. Buyers are unresponsive, and bid 36/ per quarter, of 480lb c.i.f., for Victorian grain, offered at 36/3.

METALS.

Closing quotations yesterday were:—

Copper, spot, £60/18/9 to £61/3/9 per ton (2/9 lower); 3 months, £61/11/3 to £61/16/3 per ton (2/6 lower).

Tin, spot, £139/5/ to £139/15/ per ton (2/6 higher); 3 months, £141 to £141/10/ per ton (5/ higher).

Lead, soft, foreign, £19/7/6 to £19/10/ per ton (1/3 higher).

APPLES.

The shipment of Australian apples by the Parermoh sold well, though the market was glutted with soft fruits. There was a good demand for best Sturmers at from 8/6 to 9/6, with a few at 11/. Other good sorts brought from 7/ to 8/6. Many small sorts cleared at from 4/9 to 6/6. The pears realised falling prices. Winter Nelis 13/ to 18/, Vicars 6/9 to 9/, Josephines 13/6.

LONDON SHEEPSKINS SALES.

A cable message has been received by Dalgety and Company, Limited, from its London house, dated Wednesday, in the following terms:—

"At the sheepskins sales now progressing there is a good demand at unchanged prices, as compared with those in force at the previous auctions on May 14."

LONDON BUTTER MARKET.

Dalgety and Company, London office, cables that the butter market is steady, with prices unchanged. Quotations were as follows:—Danish, 115/ per cwt; Australian, finest salted 104/ per cwt, unsalted 108/ per cwt.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Wheat, quiet, 3/11 alongside, 3/10½ store; flour, £9; bran, £5/10/; pollard, £5/5/; barley, English malting, 3/ to 3/6; Cape, 2/2 to 2/5; oats, firm, Algerians 2/1 to 2/3½; maize, 3/6 to 3/7; dun peas, 5/; chaff steady, 2/15/ to £3/7/6; mnager hay, £4/10/ to £5; Victorian straw, £2 ex rail, Tasmanian £2/15/ to £3/5/ ex wharf; potatoes, dull, Carmens £4 to £4/15/; Ballarat Snowflakes £3/10/ to £3/15/, onions, dull, £8 to £8/10/. Butter steady, 1/1 to 1/2; eggs, 1/2 to 1/3; new cheese, /8 to /8½. Tea sales include 300 packages Ceylons and 150 packages Indians. Fair business in season's delivery. Cornsacks, 6/6½ delivered, terms; branbags, spot, 5/4 to 5/5; woolpacks, firm, 3/3½ to 3/3. Whiting had spot business. Parcel of tall salmon sold for export, 7/9. Wire-netting scarce.

ADELAIDE, Thursday.

The wheat market here is feeling the effect of the continued decline of oversea rates. For option buyers are almost all down /1 to-day, and farmers' lots are on the basis of from 3/9 to 3/9½ per bushel on trucks Port Adelaide, with parcels up to 3/10 per bushel on trucks Port Adelaide. With lower figures ruling in most instances in view of the continued dry weather, most farmers are still holding stocks. In feedstuffs business is brisk at rates as altered yesterday. There is strong demand for chaff, especially from the north. The produce markets were animated to-day, and bids were numerous. The chief feature of quotations was a further reduction of /2 per dozen in eggs. The market for this line is now remarkably weak, owing to continued fine weather. Supplies have been increasing each week, and this in conjunction with the fact that Western Australia is almost self-supporting, has practically demoralised the market. Hen eggs are quoted at /11, and duck at 1/. Stores and collectors' butter are now selling at from /11 to 1/0½ per lb.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

EGGS WEAKENING.

POULTRY ACTIVE.

The main feature of importance in Thursday's trade in the "dairy" end of the "street" was a further decided weakening in eggs. Supplies are coming in steadily and in good condition, but there is no indication of interest as far as buyers are concerned. The probable reason for the apathetic attitude of the retailers is that the egg-eating public, the ultimate arbiters of the price of this commodity, have not yet realised that the price of new-laid eggs has fallen below the 2/ mark. The reason is obvious. When eggs cost 2½d apiece, they cease to be an article of diet for all except invalids and epicures, and as these two classes of consumers form but a trifling proportion of the public, the grocer and egg-vendors find their stocks very slow in clearing, and cannot, in consequence, operate to any extent on "the street." Another feature also has to be considered. "Out of sight, out of mind" is a truism that applies to food just as much as any other human affairs, and when the egg disappears from the breakfast table and from the weekly grocer's list, the housekeepers are apt to forget that the price may recede from the high-water mark at which eggs were beyond their reach. Again, the retailer, invariably a cautious individual, has his eye on the market, and, noting the weakening tone of the market, hangs off from day to day, buying only what is absolutely necessary, in the hope of a still further fall. Thus it is that the market has steadily declined during the week, and threatened to remain quiet until after the holiday. The greater proportion of the agents quoted 1/5 to 1/6 for new-laid on Thursday, one large holder stating that 1/6 was his top price for graded lots, but another, on the other hand, was finding buyers for his best lines at 1/7. All things being considered, however, 1/5 to 1/6 would seem to indicate the prevailing tone of the market. Duck eggs sold at the same prices as hen eggs.

In contradistinction to the slackness of the egg market poultry showed distinct activity, and prices were all on the up-grade. Supplies seem to be light and buyers keen, with the result that all-round increases in price were recorded. Choice turkey gobblers brought as much as £1, and the less select lines 10/ and 12/ without difficulty. Ducks also were in good demand; choice English drakes going off well at 4/, with Muscovies up to 6/. Young roosters, if of choice quality, found buyers ready to give 5/6. The above prices refer to river and railway consignments.

The bacon market showed a rather weakening tendency, though no alteration in prices was recorded. This tendency of the bacon market is rather unusual at this time of the year, and aroused considerable comment among agents who generally expect a rise in bacon to accompany a fall in eggs.

All other lines were unchanged in the dairy section.

Quotations were:—

RAILWAY MARKET.

The chaff offered at the railway forage and grain sales yesterday morning was not as choice in quality as that of the previous day, and consequently prices were slightly lower.

A fair supply of wheaten was on hand, and commanded 5/ (top price), with others ranging from 3/ to 4/6. Oaten chaff was not present in any great quantity, and only a moderate demand reigned, 4/6 being top price realised on a parcel from Old Junee, whilst other lots brought prices from 4/ to 4/2. Only two lots of lucerne were sold, these commanding 4/ to 4/4 respectively.

A moderate supply of oaten and lucerne hay was present, but received little attention from buyers, the highest prices paid being 4/9 oaten, and 4/ lucerne.

Potatoes were much firmer than was the case yesterday, prices being correspondingly higher. A parcel from Perritt (Guyra) commanded top price at 4/10 per cwt. Other lots sold by public auction realised prices ranging from 2/6 to 4/6.

Consignments placed in position for sale:—Hay, straw, chaff 83, grain 7, potatoes 20.

The unassociated brokers report that competition ruled firm for all good wools, and prices can be quoted as being 2½ per cent. to 5 per cent. up on May rates. Burry crossbreds were dull of sale, and cannot be quoted as selling relatively as well as merinos. Scoureds were keenly competed for at good rates.

The Sydney Wool-selling Brokers' Association report:—"The market ruled very strong at the higher level established the previous day, competition being keen from all sections of buyers, and for all descriptions of wool. The improvement in the demand was most noticeable in regard to faulty sorts. Greasy sold to /15, and scoured to /25½.

The Co-operative Wool and Produce Co., Ltd., offered 1191 bales, including several new season clips and some nice lines of scoured, to a full attendance of buyers. Their highest price in the grease was /12½, obtained for an attractive and well-grown line of 52 bales AE&AH, branded "WR/Bannockburn," from Queensland, sold on account of Mr. Wm. Reed. In the scoured, /24½ was obtained for 6 bales "SJMcI/Polocara," on account of Mr. S. J. M'Inerney, and /24½ for 24 bales "The Cato/BID," on account of Mr. A. B. Biddulph. Both these lines were well scoured and of attractive quality. HOMEBUSH STOCK MARKET.

SHEEP.

With 25,092 sheep (including lambs) listed for yesterday's sales, from 97 consignors, and 23,955 head penned, making a total of 46,293 for the week, the supply appeared within the demand, and values during the morning ruled very firm for all descriptions, with a hardening tendency for the better qualities, but weakened in the afternoon. The consignments included four drafts, ranging from 380 to 1080, with the usual large proportion of small lots. Some of the stock trains were late in arriving, but most of the sheep were classed up by the commencement of the sales. The weather was fair, and rather mild. With the exception of a few pens of shorn, the sheep were in the wool; a sprinkling came from the late shearing districts; a large proportion, however, carried good wool skins. Merinos preponderated, but there was a larger representation of crossbreds than usual. The merinos comprised all descriptions, and included a fair proportion of prime and a sprinkling of extra prime wethers and ewes. There was, however, a good showing of medium and useful trade descriptions. Odd small pens of inferior were also in evidence. The crossbreds ranged from fair trade quality to extra prime heavy wethers, but heavy ewes were not nearly so well represented as on Monday. There was a good representation of prime, with a sprinkling of useful quality. Occasional lots carried very burry skins.

Buyers were in full attendance, including exporters, the Sydney Meat Preserving Company, Ltd., the usual Glebe Island, suburban, and country trade. As the supply seemed within trade requirements, the market opened to free competition at firm values for useful trade descriptions and to keen bidding, with a hardening tendency for good wool wethers suitable for export. Odd lots of heavy crossbreds were also in strong demand at full rates. This tone prevailed throughout the morning, but in the afternoon the market weakened generally 6d per head.

Included in the principal sales was a draft of 1037 merino wethers from Jas. McMaster (Bundella), to 25/10, avg. 22/9, from C. H. Colless (Come-by-Chance) to 25/, from W. V. Gibbs (Cathundral) to 25/1, from A. E. Hunt (Nevertire) to 23/11, from T. Booth (Gunning), J. L. Platt (Coonamble) that sold to 24/3, from Fleming Bros. (Walgett) to 23/4; Ingall Bros. (Willow Tree) to 23/3, T. Perrett (Gunnedah) and Milroy station (Brewarrina) to 23/. A large draft from Yeomans Bros. (Brewarrina), 1066 selling to 22/7, avg. 21/1; a draft of 639 from W. and T. C. Dickson (Brewarrina) to 22/1, avg. 20/1; 762 from Bell Bros. and Co. (Walgett), to 21/7, avg. 19/6; from F. W. D. Thompson (Moree), to 23/5; A. E. Hunt (Nevertire), to 23/11; Hunt Bros., Ltd. (Nevertire), to 22/10; G. D. Bowen (Trangie), to 22/7; and G. Pring (Koorawatha) to 22/3. A draft of merino ewes from C. Evans (Cryon) sold to 21/3; from J. A. Ferguson (Pilliga) to 21/9, from J. Rood Fry (Boggabri) to 20/6, and S. Perrett to 19/6. Included in the crossbreds was a line from T. Booth (Gunning) to 29/1, from R. Mather (Young) to 28/4, J. E. Cairnes (Coonamble) to 25/3. A line of 335 hoggets from A. E. Bowman (Gunnedah) to 25/, avg. 23/, wethers from T. H. Windeyer (Trangie) to 25/, and ewes to 22/6, from exors. S. Austin (Craboon) to 24/ for wethers, and 23/4 for ewes, from W. Hocking (Craboon) to 24/7 for wethers, J. Woods (Wyanga) to 24/6 for wethers and ewes, from W. Ferguson (Pilliga) to 22/6. A line of shorn merino wethers from W. H. Colless (Walgett) sold at 14/2 for the culls, 16/6 for the main body, and 17/11 for a few tops. In contrast to the foregoing an odd small pen of ewes sold at 5/ per head.

Quotations: Prime merino w 21/6 to 24/; extra prime merino w 25/ to 26/; good merino w and h 16/6 to 18/6; medium merino w and h 13/ to 14/6; prime merino e 18/ to 20/, extra prime merino e 21/ to 22/, good merino e 15/ to 17/, medium merino e 12/ to 14/, inferior 10/ to 11/; prime xbd w and h 23/ to 24/, extra prime xbd w and h 25/ to 27/6, odd small pens to 29/, good xbd w and h 19/ to 20/, medium w and h 15/ to 17/; prime xbd e 21/ to 23/, extra prime xbd e 24/ to 25/; good xbd e and h 17/6 to 19/, medium xbd e and h 14/ to 16/; prime shorn merino w 16/6 to 18/, good shorn merino w 14/6 to 15/6; prime shorn xbd w 17/6 to 18/6, good shorn xbd w 15/ to 16/6.

LAMBS.

VALUES GENERALLY WEAKER.

A moderate supply of lambs was penned. All descriptions were forward, comprised mainly of crossbred, with a small proportion of merino, chiefly woolly lambs, with a sprinkling of suckers. There was a very fair showing of prime heavy woolly lambs, and a moderate representation of prime lambs and suckers. Occasional pens carried very burry skins. Included in the pennings was a fair proportion of good useful trade sorts, and occasional pens of medium and light. Buyers included exporters and graziers. There was a good demand, but values generally were /6 to 1/ per head lower, the weakness being more pronounced on heavy lambs than on useful trade descriptions. A draft from D. Mullane (Nevertire) sold to 20/5, H. Foote to 20/1, J. M'Kid (Barraba) to 18/11, and J. H. Bettington (Scone) to 18/2 per head.

Quotations:—Prime woolly lambs, 16/6 to 18/; extra prime heavy lambs, 19/ to 20/6; prime lambs and suckers, 15/6 to 16/6; good lambs and suckers, 13/6 to 14/6; medium lambs and suckers, 11/ to 12/6; odd pens of inferior, 6/ to 8/.

CATTLE.

GENERALLY LOWER VALUES.

A large supply of cattle was in view for yesterday's sales, upwards of 3667 being listed from 132 consignors, and 3578 head were yarded, a total of 6398 for the week. The consignments came mainly from the northern and north-western districts, with a sprinkling from the west and south. A notable draft was forward from the west of 420 head, comprising good to prime bullocks, steers, cows, heifers, and vealers, with a few bulls, which constituted for the number, quality, and variety of the draft—with prices realised—a record line for the yards on one sale day. The yardings generally comprised all descriptions, from calves and very rough old cows, culled from dairy and bush sources, to a sprinkling of extra prime heavy bullocks and cows. There was a capital showing of prime handyweight bullocks and steers, a fair proportion of prime medium-weight bullocks, and odd yards of exceptionally prime heavy bullocks. The cows and heifers included a good proportion of prime and extra prime; medium, rough, and inferior, while being in evidence, were not so plentiful as usual. The general average quality of the yardings was considerably higher than for a good while past.

Buyers were in full attendance, including exporters and the S.M.P. Company, also an operator from Geelong. The market opened to free competition for prime without quotable change, but other descriptions were generally 10/ per head lower. As sales progressed the market became very flat. Good to prime cows were 15/ per head lower, and good bullocks 10/ to 15/. Later there was a spurt, and the market quite spirited for prime quality, choice bullocks and steers selling up to previous rates, and other descriptions were less in buyers' favour. Towards the close, however, the market again weakened. The supply proved in excess of the demand, and values were generally 10/ to 15/ per head lower for the better qualities, and 5/ for rough descriptions.

Included in the principal sales was a draft of 421 head from D. Buffier (the Lachlan and trucked at Warren) that sold to £14/16/ for bullocks, to £13/1/ for steers, to £10/14/ for heifers, to £9/13/ for cows, and to £7/14/ for vealers. A line of 8 exceptionally prime heavy bullocks from the Berida Pastoral Co. (Gilgandra) sold to £16/15/, averaging £16/9/4. A draft of 50 bullocks from H. R. Munro (Muswellbrook) sold to £12/8/, averaging £11/17/5; 30 from the A.A. Co. (Willow Tree) to £12/13/, averaging £12/1/; 20 bullocks from A. B. Bettington (Scone) to £12/6/, averaging £12, and 31 steers to £11/14/, averaging £10/6/10. A line of 77 cows from H. E. A. and V. White (Scone) sold to £9/3/, averaging £7/19/3.

Quotations: Yards of prime medium-weight bullocks, £12/ to £13; yards of prime and heavy bullocks, £13/10/ to £14/10/; odd extra prime heavy bullocks, £16/15/; yards of prime handy-weight bullocks and steers, £10/10/ to £11/10/; odd choice yards, to £13/1/; yards of good bullocks and steers, £8 to £9; yards of medium bullocks and steers, £6 to £7; yards of inferior and light steers, £4 to £5/5/; yards of prime cows and heifers, £7/10/ to £9; extra prime, £9/10/ to £10/14/; yards of good cows and heifers, £5/10/ to £6/10/; yards of medium and light cows and heifers, £4 to £4/10/; yards of inferior and light sorts, £2/10/ to £3. Best light beef, 30/ to 31/; prime heavy beef, 27/ to 28/; good beef, 24/ to 26/ per 100lb; medium, lower.

MINING.

LONDON QUOTATIONS COLOURLESS

LOCAL BUSINESS SLIGHTLY BRISKER.

SOME VALUES BETTER—OTHERS WORSE.

Though the number of stocks dealt in yesterday morning was a decided improvement on the record of the previous day, the values realised were not all in favour of sellers. Some stocks were better, but the majority were worse, hence the general trend of the market can truthfully be said to be still on the easy side, despite the improved rates ruling for a few stocks.

As regards the slight flutter that has taken place in certain prominent lines, some operators are doubtful if the better range of values recorded will last. In the case of Barriers they are dubious, seeing that the forward price for lead is quoted under the cash price. Earlier in the week it was pointed out in this column that the opinion was held in some quarters that with two such important metals as copper and tin having fallen in value, grave doubts existed as to whether lead could maintain the firm position it has held for some time past. It was, some said, opposed to all experience that lead should maintain a high rate whilst tin, copper, and pig-iron were down in price.

Clear evidence was furnished by the "middle" quotations of the London Stock Exchange on Wednesday that it is still in a vacillating mood, for, whilst Mount Lyells, Chillagoe, Mount Morgans, and Munganas were slightly firmer, easier prices were quoted in the case of Broken Hill Proprietary, Broken Hill Norths, Broken Hill Block 10, Golden Horseshoes, and Associated Northern Blocks (W.A.) gold mine. The stocks that were unchanged in value were:—Amalgamated Zinc, Mount Elliotts, Great Cobars, Associated Gold Mines, and Great Boulder Perseverance. In a word, the quotations were featureless, except that they showed the London market still lacked strength.

As regards the local business transacted, Mount Morgans again sold on the firm side, possibly on account of the Australian forward movement of the last two days having extended to the London Stock Exchange—a clear case of the tail wagging the dog. On the other hand, Hampden-Cloncurry eased a fraction to 26/3, with buyers still unsupplied at that figure, so that the shares cannot be said to be weak. The nibbling after Mount Lyell shares became more pronounced, but sellers stood off. Improved offers were also made for Great Fitzroy.

The Barrier market showed symptoms of easiness, not only in the sales booked in Broken Hill Proprietary and Broken Hill Junction North, but likewise in the case of the quotations for British Broken Hill and Broken Hill Souths (paid), but holders of Broken Hill Norths, Sulphide Corporation, and Zinc Corporation (ord.) declined to mark down prices below late sale rates.

Gold propositions still continue in the backwash. The sales of Bullfinch Proprietary and Great Southern Consols were on the easy side, whilst there was not the least strength in the call for other West Australian, Queensland, and New South Wales gold scrip.

Tin is still enveloped in the gloom caused by the fall in the price of the metal. Some people say they cannot understand the extreme depression in the value of tin shares. A leading authority on the metal expressed the opinion that we have been spoiled by the high prices ruling previous to the present fall. "Metallic tin at £139/2/6 per ton still means big profits to tin dredging companies, especially those operating with cheap labour in Malay and Siam." But that consideration does not weigh with most scrip-holders. They see a big fall in the price of the metal, and straight-away conclude that the bottom has fallen out of the industry. The market felt the effect of these weak-kneed ones, for the trend of values in the sales booked was all on the easy side. It should be stated, however, that very few shares changed hands.

A glance at the Stock Exchange sales list will show the extremely quiet character of the afternoon proceedings. Operators had apparently exhausted their energies, or their commissions—which?—by the morning flutter. Every section was affected, only one more so than another.

MINING NOTES.

The fourth half-yearly report of the directors of the Ruby Creek Sluicing Company was presented at an ordinary general meeting of shareholders held yesterday at the company's office, O'Connell-street, and presided over by Mr. F. N. Yarwood. The accounts showed that the profit for the half-year was £442 2s 8d, which, with a balance of £495 1s 7d brought forward from the last account left a balance of £937 4s 3d to be carried forward to the next account. In their report the directors remark that the plant, which has now been moved to site No. 5, is approaching the narrow strip which connects the lower flat with the larger area of ground above. It will be necessary to work through this, or portion of it, in order to carry water behind us as far as possible. As this work is not likely to yield much profit, and in view of the low price of tin, the directors think it advisable not to contemplate making any repayment of debentures at present. Consideration is also being given to the possibility of further increasing the capacity of the plant, but with the present market conditions for the sale of their product, and the high cost of labour, it becomes a question whether it might not be better to close down altogether and wait for better times rather than embark further money in plant for the venture.

"BILLYGOAT" LAND.

WHAT IS A FAIR RENTAL?

BATHURST, Thursday.

An interesting point arose in the Warden's Court to-day before Mr. Warden Burke, in the assessment of the rental and compensation for land in the case of an application for authority to enter private land and seek for molybdenite.

William Garrard, the owner of the land, stated that he considered it only fair in assessing the rental, to take into consideration the inconvenience that would be caused to grazing stock by the mining operations on the land.

The warden: No, you cannot take that into consideration. When I came here, I remember that in many parts of the district the unfortunate prospector was charged £1 an acre rental for "billygoat" land, or land for which nine-tenths of the people would have been glad to get 2s 6d an acre rental. This astounded me. I am happy to say that at the present time the prospector gets fair consideration. An owner is only entitled to a fair rental for the land. The question of compensation comes in after. It is then legitimate to consider the inconvenience occasioned by the mining operations, as well as the mere damage done, when assessing compensation.

Mr. Garrard: This mining is like a gamble. If it proves useless I will be seriously inconvenienced.

The warden: There is no doubt about that.

Mr. Garrard: The sheep won't go near the mines.

The warden: That is a matter for compensation.

Rental was fixed at 1s 6d per acre.

BRITISH BROKEN HILL MINE.

BROKEN HILL, Thursday.

The British lead mill, working short time, for the past official fortnight, treated 9170 tons of crudes, averaging 12.9 per cent lead, 7oz silver, and 11.2 zinc, producing lead concentrates totalling 1350 tons, containing 24,146oz silver, 870 tons lead, 96 tons zinc. The minerals separation plant produced also 1320 tons of zinc concentrates, containing 14,256oz silver, 150 tons lead, and 568 tons zinc. The plants also produced 526 tons of slimes. Developmental work progressed in the Howell, Blackwood, and Thompson sections. At No. 8 level (Thompson's) the north drive was extended in ore assaying 16.2 per cent. lead, 8oz silver, and 11.8 per cent zinc. The north drive (No. 10 level) was taken to 52 feet, the last eight feet being in ore, going 9.7 per cent. lead, 8.2oz silver, and 9.9 per cent. zinc. Diamond drilling progressed on No. 11 level. No. 243 bore was stopped at 114 feet. No. 244 bore was started and progressed to 149 feet. This bore is going south-west, and the core carries ore of various values up to 104 feet, including five feet of fair grade ore, and three feet of good ore.

BARRIER MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Thursday.

Machinery has arrived at Silverton for the plant of the Broken Hill Gold and Copper Company at the Diamond Jubilee property. Some good specimens from the mine have been won in the shaft sinking.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN MINES.

KALGOORLIE, Thursday.

The Oroya Links has cabled to London:—"Eclipse lease, 900 feet level, main north drive extended from 139 to 175 feet in material assaying 36/ per ton, over a width of 84 inches."

ADELONG GOLD ESTATES.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The half-yearly meeting of the Adelong Gold Estates was held yesterday.

Mr. J. L. Wharton presided, and in moving the adoption of the report said that the results since the close of the term had improved, due to the alterations made to No. 1 plant. For the past four weeks yields had averaged 118½oz. That improvement had been obtained without material alteration of No. 2 plant, which would probably make an improved contribution when alterations were made. Indications at present justified the hope that results approximating those originally claimed would be realised. The call made since the close of the term was well responded to. It would enable the debenture payment to be made at the end of the month, and would leave a surplus of approximately £2000, so that the financial position was reasonably satisfactory.

The reports were adopted, and the retiring director, Mr. J. L. Wharton, was re-elected.

THE LURE OF MINING.

A MINER AT 78 YEARS.

BATHURST, Thursday.

Warden A. B. C. Burke turned a sympathetic ear towards an old man named Joseph Little, a miner, who to-day applied for a suspension of the labour conditions attached to the ground he is working. He asked for relief for a period of three months, for the reason that a substantial sum of money had already been expended in mining. Mr. Little added he had held the land on lease for five years, and stated that during that time he had expended £400 in costeening and sinking a shaft 200ft.

The Warden: How old are you, Mr. Little?

Applicant: Nearly 78 years of age, sir.

The Warden: And you have been at the mine all that time, with the exception of the exemptions you have mentioned?

Applicant: Yes, sir.

The Warden: You have done well. I'll give you a three months' suspension of the labour covenants.

Mr. Little thanked the Warden and left the court.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The "magpie" grass track was freely used yesterday morning at Randwick, and was good going. Chid led off, but only ran a mile at a useful bat, and Feramors and Secret Service put in a strongly run circle. Moving Picture spurted freely, and Floating took 2m 14s for nine furlongs. Tatterley, over five furlongs, recorded 1m 8s, while Fugue spurted half-a-mile, as did Goldenia, Irishwoman, and Best Scot (along the back). Multum-in-Parvo covered five furlongs in 1m 10s, and Sir Vive got over a round strongly. Useful work was done by Grail and Vif, Gillaiambi, Master Penury, and Winston, Bunbury, Imahi, Hopfield, Woorak, Poel Riner, Hopoast, and Sunburnt. Berangle and Perilla ran five furlongs in 1m 6s, and Golden Hop put in a good strong round, and Beragoon's five furlongs occupied 1m 10s; while Rymerhild recorded 1m 8s for a like trip. Star-of-the-Empire negotiated seven furlongs in 1m 33s, and Hallmark and Torone did long strong work. Miss Collar and Simon Frisco went usefully over six furlongs, while the same trip was run by La Fiancee and Ligero in 1m 21½s. Zinti and Lady Avington merely spurted, and North Woodleigh shaped well over six furlongs, a journey Challenge Crosse ran in 1m 19½s. Bon Reve was let off with a strong round, and King Mostyn, over three-quarters of a mile, put up 1m 20s. Grab Apple and Karool took 1m 6s for five furlongs, and Rubecula 2m 4s for a mile and a furlong. Rovigue registered 1m 24s for six furlongs, and several others pottered about. On the tan Matourse did strong work over a round, and Burri went steadily twice round. Useful work was done by Hartfell, Limelight, Lochano, Greyspeare, and Danaum, First Toy, Third Prize, and several others.

Jerilderie Jockey Club's racing fixture for July 22 has been granted registration by the A.J.C.

On Tuesday last a collision occurred on the training track at Wagga, between Silver Medal, on whom O'Reilly had the mount, and W.L.S., who was ridden by Halcroft, resulting in the former receiving injuries which will keep him on the easy list for some time. W.L.S. was doing slow work when Silver Medal jumped off for a half-mile spin. After going a couple of furlongs O'Reilly called out to Halcroft to keep clear, and the latter took hold of his mount, but W.L.S. swerved across the track, and was run into by Silver Medal, who fell heavily, throwing his rider, who had his face and hands cut and bruised, while Silver Medal, who was injured in one of his shoulders, was very lame, and was with difficulty taken to his box. Aulroft, who was also thrown, got a severe shaking, but W.L.S. did not suffer much from the mishap.

After declaration of first forfeits, yesterday, for the principal events of the V.R.C. Grand National Steeplechase Meeting, 33 remain in the G. N. Hurdle Race, and 26 in the G. N. Steeplechase, so that in each race a large field seems assured. Nothing of any great consequence has left either list, and the quality of those that still hold their engagements is of high-class. The only Sydney horse engaged in the big race over the battens is Hallmark, and recent form gives him a fair chance of success. Wadden is the only Sydney representative in the G. N. Steeplechase, in which such capable performers over the big timber as Vanguard, Leah Kleahna, United Kingdom, Clontaft, V.M.R., The Miser, Anacrion, and Icon are still engaged.

LATEST SCRATCHINGS.

The following scratchings were recorded yesterday:—

ROSEHILL—PRINCE OF WALES BIRTHDAY MEETING.

Nursery Handicap: Haut Special.
Flying Welter: Devil's Wind.
Maiden Juvenile Stakes: Kikiamgah.
Trial Stakes: Lady Graveaira.
All Engagements: Dion, Foil, Northfield, Lingard.

VCTORIAN TRAINING NOTES.

G.N. CANDIDATES AT WORK.

CAULFIELD.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

It was rather sharp this morning, and there was a fair amount of work done. The grass was closed, but the sand was in good order. Two Ales had no trouble in running nine furlongs in 2m 10s. Invermichie half paced, and Dust Cloud and Elshon followed his example. Adorn and Golden Rock made their way over six furlongs in 1m 22s. Rathlea struck out for a mile in 1m 40s. Maltguard spurted five furlongs in 1m 8¼s. Sequarious was 1m 56s running a mile, which distance was done by Newlone in 1m 53¾s, and Hollands and Wisconsin in 1m 52s. Sam Langford covered five furlongs in 1m 2¾s, and Sarzana was 1m 8¾s for the same journey. Maltravers spurted; Sylvanmore made light of nine furlongs in 2m 5s, nor was Sheriff Muir at his top for a furlong less in 1m 52½s. Golden point slipped over six furlongs in 1m 22½s. Bentick was sent over a mile, which took 1m 51½s, and Active Lad and Wedderburn were 1m 53s. Bridge accounted for a mile in 1m 54½s. Lettergram dashed off three furlongs, while Scrutineer did long, strong work. Cavity and oral Fisher spurted five furlongs in 1m 8s, and Guncap was on the easy list. Belfast and Blind Harry kept close company for nine furlongs in 2m 12½s. Telvy and Darus spurted four furlongs in 53¾s. Powong was all out over a mile in 1m 58½s. Cross Swords (Cameron) jumped three hurdles well, Caross ran three furlongs in 30s up the side, and Active Lass travelled a furlong further in 54s. Alumette popped over three hurdles satisfactorily, and Andricula (R. Lewis) jumped three fairly well. Parsimonious galloped a mile in 1m 54s, and Lady Jane slipped over six furlongs in 1m 23¼s. Jules (Hawkins) got over three hurdles well. Dumfries had the help of Veronal the greater portion of the way over a mile in 1m 52¾s, and others to go a mile were Cordeuillion in 1m 53s, and Nine of Diamonds in 1m 51½s. Strathnaver cut out five furlongs in 1m 12¾s. Celt did steady exercise, and all E. A. Connolly's horses were on the easy list. Minato ran nine furlongs in 2m 7¾s; Hand Grenade shaped badly over some hurdles and fences; and Problematic was responsible for a mile in 1m 57¼s. Ungala and Sweedish Lad jumped fences moderately well. Culwalla was going easily for a mile and a quarter in 2m 22s. Sir Traquair and Captain Oates were associated for four furlongs in 54s. Lochiel (A. Carter) and Lady Pistol (Ryan) jumped six hurdles. The firstnamed shaped well, but Lady Pistol badly. Asterbert ran a mile in 1m 55s. My Angle, Dry Reef, Lassoo, and La Annie shaped well over the hurdles. Carcassonne and a mate were 1m 23s running five furlongs. Fosterto did even-time work. Myako ran the last five furlongs of a mile in 1m 11s. Manx Lad popped over 5 fences nicely, and Gold Count (Mance) shaped well over five; then blundered at the next, and dragged Mance for nearly 100 yards before he got released from his precarious position, and he got off with a bad shaking.

FLEMINGTON.

The weather was fine and calm this morning, when the tracks were good going, and there was a large muster of spectators of the work, which was of an interesting nature. Glenfin led off with seven furlongs in 1m 42s. Ootacamund was striding along. Arquebuse did good pace work over a distance. Rock Temple (G. Harrison) did not experience any difficulty in running five furlongs in 1m 7¾s, while Delthyris and Winthorpe occupied 1¼s longer for the same distance. Bunnadigga (J. Nicholls) and Vadistry (L. Cartledge) shaped nicely in a turn over the hurdles. Obi (G. Harrison) kept wide out on the track, and, going well throughout, beat Widden (C. Smith), who tired considerably, by several lengths in a gallop of a mile and a quarter in 2m 19s. Bill Brandon (L. Hagerty) jumped hurdles in good style, and then went strongly. Dhuldhul was going better than Aristaeus for six furlongs in 1m 22½s; while Duel spurted half a mile on the inside sand in 52s. Diabobo (C. Andrews) beat King's Ransom (Harrison) in a gallop of a mile in 1m 52s. Sam Cook and Southerly did long, strong work, and Hypo also strode along; while Common King (L. Hagerty) went well for a mile on the cinders in 1m 49½s. Vanguard (a light boy) had no difficulty in running a mile and three-quarters on the cinders in 3m 30s, and he did a middle mile of it in 1m 53s—a very sound bit of work. Algabonyah, Long Range, and Coronatus were all at striding work. Icon (J. Killora) did useful pace work over a distance, and moved freely enough. Yandilla King, who was the worse for his race at Moonee Valley, was let off lightly, and so was John McCormack. Scotch Malt spurted half a mile in 54½s, and Sir Prim did strong work over a distance, the last five furlongs being cast behind in 1m 10½s. Nickajack (C. O'Reilly) outjumped and beat Tardy (L. Hagerty), who does not race to the obstacles, and a Rouge Croix filly (A. D. Hughes) in a school over hurdles. Becassine was again led work, and Coradjil went quietly. Laculano (A. C. Scott) jumped fences, while Autumna (A. C. Scott) and Kirkbrae (V. Smith) were schooled over hurdles. Bullarook (A. C. Scott) beat Sigmund over a mile in 1m 53s; Weenobah also went strongly. A recent arrival, the Tasmanian hurdleracer, Taurus, was usefully engaged, and, after doing some good pacing, Hawthorn (Keating) was schooled over fences. Statecraft was pacing, and Didus and Optimeform ran the last six furlongs of eight in 1m 21s. Bonnie George (T. Woods) gave one of his customary good displays over hurdles. Socotra and Little Siam galloped nine furlongs, and Weeroo beat Donald Wallace over a slowly-run mile, a distance covered by Admiral Grand in 1m 56s. Tranthoit also went strongly, and Brazil was striding along. Sonny B (T. Woods) gave a good account of himself in a school over seven fences (including those in the "lane") on the steeplechase course proper. Brewster beat Brasseur over a mile in 1m 51s, and Mountain Oak and Lady Langulac both did good sound work over a distance. Mintstone strode over a mile in 1m 49s. Amongst others to come under notice at various tasks were Mere, Peladda, Capintesta, Milkabah, Rayon D'or, Massie, Booligal, Zepharon (an even-time 9 furlongs) Abbey Craig, Ludwig, and Sederick.

SOUTHERN DISTRICTS RACING ASSOCIATION.

INITIAL RACE MEETING.

SECOND DAY.

ANONA WINS THE SOUTHERN HANDICAP.

ALBURY, Thursday.

The second day's racing of the Southern Districts Racing Association initial meeting was held to-day. Results:—

Second Hurdle Race, about 2m.—Malt Bin, by Maltster—Miss Albyn, 10st 9lb (Moore), 1; Dix, 8st 2lb (Maniple), 10st 5lb, 3. Other starters: Abandoned, 10st 4lb; Nodrap, 9st 12lb; Mallet, 9st 10lb; Jinimbah, 9st 3lb; Lyance, 9st 3lb. Betting: 2 to 1 v Malt Bin, 2 to 1 v Maniple, 4 to 1 v Lyance, 6 to 1 v Abandoned, 10 to 1 each v Nodrap, Mallet, Jinimbah, and Dix. Malt Bin and Maniple led the field practically to the home turn, where they were joined by Jinimbah and Dix. A fine race up the straight ensued, Maniple and Dix challenging Malt Bin in turn, but at the half-distance the firstnamed was done with. Dix, vigorously ridden by Kelly, came with a fast run, and Moore had to settle down on the favourite, who won by about a neck, with Maniple a length away third. Time, 3m 49s.

Second Trial Stakes, 6f.—White Arch, by The Arch—Gladys May, 7st (carried 7st 5lb) (Stanmore), *; Mackay, by Le Galeur—Mana mare (Hoysted), *; Tularey, 8st 10lb (carried 8st), 3. * Dead heat. Other starters: Kind Lady, 8st; Cellini, 7st 7lb; Bynya, carried 7st 5lb; Bitter Ale, carried 7st 8lb; Ballanjook, 8st 10lb; Coolavin, carried 8st 4lb. Betting: 5 to 4 v Kind Lady, 2 to 1 v Mackay, 5 to 1 v White Arch, 10 to 1v others. Mackay and White Arch made all the running, and, after an exciting finish, the judge could not separate them. Tularey was half a length away third. Kind Lady was prominent up the straight, but was unable to get through. Time, 1m 18s. The owners of Mackay and White Arch decided to run off. In the run-off, White Arch won by half a neck, after a good race. Time, 1m 19½s. The betting was 5 to 2 on Mackay, 6 to 4 v White Arch.

Southern Handicap, 1m.—Anona, by Andria (imp.)—Nance O'Neill, 6yrs, 7st 8lb (Stanmore), 1; Red Tape, 7st 7lb, 2; Mount Terrell, 8st 12lb, 3. Other starters: Strathdoon, 8st 10lb; Fitzmack, 7st 12lb; Arioso, 7st 12lb; Inverara, 7st 5lb; Rifle Rest, 6st 7lb. Betting: Even money on Strathdoon, 3 to 1 v Mount Terell, 4 to 1 v Arioso, 6 to 1 v Fitzmack, 10 to 1 each v Anona, Red Tape, Inverara, and Rifle Rest. Fitzmack and Strathdoon made the running to the turn, but the field were bunched coming down the straight, where Anona came with a terrific run at the finish, and won comfortably by three lengths, half a length separating second and third. Time, 1m 44s.

Heighweight Handicap, 7f.—Truganini, by Merriwee—Heart Whist, 8st 9lb (Russell), 1; Waipa, 8st 3lb, 2; Bebo, 8st 9lb, 3. Other starters: Patterson, Prompt, Firestick, and Sappa. Betting: 2 to 1 v Truganini, 4 to 1 v Waipa, 6 to 1 each v Sappa, Patterson, and Prompt. Won by a length, half a length between second and third. Time, 1m 32s.

Farewell Handicap, 6f.—Gnarblue, by Gnarpunt—Blue Eyes, 9st (Hoysted), 1; Menthe, 9st 2lb, 2; Brilliantine, 7st 10lb, 3. Also started: Brown Pan, 10st. Betting: 6 to 4 on Menthe, 2 to 1 v Gnarblue, 3 to 1 v Brilliantine, 5 to 1 v Brown Pan. Won by a length. Time, 1m 18s.

POLO.

WAGGA v HARDEN.

A team representing the Wagga Polo Club visited Harden yesterday, and were beaten by 13 goals to 1. The teams were:—Wagga: Mr. N. Wilson, Mr. H. Wilson, Mr. E. H. Wilson, and Mr. E. Whitehead. Harden: Mr. W. Ross, Mr. T. Ross, Mr. K. Ross, and Mr. A. M'Laurin.

The game was witnessed by a large number of visitors, but the Wagga men were outclassed throughout. The same players will represent Harden at the Dudley Cup Carnival.

GOONDIWINDI CARNIVAL.

GOONDIWINDI (Q.), Thursday.

The polo carnival was continued to-day in drizzling rain. Goondiwindi A defeated St. George by 6 goals to 3; and Texas won from Goondiwindi C by 2 goals to 1.

FOOTBALL.

RUGBY UNION.

"ALL BLACKS."

PHENOMENAL RECORD.

The New South Wales Rugby Union has issued a record of the New Zealand representative teams in their tours abroad, which discloses a phenomenal result.

In England they played 32 matches, all of which were won. They scored 719 points against 15, and All England was beaten by 15 to 0. In Scotland, two matches were played, and All Scotland was beaten by 12 to 7. In Ireland two matches were played and won, and All Ireland was beaten by 15 to 0. In Wales, five matches were played, and four were won; and in America 16 matches were played and won, scoring 610 points against 6. France was beaten by 38 points to 8.

In Australia in 1884, eight games were played and won, scoring 167 points against 17; in 1893, 10, 9, 173, 41; 1897, 10, 9, 1 lost, 229, 73; 1903, 10, 10, 276, 13; 1905, 3, 2, 1 drawn, 49, 11; 1907, 7, 5, 1 lost, 1 drawn, 96, 27; 1910, 7, 6, 1 lost, 112, 61.

The list shows that Australians have been the most successful opponents of the formidable "All Black," and Wales is the only other place in the world where the New Zealanders have ever been beaten.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Thursday.

Taranaki defeated Wellington to-day by 14 points to 10.

CHANGE IN TEAM.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Thursday.

In the New Zealand Rugby Union team for Australia, W. Lindsay (Southland) replaces P. Williams (Otago), who is unable to make the trip. Lindsay is in the front rank of players.

"THE ALL BLACKS."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I read with interest the letter by "Referee" in your issue of yesterday, and would add my congratulations to the union on the excellent idea of getting the "Old Reps." together. So much is heard of the great players of the past that it will be interesting not only for these gentlemen to meet one another, but also for the public to see the old heroes. The contests with New Zealand have always proved a great attraction to the lovers of the keen, strenuous game, and, according to criticisms, the coming "All Blacks" are likely to be quite up to the task of upholding the Dominion's reputation. I have seen all the visiting New Zealand teams for many years past, and, like other old followers, am anxious to see the matches next month. However, we cannot all get out to the ground at 2 o'clock, and I would like to suggest to the union that it reserve seats, for an extra booking fee, which will be gladly taken up by people situated as I am. The idea of reserving seats at football matches may be new to Sydney, but it is carried out in the old country, and also extensively in America, with great success. Should the union agree to this proposal it will find that patrons will be highly appreciative of its efforts. I am, etc.,

June 25. RESERVE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—At last the N.S.W. Rugby Union seems to be alive. The idea of grouping the old players together and season tickets are moves in the right direction. Also the picking of the big bunch of forwards so early, so as to enable the selection of the best eight possible to meet the world-famous New Zealanders is good. But why not go one step further, and select the backs as well, particularly if the idea is carried out in housing the team the last week? This would mean that the team could work and talk over the match together, especially if some of last year's team are included, they having had New Zealand experience, and having played against most of the selected New Zealand team. This is the only way in which we can hope to defeat the New Zealanders. If New South Wales can reproduce the form they showed the last 20 minutes of last Saturday's game, then the New Zealanders will know they have been playing, and New South Wales Rugby Union players have lost none of their dash. I am, etc.,

OLD PLAYER.

RANFURLY SHIELD.

WELLINGTON, Wednesday.

In the Ranfurly Shield Rugby Match, Taranaki (holders) beat Wellington (challengers) by 14 to 10.

RUGBY LEAGUE.

The British team will not play a second match at Newcastle on Saturday, as originally arranged. The combined Northern Districts (Newcastle, Maitland, Tamworth) team, which has already been selected, will now meet a Metropolitan thirteen. Messrs. A. C. Welch and S. Le Serve will manage the Sydney team, which will leave on Saturday morning, and play at Newcastle on that afternoon, and again on Monday.

The League has decided to co-operate with the "Rose Day" committee and assist that body in its appeal on behalf of Sydney charities.

Mr. T. McMahon will referee the second test match at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Monday. Mr. G. Hedley will have charge of the City-Country early game, and Mr. C. Brown will control the President Cup match on the same day.

FIRST TEST MATCH.

Reserves: Backs, Rex Norman (Annandale), H. T. Bolt (Newtown); forwards, J. Blinco (Balmain), S. Gray (Glebe).

South Sydney District First Grade Club will leave to-night, by the steamer Orara for Byron Bay, and will play exhibition games at the principal North Coast towns. The tour will extend over 10 days. Mr. S. G. Ball will act as manager, and Mr. A. Hennessey as referee.

WESTERN TEAMS.

BATHURST, Thursday.

The representative Western team to meet the British team at Bathurst on Wednesday, was last night amended by the selectors, Messrs. R. McKee and L. Critchley, and it will be noticed that E. Coyne (Orange) is included. The players now are:—Plowman (Orange), Bassett, A. Dawson, Allan (Bathurst), Lockhart (Orange), Trefry (Orange), Coyne (Orange), Haynes, Murphy (Orange), Reese (Lithgow), Gander (Orange), Smith and Moncrieff. This team, with the exception that Reed replaces Reese is the same as will represent Combined Western in Sydney on Saturday.

At the last meeting of the Orange League an intimation was received from the Bathurst League that the selection of the team to meet the Englishmen on July 1 was entirely in the hands of the Bathurst selectors. The Orange secretary was directed to inform the Bathurst League that unless the team to meet the British players was selected in the same way as the team to visit Sydney, the Orange players would not be given permission to take part in the match.

INTERCLUB ASSOCIATION AND THE LEAGUE.

QUESTION OF DEFECTIONS.

Speaking in regard to the statement published in the "Herald," that the League riders at present associating themselves with the two clubs forming the Interclub Cycling Association of New South Wales had not notified the League of their intention to break away from that body, Mr. R. E. O'Halloran, secretary of the I.C.C.A., yesterday stated that the League's financial year closed at the end of the month, and thus the absence of registrations would perhaps serve as sufficient notice.

"It seems strange," Mr. O'Halloran said, "if the League knows nothing officially of those defections that the secretary should write to all the individual members of the I.C.C.A., asking them which body they intend to follow. The glamour of racing before big crowds at the football matches has certainly influenced a number of riders to return to the League, among them being W. F. Roebuck, who, I understand, was one of the greatest agitators for the new body. Still, that kind of racing will not make for the ultimate good of the sport. We are working quietly and surely, and when the I.C.C.A. programme is announced in a week's time it will be seen that cyclists have been catered for in no paltry manner."

In order to test the strength of the new body, Mr. O'Halloran stated that he had called a meeting for next week, when the advisability of communicating to the League of Wheelmen would be considered.

BATHURST FEDERAL CLUB.

N.S.W. A.A. ASSOCIATION.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The monthly council meeting of the New South Wales Amateur Athletic Association was held at the Sports Club last night. The financial position of the association was discussed, but several motions submitted with a view to improving the association's position were rejected. A letter was received from the Australian Jockey Club, granting the use of the Randwick racecourse for the annual five-mile cross-country championship of New South Wales on Saturday, August 29. The secretary of the Eight-hour Day Sports committee forwarded a list of events to be controlled by the association at the annual gathering in October. A similar programme to that of last year was approved of by the council. Messrs. E. G. Foster and J. Joynton Smith were elected vice-presidents of the association. A communication was received from the Victorian association stating that the Australasian cross-country championship over a distance of 10 miles, would be decided at the Caulfield racecourse on September 26. The question of this State's representation was left over until the next council meeting.

In the pigeon section G. B. Thomas secured all the awards. W. Inglis was the most successful exhibitor in canaries.

During 1912 there was an increase of 5927 in the case of drunkenness in Scotland. Major A. G. Ferguson, Inspector of Constabulary, states in his annual report:—"It is to be regretted that enhanced prosperity causes so many to take their pleasure in alcohol."

ALEXANDER WATSON.

AS THE MERCHANT OF VENICE

It has been said that Alexander Watson, the eminent reciter, who opened his Sydney season with the "Merchant of Venice" in St. James's Hall, Phillip-street, last night, is "a repertory theatre in which all the characters are stars." And yet all the characters are taken by the one man—men and women, Jew and Gentile, he is at home with them all.

Mr. Watson opened at St. James's Hall last night, as he opened at the Y.M.C.A. Hall two years ago, with a number of empty seats—not many—in the hall. He will finish his brief season, as he finished it two years ago, with "standing room only." To see and hear him once is to go again, and to tell your friends to go. You will go a second time, because you will hear him in something else—to-night, for instance, he will be heard in "Nicholas Nickleby," and the world has no finer impersonator of Dickens's wonderful creations; you will go a third time to hear him recite Rudyard Kipling: and if you want something out of the way in realism, as he presents in the recital of John Masefield's great poem, "Everlasting Mercy," you will go a fourth time.

Last night's audience included many members of the Shakespeare Society, and the chair was taken by the president of the society, Mr. W. E. Hawkins, who rightly remarked that Mr. Watson needed no introduction. But Mr. Watson soon disappeared from view. In his place stood first one character in the famous play, then another—at times a number of them together. You saw them and heard them, each one separate and apart, and throughout the play you knew them by their voices. There was nothing but an ordinary stage curtain there, and yet you saw the Rialto as plain as any scenery could make it; you saw the interior and exterior of Shylock's house, Portia's home at Belmont, and all the scenes that were introduced. That is art—the art of Mr. Watson. Few others can do it—call up scenes and faces as he does.

Mr. Watson has his great moments, as all artists have. He was great, for instance, in the scene between Shylock and his friend, Tubal; Tubal, indeed, was wonderful; he was great in the casket scene, great in the court scene, though in the beginning of this last, perhaps, Shylock was not sufficiently "Jewish." The captious critic might also find some fault at times with Portia.

But, taken on the whole, it was a great effort.

When, at the conclusion, the president of the Shakespeare Society thanked Mr. Watson for the great treat, the audience applauded for several minutes. Mr. Watson, in replying, said that he was now free to confess that the recital had been given under difficult circumstances, for he had not been feeling well, and what Mr. Hawkins called a great effort had been a great effort in another sense.

CASUALTIES.

OLD MAN'S DEATH.

John Harm, an old man, living in Neville-street, Marrickville, was found dead shortly after midday on Wednesday. After having lunch, the deceased went out into a shed, and shortly afterwards a shot was fired. A six-chambered revolver was found on the ground. It contained five cartridges and one shell.

SUPPOSED POISONING.

Mrs. Thompson, 43 years of age, a visitor to Sydney from New Zealand, was found in an unconscious condition in her room in the Victoria Coffee Palace, Pitt-street, yesterday afternoon. The Civil Ambulance conveyed her to the Sydney Hospital, where Dr. Tozer pronounced life extinct. Alongside the woman was found an empty bottle, labelled "poison."

FALL FROM A LADDER.

A boy, named Charles Bignold, 16 years of age, fell from a ladder at the White Bay Steel Works, Balmain, a distance of 30 feet. He was picked up in an unconscious condition, and taken to the Balmain Hospital. His condition is critical.

CAUGHT IN A PLANING MACHINE.

Fred Houghton, 34 years of age, a carpenter, residing at Cowper-street, Waverley, was brought to the Sydney Hospital last night about 9 o'clock, suffering from an injured right hand. He had been working at a planing machine when his hand was caught in the machine. The third and little fingers were cut right off, and the second finger badly opened. Dr. Tozer attended to the sufferer, and he was subsequently allowed to go home.

ALPINE CLUB.

The coming season of the Kosciusko Alpine Club promises to be the most busy in the history of the club. The hon. secretary reports that arrangements are well in hand for the annual carnival to be held in July. Beside the two days' sports, a five miles cross country marathon race and a race to the summit of Kosciusko and back to the hotel, will be held. The latter race will be the longest and most important event ever held on skis in this part of the world.

AMUSEMENTS.

MR. HAROLD BAUER.

Mr. Harold Bauer, the distinguished pianist, arrives from Melbourne this morning, by the Limited Express, in readiness for his debut to-morrow night at the Town Hall. This artist is amongst those few upon whom the Royal Philharmonic Society of London has bestowed its gold medal.

THE DICKENS' FELLOWSHIP.

Numbers of members of the Dickens' Fellowship and their friends spent a really delightful evening at the King's Hall last night. The principal attraction of the evening was a representation, in costume, of that immortal case, "Bardell v Pickwick," from the "Pickwick Papers." Without any great pretensions, the scene was excellently done, and the exquisite satire on the legal world was thoroughly enjoyed. At least one member of the cast, Mr. L. Zions as Sergeant Buzfuz, would have been entirely in place in a representation of a far more pretentious order; and, having the principal role, he was very materially responsible for the success. Mr. E. Digby as Justice Stareleigh was also good, and his luminous summing-up created intense amusement, everyone, no doubt, feeling quite sure that in the days of Pickwick the law certainly was "a hass." Little Tommy Bardell, in the person of Master R. Welch, also created amusement by his restlessness and antics in the courtroom. Others in the cast were:—Misses Rogers, Zions, M. Cleland, Messrs. G. Fleming, J. Digby, A. Silberthan, A. R. Bailey, H. D. Jennings, Blashki, W. B. Rodd, and F. G. Crouch, who was splendidly got-up as the venerable Pickwick. In the early part of the evening Rev. George Walters gave a reading, "Mr. Pickwick's Skating Party;" and Miss Rogers recited "Mr. Pickwick's Midnight Adventure." A paper, "My Favourite Book," was read by Mrs. Goldrick. Judge Backhouse was amongst those present.

MISS PORTIA GEACH'S PICTURES.

Lady Cullen has consented to perform the opening ceremony at the exhibition of pictures by Miss Portia Geach (the well-known Sydney artist), which takes place at the studio of Anthony Hordern on Thursday afternoon next. Miss Geach has generously devoted one of her best efforts to the Royal Hospital for Women; Mr. Neville Mayman, on behalf of the society, having accepted the same.

BOXING.

THE STADIUM MATINEE.

Joe Shugrue and Kid Lewis, the two brilliant lightweights, who are to meet on Saturday, both appeared at yesterday's matinee at the Stadium. Lewis showed bewildering quickness and skill in a spar with Jack Taylor, and looked well. Shugrue also performed attractively in a three-round spar, though he appears to better advantage in a serious contest than in exhibition work. Numerous short spars were staged, and a ten-rounds contest was provided by Jimmy Holden and Reg. Sperris, the latter gaining the verdict.

THE BELL-WELLS MATCH.

MEN'S OVERCOATS.

THIS IS THE TIME FOR OVERCOATS.
WE SELL OVERCOATS.
THEY'RE GOOD ONES, TOO.
There is all the difference in the world between a Tailor-cut, well-fitting Overcoat and a cheap, shoddy garment, which fits you like a chaff-bag and looks almost worse.

Our Reputation is behind our Overcoats. They're New Century Brand, and that's a case of "Nuff sed." They are cut in the latest styles, the materials are the best English or Colonial Tweed—finish is all there. The only other desideratum is the price—and that is whatever you choose to pay. We can suit all pockets.

ANOTHER FRIDAY OF EXTRAORDINARY VALUES AT MARK FOY'S, LIMITED,

SO EXTRAORDINARY THAT SOME MAY DOUBT THE ACCURACY OF FIGURES GIVEN. THE ONLY WAY TO PROVE THEIR TRUTHFULNESS IS TO COME AND SEE THE GOODS. IF EVERY LADY WOULD DO THAT SHE WOULD NOT ONLY SATISFY HERSELF BUT BE THE GAINER TO THE EXTENT OF VERY MANY SHILLINGS SAVED ON NEW, SEASONABLE, AND DESIRABLE MERCHANDISE.

IMPORTANT SAVINGS TO EARLY BUYERS.

Ladies, this Column, Brimful of Bargains, tells of only a small fraction of the Attractions.

AMONG THE COSTUMES.

CHARMING STYLES AT PRICES THAT WILL AGREEABLY SURPRISE.

ITEM 1 IS A TABLE OF BEAUTIFUL MAIDS' and S. WOMEN'S COATS AND SKIRTS, at prices that will astound you. They are made in the very latest shapes, in Serges, Hopsacs, etc., in Navys, Creams, Saxe, Grey, Mole, Fawn, and Brown. They were originally priced at 29/11 and 39/11. OUR SPECIAL PRICE for this week is 19/11.

ITEM 2.—TABLE of LADIES' SAMPLE TAILOR-MADE COATS and SKIRTS, in various styles, all the newest. They are made in Serges, Tweeds, Cloths, in a good smart range of Colours. Some of them are honestly worth as much as 59/6. But Foy's are going to mark them at one price, and, bear in mind, this is the best line we have ever offered at 19/11.

SOME LOVELY COATS AND SKIRTS ARE TO BE HAD AT FOY'S THIS WEEK AT TWO "SPECIAL PRICES," viz., 39/11 and 42/.

LADIES, we are PLEASED to be able to offer you such SMART COSTUMES in quite the latest shapes at such a reasonable price. These values cannot be beaten. They are made in fine Twill Serges, Rough Naval Serges, and Tweeds, in Fawns, Browns, Saxe, Grey, etc., and all the styles contain the essence of refinement. The prices are 39/11 and 42/.

WE HAVE PICKED OUT FIFTY OF OUR MODEL TAILOR-MADE COATS AND SKIRTS, in the very smartest and newest shapes, received by us this season from London, Paris, and Germany. These we have greatly reduced in price, and any lady desirous of purchasing a high-class Model Coat and Skirt at a reasonable price should pay us a visit at once. Our Prices range from 89/6 to £8/8/.

FOY'S ARE CLEARING OUT ABOUT ONE HUNDRED LADIES' SILK "SPORTS" at reductions that will surprise you. They are the balance of our last shipment. The prices range from 29/11 to 49/11. There is a fine range of colours and styles to choose from, and the prices now are from 19/11 to 29/11.

SPECIAL TABLE OF LADIES' FULL-LENGTH TWEED and FULL-LENGTH NAVY PALETOTS. These, Ladies, we are sure will please you, for they have been greatly reduced in price, to form a Special Advertising item. To-day you can secure a beautiful Coat for 15/11.

FOY'S ARE CLEARING OUT A TABLE OF "ODD" COATS. These are numbers we are practically sold out of, and we intend to sacrifice the few that remain at any old price at all; in fact, Foy's Price is only 5/11.

MAIDS' COATS.

WE HAVE PICKED OUT 50 MAIDS' COATS, and specially reduced them so as to form a Special Holiday Attraction. They were cheap before they were reduced, but they are an absolute bargain at the reduced prices that range from 3/11 to 19/11.

ANOTHER SHIPMENT TO HAND OF FOY'S FAMOUS FULL-LENGTH KNITTED WOOLLEN COATS, at 9/11, 9/11.

LADIES, this will be the last we will be able to sell at this price. As you are aware, they are being sold at a great deal under "cost price." WHY, they cost 13/6 each TO PRODUCE, but Foy's bought them cheap, and we are selling them cheap. Colours, Navy, Black, Brown, Grey, Cream, etc. FOY'S HOLIDAY CLEARING PRICE is 9/11, 9/11.

ONE HUNDRED FULL-LENGTH KNITTED WOOLLEN COATS. These are very stylish, finished with silk, bound Black Braid, Edges, Sailor Collars, finished with smart metal buttons. They are the remainder of last season's Coats, and they were marked 39/11 each. As a Special HOLIDAY ATTRACTION, we have marked them 18/11.

NOW, LADIES, do you require a SMART WINTER COAT. If so, don't fail to VISIT FOY'S TO-DAY, for we are making a Special Clearing Price for 500 Smart New Season Coats in FANCY NOB TWEEDS, FANCY DIAGONAL TWEEDS, TEDDY BEARS, etc. All these Coats were PRICED AS HIGH AS 29/11, and more. They have ALL BEEN REDUCED to one price to keep out all competitors. These are less than wholesale cost, so they must be cheap at 18/11, 18/11.
